CROWD JEERS AS LONG FOES ARE CENSURED

"Kingfish" Makes Faces at Enemies.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Amid gusts of boos and hisses, volleys of "falsehoods," and thunderings of "contempt" the subcommittee of the senate of the United States inquiring into the fitness of Senator John H. Overton backed and tacked today in a typical Louisiana hurricane of political hate.

Through it all spectators, principals, and counsel kept shouting "falsehood" and Senator Huey P. Long made faces at witnesses when he especially disliked their testimony. Huey is backing the cause of Overton.

Wearied of it all, Senator Tom Connally of Texas, the chairman, who arrived today, announced tonight that the committee hereafter would conduct the investigation itself without help from any one. He followed this by issuing subpœnas for about a score of witnesses, among them one for Gen. Samuel Tilden Ansell, counsel for the committee at its last session here.

Calls Hearing a Farce.

Tonight former Senator Edwin S. Broussard, who is contesting Senator Overton's right to his seat, called the hearing a farce and declared he no longer would participate in it.

Spectators, witnesses, counsel and committee members began the shouting, bellowing, booing, hissing and facemaking almost as soon as the hearing was resumed and kept it up steadily until the hearing was adjourned upon the expulsion of Edward Rightor, counsel for Broussard. Later Senator M. M. Logan, acting chairman of the subcommittee, apologized to Mr. Rightor.

Senator Logan's ruling followed an announcement by counsel that he had lost all faith in the committee with the exception of Senator Thomas of Utah.

"Get out from before this bench and stay out," Senator Logan shouted and proceeded to read into the record the statement that Mr. Rightor's conduct had been so contemptuous that he would be reported to the whole committee "to see whether he shall be called before the bar of the senate for contempt."

Another Uproar at Inquiry.

"I am going to get out," shouted Mr. Rightor, pacing back and forth, shaking his right fist at Senator Logan. "I am withdrawing. You are not putting me out."

"But we will want you as a witness later," Senator Logan retorted.

"I am ready to testify now," Rightor replied.

Francis Williams, a Long political foe, rose in the audience and asked if he could ask the committee a question, but he was refused recognition. Williams persisted, and cried out:

"You can't hold this in contempt."

Crowd Jeers at Senator.

Senator Logan than began dictating a contempt citation to the official stenographer and the crowd burst forth with catcalls and hoots that enraged the Kentucky senator. Later the contempt citations against Williams and Rightor were canceled.

Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, chairman of the women's committee of Louisiana, requested that the senate committee's own investigator, John G. Holland, who denounced the committee yesterday, be called as a witness.

Senator Logan said he would let Mr. Holland testify if he wished and that he no longer could control Mr. Holland as he "apparently has become the boss of this committee."

Committee Will Remain.

Senator Logan said it was apparent an effort was being made to drive the committee from New Orleans, but the committee would remain and make an investigation, although "we have had no help from any one in Louisiana and not even from the committee's own investigator."

"We are here to hear evidence from witnesses, but the committee has not been supplied with a single witness," Senator Logan asserted.

Mr. Rightor said he had furnished the list of witnesses to the committee investigator and that he no longer had them.

"But we can't get them from the investigator," Senator Logan replied.

"Then why didn't you fire him?" asked Rightor.

Yellow Streak Down His Back.

"I would fire him in a minute if I were on a committee that he had said had 'a yellow streak down its back.'"

Later when Senator Logan apologized to Rightor he offered to resign as

IL DUCE KILLS CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM IN ITALY

Urges Other Nations to Follow Lead.

Europe's Cauldron

PARIS.—French chamber of deputies votes overwhelmingly for firm stand against Chancellor Hitler. Premier and foreign minister threaten "force" against Germany.

LONDON.—Great Britain announces program to build bigger warships. Says naval programs of United States and Japan make new policy necessary.

BERLIN.—Schism is feared in German Protestant church over ousting of three pastors by Nazi authorities and declaration that the crucifix will be discarded.

VIENNA. — American minister warns Austria not to encourage anti-Semitism if it wishes the sympathy and help of the United States.

ROME, Nov. 14.—(AP)—In what was called the funeral oration of capitalism and liberal institutions, Premier Mussolini today forecast the eventual abolishment of the Italian chamber of deputies.

Speaking before the powerful national council of corporations, he also advanced a program by which other nations could acquire corporative states. The chamber, he said, would be elected as usual next spring for another term of five years.

Afterwards, he went on, that legislative body must decide its own fate. It is perfectly conceivable that the national council of corporations should completely supplant the chamber, Il Duce said amidst enthusiastic applause.

Says Socialism Is Dead.

"The chamber of deputies has never pleased me," he explained. "In fact, this chamber of deputies is now anachronistic in its very title. It is an institution which we have found to be extraneous to our mentality and to our fashion as Fascists."

Saying that "today we bury economic liberalism" and that "all socialist parties in Europe are fragments," Mussolini suggested three conditions for other nations if they wished to achieve a corporative state.

First—A single party with perfect political discipline.

Second—A totalitarian state and a transformed "potentializing" of interests and hopes of the people.

Third—A period of very high tension.

Denounces Insull and Kreuger.

The premier denounced capitalism and named Ivar Kreuger, the late match king, and Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, as representatives of this system. The ideal of super-capitalism, he said, would be the standardization of the human mind to the level of the greatest.

The council of corporations, as the chief body of the corporative system, Il Duce said, must become a substitute for the chamber. The proposed reform will not be made immediately because there is insufficient time before the March elections, which, therefore, will be conducted as usual.

The rise of the corporative state he described as "coincident with the decadence of socialism," and he maintained that the new system could be adopted in foreign countries.

Sees Europe in Eclipse.

Turning to European affairs, Mussolini said the growth of the United States and Japan meant the eclipse of Europe.

Europe, however, he added, "could still progress if it would display even the least possible quantity of cooperation among its component nations."

He made a reference to the disarmament deadlock when he said that "progress cannot be achieved until great injustices have been repaired." His audience interpreted this as a reference to the treaty of Versailles, to which Germany objects in its stand for equality.

Delving deeper into the political situation, the speaker launched an attack on the league of nations and asserted that more and more hopes are being directed toward the four power agreement, signed last summer by Italy, France, Germany, and Great Britain.

Says League Has Lost Power.

"The league has lost most of its power," he maintained, pointing out

Varecha Sane, Faces Second Murder Trial

James [Iggy] Varecha, young killer and rapist, must stand trial a second time for the murder of Frank Jordan in a holdup on the south side last November. A jury in the Criminal court of Judge Benjamin P. Epstein found Varecha sane last evening after deliberating little more than an hour.

Defense Attorney W. W. Smith asked for a new sanity hearing and his motion was set for hearing Saturday morning. Judge Epstein said, however, that unless some new point of importance was introduced he would deny the motion.

State to Demand Death.

In case a new sanity hearing is refused, Judge Epstein said, Varecha will be arraigned immediately on the murder charge and the case will be set for an early trial. The state announced it would demand the death penalty for Varecha.

At his first murder trial Varecha pleaded guilty to the charge of killing Jordan and was sentenced to die in the electric chair. The state Supreme court reversed the decision and remanded the case for a new trial. The defense contended that as Varecha had been adjudged feebleminded in the Juvenile court before he committed the crime he was not legally able to enter a plea of guilty.

After the Supreme court's decision the defense raised the question of Varecha's sanity and this resulted in the hearing that ended last night with the jury's verdict.

Kills Jordan, Rapes Woman.

Varecha was a fugitive from the state hospital for the feeble-minded at Dixon when he shot Jordan to death and kidnaped and raped Jordan's woman companion last Nov. 16. If the jury had held Varecha insane he would again have been committed to a home for the feeble-minded.

The state closed its evidence at the sanity hearing with the testimony of Dr. Harry Hoffman of the Criminal court behavior clinic. Dr. Hoffman in answer to a hypothetical question testified that Varecha was a sane and normal person.

Peter Clark, a guard in the county jail, took the witness stand for the defense. He testified that he believed Varecha insane after watching the defendant's "strange actions" in his jail cell.

RED HAMBURGER LURES A BANDIT FROM HIS CAREER

George Kramer's one weakness is hamburger sandwiches—rare.

Yesterday George, who is 27 years old and lives at 1647 Cortland street, stopped Fred Kruger, 2108 North Cuyler avenue, a laundry driver, and announced he was starting on a bandit career and that Kruger was to be victim No. 1.

Kruger protested, persuasively, and bade George to reconsider. "Let's talk this over," Kruger suggested. "Let's sit down and have some hamburger sandwiches." To which the budding bandit agreed, and accompanied Kruger into a restaurant at 3957 Fullerton avenue.

At the table Kruger asked George how he liked his hamburgers cooked, well or rare. George chose rare, whereupon Kruger volunteered to step into the kitchen and tell the chef. To this George acquiesced and Kruger repaired to the kitchen, supposedly to order rare hamburgers. Instead he called police, who hurried to the restaurant and nabbed George.

Ask Religious Liberty Pact from Soviet

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Religious freedom for Americans in Russia has been asked by President Roosevelt as a condition in the recognition of the soviet government, it was announced today.

The President, it was learned, has informed Maxim Litvinov, foreign commissar of the soviets, that if the United States does recognize the Russian régime and Americans visit or settle in Russia, they should be entitled to worship in churches as they please.

The commissar's attitude toward this suggestion by the President was not disclosed. The soviets have suppressed religion in Russia, and have campaigned against all forms of religion.

May Open Way to Others.

It is understood that Mr. Roosevelt has the feeling that once American churches are established in Russia, other nationals in that country will be encouraged to seek religious freedom also. The President has kept his suggestions to Commissar Litvinov, however, entirely on a plane of American privilege.

While there was no suggestion that American recognition would be withheld if the soviet government refused to permit the establishment of American churches in Russia, it was indicated that President Roosevelt, who is an earnest believer in the salutary influences of the church, would hesitate long before he ever agreed to a pact which does not assure religious freedom.

Insists on Frank Arguments.

In this connection, it was learned that the dragging out of the conversations with M. Litvinov have been occasioned by the insistence of President Roosevelt that the agreement on recognition should include frank statements of the positions of both governments on the many issues which have long been in controversy.

While the religious issue has come to the forefront, and is one which has resulted in extended discussions between Litvinov and the President, there are other issues.

'Big 4' Dairies Threaten Cut Rate Milk War

A new milk price war in Chicago appeared imminent yesterday, when it was learned that the four big dairy companies, dubbed the "milk trust" by their critics, have threatened to go into the cut rate, cash and carry milk business on a city-wide scale.

Observers privileged to watch behind the scenes of the tangled milk situation predicted that the factional quarrel in which this threat was made, along with other internecine quarrels in the industry, sounds the death knell of the present milk marketing agreement for the Chicago milkshed under the agricultural adjustment act.

That agreement governs the machinery which was set up a few months ago in the hope that it would settle once and for all milk prices and trade practices in the Chicago area. Within the present week AAA officials at Washington have agreed that the agreement cannot be enforced with local conditions as they are now.

Independents in Hearing Today.

They have not told heads of the local milk industry of that conviction, but an intimation of it is expected to come today at a hearing at the United States courthouse in Chicago. There 77 small cut rate milk dealers will appear to answer charges of violating the marketing agreement.

This is an announced effort to enforce the code, since the dealers, if convicted, face loss of their licenses to operate, with subsequent penalties as high as $1,000 a day if they persist on doing so. But advices from Washington are that these independents will be allowed ample time to make their defense, that injunctive processes permitted by the law will not be used against them.

This allowance of due process of law to the defendants means that their cases may drag on in the courts for months, and that they may keep operating. With only about two-thirds of the milk sales of the Chicago area represented by signatories of the marketing agreement, AAA officials have admitted privately that it would be futile to attempt more drastic regulatory measures.

Five Factions Among Dealers.

The case of the 77 cut rate dealers, and of 33 other independent concerns against whom similar charges were heard recently in Washington, is only one of the trouble spots in the milk situation, however. Disregarding the farmers who produce the milk, the labor which bottles and distributes it, and the consumers who pay for it, there are at present in the milk situation five factions among the dealers alone.

The antagonism among these groups is stirring up the present trouble, observers say, but they point out that each of the quarrels among the dealers is a potential source of further trouble, due to its reaction on the interests of farmers, labor unions, or consumers.

Among the dealers there are first four big dairy companies in Chicago. These are the Borden Farm Products Company of Illinois, its subsidiary, the Wieland Dairy company, the Bowman Dairy company, and the Sidney Wanzer Sons company.

Small Milk Dealers' Group.

The next two groups are small milk dealers who are complying with the marketing act and charging 11 cents a quart for milk, as it prescribes. One of these groups comprises 136 dealers licensed to do business in Chicago. The other, larger in number, consists of suburban dealers. The small Chicago dealers employ union labor. Some of the small suburban distributors do not.

A fourth group is the cut rate dealers now being prosecuted for violation of the marketing agreement, which under the AAA applies to them even though they did not sign it.

Closely allied with these is a fifth group, consisting of some 550 milk

SUDDEN ILLNESS CLAIMS LIFE OF CHICAGO LEADER

Former Head of U.S. Shipping Board.

Edward N. Hurley, manufacturer, financier, and wartime chairman of the United States shipping board, died suddenly in the Passavant Memorial hospital last night. He was 69 years old.

The cause of Mr. Hurley's death was leukemia, complicated by a sudden attack of pneumonia, his physicians said. He had been ailing recently from leukemia, a disease in which too many white corpuscles are present in the blood, but his condition had not been considered dangerous. He returned on Sunday from Washington, D. C., to his home at 1500 Lake Shore drive, and at that time appeared to be in good health.

On Monday he complained of a slight cold, which grew worse during the night. Yesterday morning it was found that the cold had developed into pneumonia. His son, Edward N. Hurley Jr., took him to the hospital in an ambulance.

Oxygen Room Tried in Vain.

At the hospital Mr. Hurley was attended by Dr. Charles Elliott and Dr. Philip Kreuscher. Despite their efforts his condition became worse and he soon sank into a coma. During the afternoon the doctors placed him in a special oxygen room in a last effort to halt the advance of the disease. Even this failed, and shortly after 7 o'clock last night he died.

His three sons, his daughter, and his two daughters-in-law and son-in-law were with him at the end. They are John Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Hurley Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ryan. Mr. Hurley's wife was killed 14 months ago when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a train.

Wide Variety of Interests.

Mr. Hurley's interests were varied. In business he was chairman of the board of the Hurley Machine company and co-receiver with Charles McCulloch of the Middle West Utilities company. Under President Wilson he was chairman of the federal trade commission, head of the shipping board, and president of the Emergency Fleet corporation.

In 1928 he went abroad as an ambassador of good will for A Century of Progress, and it was largely through his efforts that many foreign countries participated in the Fair. In 1931 and 1932 he headed a non-partisan citizens' committee which last year brought to Chicago the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

A Native of Galesburg.

Mr. Hurley was born on July 31, 1864, in Galesburg, Ill. He was educated in the public schools there, at Knox college and at the University of Notre Dame.

The turning point of his life—and also that of one phase of industry—occurred in 1896 when, while walking in Chicago's loop, he met an old friend, Mart Kimman. Mr. Hurley and Kimman years earlier had worked together on railroads. At the time they met in Chicago Mr. Hurley was an agent for the U. S. Metallic Packing company of Philadelphia.

Kimman told Mr. Hurley that he and his brother were working on a piston air drill. He asked Mr Hurley's aid. It was given. The result was the pneumatic tool which Mr. Hurley later developed in America and Europe. He organized the Standard Pneumatic Tool company.

Gets Money in England.

But Mr. Hurley could not finance the tool business here. He went to London and there sold his British patent rights for $125,000.

In 1902 Mr. Hurley sold his interests in the tool company for $1,257,000, and retired. A few years later he became president of the Hurley Machine company, which manufactures washing machines and other household appliances.

Mr. Hurley's participation in government affairs started in 1912 when he was appointed United States trade commissioner to the Latin-American republics. In the same year he was named to the federal trade commission by President Wilson and eventually was appointed chairman.

In February, 1917, he resigned that post to return to his Chicago business, but President Wilson drew him back to Washington as head of the shipping board. Under Mr. Hurley's direction, 250,000 men worked on emergency ships to carry troops, munitions and supplies to France.

He also took over the Emergency Fleet corporation. In 1919, when he resigned, President Wilson said to him: "No one ever served his country's interests more devotedly than you did." Later Gen. Pershing decorated him with the Distinguished Service medal.

Called to Paris Conference.

During the peace conference Mr. Hurley was called to Paris and was made a member of the conference committee on international labor legislation. In 1924 he served as a member of the American world war debt funding commission.

In the last ten years he was mentioned for a number of important Washington posts. He received numerous decorations for his war and peace work. The Catholic church, of which he was a member, in 1926 conferred on him the Laetare medal.

Four years later he gave $200,000 to the University of Notre Dame to erect a college of foreign and domestic commerce. In this he remembered the British aid given him in 1896 by providing British scholarships to the college.

Author of Several Books.

Mr. Hurley wrote several books on trade and industry. Among them are "The Awakening of Business," "The New Merchant Marine," and "The Bridge to France." He was a member of numerous clubs and was at one time president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. He held directorships in many companies.

In addition to his town home, Mr. Hurley maintained the Hurley Farms in Wheaton where he engaged in farming and stock raising.

SUE TO SET ASIDE $1,000,000 WILL OF WILLIAM H. VEHON

A suit to set aside the will of William H. Vehon, one time president of the Royal Tailoring company, was filed yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan. The will was admitted to probate on Nov. 19, 1932, but the estate, the value of which was estimated at nearly $1,000,000, has not been settled.

Contesting the will are Harry Vehon, 5226 Everett avenue, a brother of Vehon, and Miss Florence Strumpf, 7047 East End avenue, a niece. They claim, in the bill filed by Attorneys S. R. Rabinoff and A. F. Beaubien, that Vehon was not of sound mind at the time the will and two codicils were drawn and that he was for ten years preceding his death "kept in constant fear of outbreaks of temper" on the part of his wife, Mrs. Tillie Goodkind Vehon. Mrs. Vehon, under the probated will, receives all except $40,500 of the estate. The plaintiffs in the new suit contend that the real value of the estate is $2,000,000 or more.

Attorney Samuel Hirsch, representing the widow, referred to the plea as a "nuisance suit." There was no question of the legality of the will or the soundness of the mind of Vehon, he said. Mrs. Vehon asserted an attempt to get a settlement without a suit had been made. She added that she would fight the case to a finish.

Harry Vehon was left $500 and Miss Strumpf $1,000 in the will. Other relatives were granted bequests for a total of $4,500, and charitable institutions received $34,500.

Vehon, who was 72 years old, died Sept. 22, 1932, at his home, 128 Lake avenue, Highland Park.

CHRISTMAS TOYS TO GO ON SALE NEXT SATURDAY

The annual Christmas display of toys in Chicago stores will be opened next Saturday in nearly all the loop and neighborhood stores, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Association of Commerce. In previous years the date for toy opening has been about ten days later.

Among the trade groups coöperating with the association are the State Street council, the Chicago Department Stores council, the Englewood Business Men's association, the Woodlawn Business Men's association and the Independent Retail Dry Goods association.

One of the objects is to speed up buying to prevent a letdown of employment and commercial activity following the closing of the World's Fair.

acting chairman in favor of Senator Thomas.

When Rightor was called to the stand he was close to Senator Logan and their tempers showed strain. Then Senator Logan turned to Rightor and said:

"I want to apologize to you. It is not my disposition to clash, but your nerves get frayed. I will ask the clerk to strike my remarks out of the record.

Glad to Retire as Chairman.

"I would be very glad to retire as chairman of this subcommittee. Senator Thomas is here beside me, and I will be glad to let him act as chairman."

Mr. Rightor testified that the files of the committee showed that on behalf of a newspaper, which he did not name, the chairman of the state tax commission had sent to large advertisers contracts in blank for advertising in that newspaper. The tax commission, he explained, controlled assessments.

Mr. Broussard then arose and addressed Senator Logan:

"You have said one thousand times that no evidence has been presented. You have the evidence, gathered at the request of the late Senator Howell [Rep., Neb.]."

Howell First Chairman.

Senator Howell was the first chairman of the committee. He held hearings in New Orleans last winter with another member of the committee, Senator Carey [Rep., Wyo.]. Senator Howell died shortly after he returned to Washington and before he could submit his report to the senate.

"We have received the villification of both sides," Senator Logan said. "Senator Broussard, you are a fair man. If you had a clerk who refused to turn over the evidence to you, would you go and look him up?"

"No, I'd remain at home. You are stopping at the same hotel with your investigator."

"Mr. Holland has said he will give the evidence to no one except upon orders of the committee chairman, Connally. I am only chairman of this subcommittee."

It was repeated that Holland had the evidence and then Mr. Williams called out that he had evidence. He was called to the witness stand.

Williams Says Long Lied.

"Senator Long lied yesterday when he said 'dummy' candidates were not used in New Orleans," Williams said. "Broussard had four candidates, the other side had 21 candidates.

"In the 262 voting precincts in New Orleans Broussard had only 200 commissioners, the other side had 1,110.

"In the files of this committee are affidavits and statements from approximately 175 witnesses."

Senator Overton objected that Williams was testifying from hearsay.

"You didn't produce your witnesses and evidence at the previous hearing," Overton said. "If you have evidence, why don't you call your witnesses."

"I'll produce them," Williams shouted.

Senator Logan told him to have them on hand for tomorrow and then adjourned the meeting.

Before Rightor took the stand, Senator Long testified as to how he kept his "political fences" repaired.

"I wish we didn't have a single job on earth," he said.. "You give a job to one man and make nine mad. I got more votes out in the country when I didn't have any jobs to give.

"We built our political fences all the time. I think there were men fired and hired on both sides. Our opponents had jobs too, you know. Since we do have jobs, it is better for your friends to have them than your enemies."

Mrs. Hammond, chairman of the women's committee seeking to unseat both Long and Overton, jumped up to call Senator Long a "liar" when he said her husband had held two state jobs before he (Long) "kicked him out."

"You are telling a falsehood and putting it in the record," Mrs. Hammond said heatedly.

"I have the checks," Long answered.

"You said you fired him, that is not true. The attorney general ruled it was not a case of dual job holding," Mrs. Hammond retorted.

Senator Long, under the questioning of acting Chairman Logan, admitted that dummy candidates were used in about one-third of the 1,443 precincts in the state in the Overton-Broussard primary but claimed that Overton got the heaviest vote in the precincts where they were not used.

The Broussard faction claims that by means of its great funds the Long group was able to finance dummy candidates and thus get an unfair number of watchers at the polls. In many precincts they claim only Long commissioners were present.

Senator Long had denied that jobs had been promised in the campaign to influence the vote but under questioning admitted he had given one man who threatened to be a candidate against his faction a position. "Senator Long, did you once say that you had a ring in the nose of the Democratic party and that this investigation would amount to nothing?" Senator Logan asked.

"Not I," replied Long.

Questioned about the charge that he had subsidized newspapers, Senator Long said it had been his practice to help his friends and claimed he had written editorials for the States and the Times Picayune on "their own typewriters and suggested editorials to the Item, but by the time they got to fooling around with them at the Item they weren't much."

The senator volunteered the information that "116 federal investigators of the internal revenue department were sent down here during the Hoover administration to scare us, and they even threatened me with this and that, but we don't scare. They didn't find a thing on me and this committee has been probing here for a year."

Upon the arrival of Senator Connally a conference between the subcommittee and Holland, its investigator, was held to discuss evidence and the charges made yesterday by Mr. Holland that the hearing was being held only to exonerate Senator Overton, and that Senator Connally was "yellow." Before going into conference the Texas senator denounced Mr. Holland's charges as "vile, scurrilous, and untrue." After the meeting he said that all had been serene and that the subcommittee had examined the evidence in Mr. Holland's files.

RUSSIANS CHARGE U. S. OFFICIALS HAMPER RECOGNITION PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 14.—The mutual reticence of President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar, concerning the progress of recognition negotiations at Washington continues to worry Moscow. Reports of soviet press correspondents at Washington reiterate allegations that members of the American state department are blocking the bolshevik diplomat's efforts to achieve recognition without concessions on debts and other questions in dispute.

According to the corespondent of the Moscow Pravda, optimistic predictions in a section of the American press about early recognition did not come from the state department. He said powerful groups are actively working behind the scenes to inject questions into the present discussions which have no concern with the renewing of normal relations.

Pravda says it has authentic proof that the Catholic church is making a stiff fight to prevent recognition of the soviet government by the United States.

Pravda quotes THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which, it says, is known throughout America for its anti-bolshevik information, as reporting that the American Federation of Labor, the American Legion, and the Catholic church are still hostile to recognition of a régime which aims to overthrow the United States government by force.

MAYOR'S DESK TO BE IN LOBBY, SO ALL CAN SEE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 14.—(AP)—William N. McNair, Pittsburgh's first Democratic mayor elect in a quarter of a century, is going to have his desk in the city hall lobby.

Announcing another phase of his "new deal" administration which goes into effect Jan. 1, he said today:

"Don't want that big office way up on the fifth floor. I want to be right out there where everybody can see me."

He put an end to reports that he would go "high hat," and buy a limousine.

"What would I do with a limousine or a chauffeur?" he asked. "I've been riding street cars all this time and I'm going to keep it up."

VIOLENT QUAKE SHAKES CHILE AND ARGENTINA

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 14.—(AP)—An earthquake of almost major proportions rocked the city violently at 10:07 a. m. today. Thousands rushed screaming into the streets, but only minor damage was reported.

All central Chile was shaken by the tremor, which lasted one minute.

It was felt not only in the capital but in the seaport of Valparaiso and in dozens of smaller cities and villages.

The quake was accompanied by a subterranean roar. The shock was the most severe felt here in three years.

A few persons were reported injured when huge blocks of masonry and cornices fell from several buildings into the streets in downtown Santiago.

The high office buildings were emptied rapidly by their occupants as chairs were overturned, pictures fell from the walls and books slid out from their cases.

Argentina Is Rocked.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A violent earthquake rocked Mendoza and San Juan provinces at 11:10 a. m. today.

WOMAN KILLED IN CRASH.

Anniston, Ala., Nov. 14.—(AP)—An unidentified white woman was killed and 14 persons were injured, several of them seriously, eight miles east of here today as a loaded bus, en route from Birmingham to Atlanta, collided with a small touring car on a bridge.

FORECASTS 10° TODAY TO SET A COLD RECORD

Yesterday was the coldest day of the autumn in Chicago. The mercury declined steadily during the day and night, standing at 10.7 degrees above zero at the airport at 2:30 this morning. The airport reading is unofficial, the official temperatures being taken at the University of Chicago. The previous low of the season, 20 above, was recorded last Friday.

The forecaster, W. P. Day, indicated last night that the all-time official minimum of 12 degrees for fall dates earlier than Nov. 16, which was set on Nov. 13, 1911, might be eclipsed early today. A warning to protect shipments leaving the city against temperatures of 10 above, or even lower for those destined to the west and north, was issued.

Threaten to Shut Off Water from Wheaton Jail

The Du Page county jail and courthouse were threatened with a water famine yesterday as a result of the failure of the county supervisors to pay their annual water bill to the town of Wheaton. City authorities informed the supervisors that the water will be turned off today unless the bill, for $512, is paid. The county board claims rebates on previous years' water bills and referred the matter to a committee headed by Supervisor D. C. Hull with power to negotiate a settlement.

THREE INDICTED AS KIDNAPERS OF JAMES HACKETT

Grand Jury Hears Story of Double Abduction.

True bills charging three men now in custody with kidnaping James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, were reported to have been voted yesterday by the Cook county grand jury.

Julius Jones of St. Charles and Frank Souder of Benton were said to have been named in one true bill as having kidnaped Hackett on May 1, 1931. Those two and Gail Swolley of Peoria were reported to have been named in the second true bill as having kidnaped Hackett on May 27, 1933.

Hackett, his partner, James Blouin, who was formerly a bowling champion, and an associate, Frank Carney, appeared before the grand jury and are reported to have told of identifying members of the kidnaping gang. A court reporter and several policemen were said to have testified to hearing confessions.

Three of Gang Not Named.

The names of Jack Klutas, Edward La Rue, and Edward Wagner were not submitted to the grand jury, although they are declared by the authorities to have participated in the two seizures of Hackett. They have not been apprehended. The gang is reputed to have collected a total of $500,000 through a dozen kidnapings during the last three years.

State's Attorney Courtney appeared before the jury and told of the steps taken to capture the alleged kidnapers. Then he departed for Washington, leaving the presentation of evidence to Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and Edwin Spiro. It was said the prosecutors had decided not to ask for the indictment of Klutas, La Rue or Wagner until the men are captured. Prosecutor Coghlan said the state is ready now for trial of the three men who are in custody.

The grand jury declared that no bail should be accepted for the release of Souder, Jones, and Swolley pending their trial, because capital punishment is possible for kidnapers convicted in Illinois.

Hackett Tells His Story.

Hackett is reported to have told of being seized the first time as he left the Navajo country club west of Blue Island and of being held captive for several days in a house at Aurora. His wife and Blouin paid $75,000 ransom to a "man in a polo coat who wore colored glasses" and was believed to be Jones, according to his testimony. Mrs. Hackett is suffering from a nervous disorder and did not testify.

The second captivity of Hackett resulted in the payment of only $1,500, the grand jury was reported to have been told—correcting previous statements that $75,000 had been paid each time. Hackett was held again in Aurora, but in a garage, according to the testimony. He was released on his promise to pay and it was understood that Carney accompanied him when he paid $1,500 to Jones in Sycamore. his finger print classifications as well and promised to pay an additional $10,000 within a short time.

Hackett Reports to Roche.

Instead of paying the $10,000 it appeared that Hackett reported the kidnaping to Pat Roche, a private detective who was chief investigator for the state's attorney at the time of Hackett's first experience with the kidnapers.

Roche said yesterday that he undertook the capture of the criminals as a public duty and that when he had found the men he wanted he and detectives under State's Attorney Courtney made the arrests. He is still cooperating with the state's attorney in the hunt for the others.

Prosecutor Coghlan said he had learned that Klutas, a graduate of the University of Illinois and leader of the gang, had paid a plastic surgeon to alter his nose and other facial features. This information is believed to have come from Jones, who said he was originally a bootlegger and became a kidnaper only after he was seized for $2,000 ransom by Klutas' gang.

Klutas also sought to destroy the loops and whorls of his finger tips to prevent identification, Coghlan said. He is wanted for several murders and his finger print classifications as well as photographs of them are on file and have been broadcast to police throughout the country.

Writ Hearing Delayed.

The true bills will dispose of a writ of habeas corpus obtained by Attorney W. W. O'Brien for Swolley. Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court, who issued the writ, was informed that the true bills would be asked yesterday and he continued the case until this morning, to give the grand jury time to act.

Prosecutor Coghlan said he learned that the kidnapers had placed $100,000 in a safe deposit box to be used for their joint defense or bail in the event of the capture of any or all of them. Wagner, however, was the custodian of the money and he is at large. A large diamond taken from John J. Lynch, publisher of racing information, who was kidnaped in the summer of 1931, is also said to be in Wagner's possession.

While one drove away with the butter the others took Pons to 27th street and Ridgeway avenue, where he was released. The E. J. ## FIND CAR AFIRE; MAY BE FACTOR KIDNAPING CLEW

A green sedan which police believe was used in one phase of the Jake Factor kidnaping was found burning last night at 103d street and 44th avenue, Oaklawn. The car was completely wrecked.

Sergt. Frank Lynch, sent to investigate the fire by Supervising Lieutenant Richard Barry of the detective bureau, reported back that the destroyed car resembled closely the machine from which Factor was ejected in La Grange by his kidnapers last July.

If this is true the kidnapers, Lieut. Barry said, obviously wanted to get rid of this bit of evidence. With indictments already returned against seven Touhy gangsters in the Factor case and further action pending, it would be a natural step, the lieutenant said. The motor number of the burned automobile was traced to James Pace, 751 North Central avenue, and the licenses to L. D. McKendry, 1603 Orrington avenue, Evanston. Pace reported his car stolen last summer. McKendry reported his plates stolen about the same time.

WITNESSES SAY THEY RECOGNIZE 3 OF 4 KIDNAPERS

U. S. Apparently Scores in Hamm Case.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The United States government in the Ramsey county courthouse today sought to identify Willie Sharkey, Roger Touhy and Eddie [Father Tom] McFadden as participants in the $100,000 kidnaping of William Hamm Jr.

The kidnaped brewer himself was an absentee, the ordeal of testifying before the four men on trial as violators of the Lindbergh law having sent him to bed in the care of a physician. His home is guarded by a picked squad of St. Paul policemen and a detail of department of justice operatives.

Only one of the four accused as snatchers now remains to be identified from the witness stand, Gustave [Gloomy Gus] Schafer. A farmer, from near Wyoming, Minn., will perform that duty probably tomorrow. His testimony will be that Schafer was driving the kidnapers' car the morning Hamm was released, following the ransom's payment.

Was Government's Day.

The one, two, three fashion with which the prosecution machine clicked today was interrupted only once, and then spectacularly. Leo J. Allison, a taxi driver, was called by the government to identify McFadden as the man who handed him a ransom note to deliver, recanted part of a signed statement made to federal agents last July 23, and the prosecution was forced to put him to cross-examination as a hostile witness.

He finally admitted, prompted by Judge Matthew M. Joyce, that "there is a strong facial resemblance."

With the exception of Allison, however, it was distinctly the government's day in court. The parade of witnesses started with Daniel L. Rush, timekeeper for a refrigerator company, who was a passerby at Greenbriar and Minnehaha streets a few minutes before Hamm was kidnaped at noon of June 15. He saw two abductors accost Hamm. He couldn't identify them, but he did point to Sharkey as chauffeur of "a big black sedan" in which Hamm, presumably, was driven away.

Druggist Identifies Touhy.

Clarence J. Thomas, proprietor of a drug store a block and a half from the home of William W. Dunn, sales manager for the Hamm brewery, identified Touhy as the man who left a letter demanding $100,000 for Hamm's release in a soda booth addressed to Dunn. His testimony was supported by that of Dr. Horace C. La Bissonierre, a dentist and member of the state legislature who was in the store at the time.

Touhy, posing as a customer for cigarets and some sulphur ointment, surreptitiously laid the letter on a table. Five minutes after he left the store the telephone rang and a man purporting to be Dunn asked that the letter be sent to his home. He said he had forgotten it. Thomas had it delivered by his clerk, Arthur Kleifgen.

Allison Important Witness.

Allison, the taxi driver, was a pivotal witness for the prosecution because of Hamm's conspicuous failure to identify McFadden. A stranger had stopped Allison on a downtown street the morning after the kidnaping and given him a note to deliver to Dunn. It informed the sales manager that Hamm had been kidnaped. Allison, taken to Chicago with other witnesses soon after the capture of the Touhys, had signed the statement in which he described McFadden as the man "I immediately recognized as being the same that handed me the note."

Today, on direct examination by United States District Attorney Sullivan, he repudiated any positive identification. The best Sullivan could get from him was that McFadden and the stranger with the note were "persons of the same type." He admitted he had once been positive, but that "since thinking it over I have changed my mind."

Is Cross-Examined.

Assistant United States Attorney General Keenan supplanted Sullivan and obtained the court's permission to cross-examine Allison as a hostile witness with "a view to impeaching his testimony." He had more success with him than Sullivan. Allison, who denied having been threatened or approached by any one, said he had merely concluded that McFadden did not resemble the stranger either in height or weight. He admitted there was a strong facial resemblance but that was as far as he would go.

"Are you surprised at this witness?" the court asked Keenan.

"Terribly surprised," exploded the fiery special prosecutor.

After fencing with Allison for an hour Keenan surrendered him to defense attorneys, who made much of the fact that because of "conscientious scruples" the witness was unwilling to accuse "Mr. McFadden of this act."

ARREST CHICAGO WOMAN.

On suspicion that she acted as cook for the Touhy gang in the William Hamm kidnaping, Helen Terry, 20 years old, was arrested last night in her apartment at 4915 Belle Plaine avenue. The arrest was made by Sergt. Joseph McDowell of the Irving Park station and Sergt. Walter Bailey of the detective bureau.

The police information, obtained from the government, was that Miss Terry cooked all the food eaten by Hamm and his abductors during his imprisonment last summer. Miss Terry denied this. She also denied any connection with the Touhy gang, although admitting she once met Roger Touhy, Eddie McFadden, and others.

A police squad later arrested two girls and two men as they entered the Terry girl's apartment. The four are Victoria Celter, 23 years old; Peggy Carey, 19; Herbert E. Wandtke, 26, of 4937 Grace street, and George F. Tribolet, 36, of 2554 North Kilbourn avenue.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 14.—(AP)—A district court jury today was locked up for the night after deliberating since early this afternoon in the case of Oscar M. Hartzell, promoter of the "Drake estate." Hartzell is charged with 12 counts of using the mails to defraud.

MERRY FAHRNEY DECIDES TO LIVE WITH NEW MATE

Heiress Announces She Has Given Up Chilean.

Mrs. Merry Fahrney Parker-Pickering Eiszner, 22 year old heiress to a part of the patent medicine fortune left by her grandfather, Peter Fahrney, announced last evening that she had "given up" George di Georgio of Chile and intends to live with her new husband, Frank V. Eiszner. The Fahrney heiress and young Eiszner eloped last Friday morning to Aurora, where they were married by a justice of the peace.

The bride's announcement was made from her room on the fourth floor of the Edgewater hospital while her new husband stood beside her bed. Mrs. Eiszner is recovering from injuries incurred when the automobile in which the wedding party was returning to Chicago overturned. Eiszner's brother was killed in the mishap.

Mrs. Eiszner was taken to the hospital immediately after the accident. For several days it was reported that she had told friends she never would live with her new husband and that she intended to marry Di Georgio, who had sailed from New York ten days ago at the request of immigration authorities.

Rumors Are Contradicted.

These rumors were contradicted last evening by the announcement which was given out by a friend of Mrs. Eiszner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Fahrney of 400 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park. Calling a reporter into Mrs. Eiszner's room the friend said:

"Mr. and Mrs. Eiszner sincerely love each other and have decided that the marriage is a very good thing. They intend to live together as man and wife. Whatever the talk about George di Georgio, he now is a thing of the past."

Mrs. Eiszner's blonde hair was carefully combed out upon her pillow and she smiled on her husband as she added:

"I've known Frank for five years. Our marriage was not contracted upon the spur of the moment. I'm glad that we can live together happily without any more of this terrible publicity."

Phones News to Parents.

"Yes," said Eiszner, "this is our own decision to live together as man and wife. I intend to provide and plan for our own home. I have no definite plans at the moment but we are going to live here in the city. I have either telephoned or visited my wife every day since our marriage."

While the young couple were speaking the family friend picked up a telephone at Mrs. Eiszner's bedside and put through a telephone call to the Fahrney home. Speaking to Mrs. Fahrney he explained the decision of her daughter and son-in-law.

"I am very, very glad to hear of it," replied Mrs. Fahrney.

When she was told of her mother's words, Mrs. Eiszner said: "I knew that my parents would be happy because they know I have always loved Frank.

"There never was any rift between me and my parents. They simply told me to wait when I wanted to marry Di Georgio. Some one must have gotten it all twisted."

Mrs. Eiszner said that stories about her cablegrams and long distance telephone calls to Di Georgio were greatly exaggerated. She said that she had spoken to him once when he called from Santiago, Cuba, and had informed him of her marriage.

Mrs. Eiszner said that she was feeling "much better" and added that she would leave the hospital as soon as her physician, Dr. Maximilian Kern, would allow it.

The groom is the son of John F. Eiszner of 536 Lathrop avenue, River Forest.

GERMAN CHURCH SPLIT AS NAZIS DISCARD CRUCIFIX

Ousted Pastors Plan New Religious Body.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A schism among German Protestants was feared in high church circles tonight as a result of the suspension of three pastors and the declaration of a Nazi German Christian leader that the crucifix will disappear from German Protestant churches.

The Revs. Martin Niemaeller and E. F. Rabernau were ordered suspended from their pastorates for "offering resistance to the National Socialists and the German Christian spirit regarding the necessary reconstruction of the German Evangelical church."

Last Saturday a suspension order involving the two was revoked supposedly because of fears that voting in a national plebiscite on foreign policy would be adversely influenced.

Plan to Organize Free Church.

The pastors and their followers said they planned to organize a free Evangelical church that would obey the Hitler government politically, but would draw up its own church constitution.

The Rev. Mr. Niemaeller went to Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller and demanded the Rev. Joaquim Hossenfelder, president of the Nazi German Christian movement, and all members of the supreme church council who attended a meeting at the Sports palace last night be removed from office.

It was at that meeting that Dr. Reinhold Krause, chief of the Berlin section of the Nazi German Christians, declared that:

"The crucifix is to be discarded. Everything that sprang from the alien spirit must be removed from the German people's church—be it ever so old and apparently venerable.

Exclude Old Testament.

"The holy places of Palestine must not be visited, but instead those of Germany.

"The Old Testament must be excluded and palpably misrepresenting or superstitious reports of the New Testament stricken out.

"In the German church, men of alien blood have no place—either on or under the pulpit."

The Evangelical Supreme Church council suspended Dr. Krause from all church offices, effective immediately, "for his speech, which was contrary to the basic creed of the Evangelical church."

Meanwhile the Rev. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, former Evangelical bishop of Germany, and all Lutheran bishops, including the Nazi Lutheran bishop of Westphalia, agreed to come to Berlin tomorrow, Bishop Mueller having promised to reply to Niemaeller's demands at that time.

Calls Utterances Heretical.

Bishop Mueller, according to Niemaeller, agreed that utterances at the meeting last night were heretical and intimated that he would suspend Rossenfelder.

Since the supreme church council attended the massmeeting Dr. Krause's sensational speech was regarded in Protestant circles not as the utterances of an individual but as the view of those in the Prussian church circles.

Niemaeller and Rabernau face disciplinary proceedings. The former was a submarine captain at one time and won the iron cross for bravery in the world war.

Niemaeller's ousting on Saturday was caused by his stand against anti-Semitism in the church. In this connection it was indicated at the session last night that the German Christians intend to enforce anti-Semitism within the church so relentlessly that baptized Jews or persons with some Jewish blood may not even attend services with Aryan Christians.

Pastor Scharf of Saxen-Hausen also was suspended today from his pastorate. In their plans for a new church body the pastors plan to raise their own funds and establish a self-governing body patterned after churches in the United States.

Niemaeller told Bishop Mueller that he refused to obey the suspension order, issued by Hossenfelder.

Bishop Mueller sharply disavowed the suggestion that extremists in the Nazi Christian movement had ordered reich church officials to issue special instructions immediately to pastors on church boards "admonishing them of their duty to stand up for the purity of the doctrine."

Bishop Is Angry.

Referring to the strictures against the crucifix and the Old Testament raised at the sports palace meeting, he said: "I will never tolerate such heresies in the Protestant church. They represent the abolition of the Bible, which is the church's eternal foundation.

"Only one church, preaching the true, unadulterated gospel, can serve the community of the third reich as pleases God."

Branding the proposed expunging of the Old Testament as a misconception of Martin Luther's spirit, the Reichsbote said:

"We protest against the haggling about the Old Testament, from which it is proposed to select parts to make up a new representation of Christ.

"We likewise protest against any misrepresentations tending to belittle the saving grace of Christ crucified and resurrected. Such things we regard as heresies destructive to the church."

GERMAN WOMEN TOLD BY NAZI CHIEF TO BAN PAINT AND POWDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Instructions to German women on how they should try to create an impression of youthfulness were issued today by their masculine leader, Dr. Krummacher, official chairman of Nazi womanhood. He signed a proclamation backing up a recent decree by Capt. Ernst Roehm, chief of the storm troopers, who told his braves they should attempt to reform women addicted to paint and powder.

"Women who pluck their eyebrows, paint, powder, use lipstick, dye their hair, adopt eccentric mannerisms and smoke in public to attract attention belong to an older generation which is dying out," Krummacher said. "Youth does not understand their attitude. This does not refer only to those young in years but also to the young in heart who know that to be young means to be natural and therefore they will abstain from artificial aids."

FAMOUS GERMAN SURGEON KILLS WIFE AND SELF

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Prof. Arthur Wold Meyer, 48, chief surgeon of the West End hospital, shot his wife and himself dead at their home today.

He was one of the best known surgeons in Germany. In 1929 he went to Italy to perform the successful operation on Mrs. Gene Tunney, wife of the former heavyweight prize fight champion of the world. He acted during the war as body physician to Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria. He came to Berlin twelve years ago and established a remunerative practice. Since July he had been chief surgeon of the West End hospital. His father was a noted pharmacologist of Vienna university.

AUSTRIA WARNED BY U. S. NOT TO PERSECUTE JEWS

Sympathy Will Be Forfeited, Envoy Cautions.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Nov. 14.—The American ideal of racial and religious tolerance was pointedly proclaimed in this anxious corner of troubled Europe today through the voice of George H. Earle III., American minister to Austria. In a public statement he declared, with an emphasis uncommon in diplomatic utterances, that countries engaging in racial and religious persecution can expect neither American sympathy nor American trade.

"It is well known," he said, "that 95 per cent of the population of my country or their ancestors emigrated to America to escape racial or religious intolerance, and it is thus obvious that Americans could never have sympathy for countries in which such persecution still prevails.

"Every country is quite free to adopt anti-Semitic policies if it likes; that is the prerogative of sovereignty. But America is also free to extend its sympathies only to countries where persecution for reasons of race and religion are impossible."

Calls in the Press.

The minister called in first the American and then the Austrian press. To the latter he dictated a long statement which many Viennese papers are featuring tomorrow morning.

Austrian and foreign diplomats thus conclude that an American policy which may have far reaching results has been launched intentionally by the state department in a capital where it would seem highly pertinent in view of the pronounced anti-Semitic views of some members of the Dollfuss dictatorship and Austria's political and geographical situation in relation to Hitlerland.

Mr. Earle had just returned from a tour through this little land which has been fighting for its existence against Nazi Germany. He voiced American sympathy for Austria and said he is leaving for home shortly to confer with President Roosevelt and business leaders on means of disposing of more Austrian exports in the United States so as to strengthen Austria economically in her struggle.

Finds Little Anti-Semitism.

He said he has gone about everywhere asking as to the extent of anti-Semitism, but found very little outside Vienna.

"How you run your internal affairs is your own business," he said, "but as an American I am very much interested in this problem. I can speak freely about it because I am 100 per cent Nordic, 75 per cent American and 25 per cent Prussian in origin. I have no drop of Jewish blood."

Then, after voicing his explicit warning about American sympathies being denied a people with persecutory manias, he went on:

"One reason why Austria enjoys so much sympathy in America is that we know Austria is liberal in these matters. Austria's popularity in the world is one of her greatest assets."

Earle's statement is clearly a warning that an anti-Semitic outburst here would bring his efforts to improve Austria's trade to naught.

Prince Is Jew Baiter.

Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, leader of the pro-Fascist heimwehr, and other members of the Dollfuss "Fatherland front" are great Jew baiters. Chancellor Dollfuss himself has denied that any formal anti-Semitic policy is in prospect.

Some quarters suggest that Earle's statement was made in cahoots with Dollfuss to strengthen his hand against the anti-Semitic ambitions of his heimwehr allies. Reports circulated today, however, from well informed sources, that the government is rushing plans to set up guilds in such professions as journalism where the Jews predominate and that the guilds will immediately enact numerous rules which will lead to exclusion or curbing of the Jews.

The government organ, Reichspost, states that 95 per cent of Viennese journalists are Jews.

IL DUCE KILLS CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM IN ITALY

that the first nation to support it had not joined the league. He did not mention the United States by name.

Russia, Germany and Japan have withdrawn, he pointed out.

"At present there is a great silence about the four power pact," he went on. "Nobody talks about it but everybody is thinking about it."

This remark was loudly applauded, the audience taking it as an indication that Italy will concentrate efforts to bring the powers together under the auspices of the agreement.

Assails Chamber of Deputies.

Returning to the internal situation, Il Duce waxed bitter regarding the chamber and accused it of "arrogance."

He said it "had lost the principal reason for its existence."

Then he turned his fire on capitalism, which, he said, "lacks the sense of humanity."

The Italian state, Mussolini went on, "is a human state in which bureaucracy is not a diaphragm between the people and the state but the entrance to the state."

At the conclusion of the address the council unanimously approved yesterday's order by Mussolini providing for the establishment of a new corporative state.

KILLED BY AUTO FUMES.

Albert Henry, 52 years old, 6216 South Carpenter street, a Negro, was found dead in the garage near his home yesterday, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning.

GERMANY ORDERS STERILIZATION OF SEX CRIMINALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Chancellor Hitler's government today issued a batch of new decrees. Most of them dealt with penal code reforms and marriage laws. One decree "castration of those guilty of sexual crimes and castration of habitual criminals."

The decrees also provide more drastic punishment for crimes, including cruelty to animals and vivisection. Intoxication no longer will be tolerated as an excuse to reduce the severity of punishment.

The new drive on crime will be aided by more drastic legislation, the Hitler cabinet ruled. Habitual criminals, it was announced, may be expelled from Germany.

HECKLERS SHOUT DISAPPROVAL OF HITLER DEFENDER

Berlin Savant Explains Why Books Were Burned.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

A dramatic outburst occurred during the "sympathetic interpretation" of the Hitler régime in Germany, given before the Chicago council on foreign relations yesterday by Dr. Frederich Schonemann of the University of Berlin. However, a firm check was kept by the chairman, George Richardson, on the restive element in the crowd that almost filled the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

Chairman Richardson in introducing the speaker, reminded the guests that "the council has no policy, domestic or foreign; we vouch for no facts and we support no contentions." The divided sentiment, however, flared into loud heckling when a question period arrived following the address proper, especially when Dr. Schonemann took up the matter of the burning of books by Nazis.

Burn Pornograbpic Books.

To the book burning query he answered that unfortunately "a tremendous flood of books on nudism and of a generally pornographic nature unfit for either juvenile or adult reading had inundated Germany, and these were burned." "I am sorry to say," he added, "that the authors of many—of a majority—were Jewish."

"How about Helen Keller's books? How about Einstein's?" came shouts from different parts of the room. Dr. Schonemann tried to say that he was giving only the facts, but the storm all but drowned out his words. In the balcony one man arose and yelled: "Just tell the truth! Don't lie."

Order was restored by Chairman Richardson, who apologized for the actions of the man in the balcony and reminded the heckler that if he could not observe the rules of the meeting he would be asked to leave. Dr. Schonemann appeared undisturbed by the interruption.

"No foreign books were burned," Dr. Schonemann continued. "I think I am correct in saying that none of Miss Keller's volumes was included."

Nation Unites Under Hitler.

Under Hitler, Dr. Schonemann declared, the German nation has been welded into a unity so firm that "it will not be possible any more to put a wedge between the people and the government."

Of the Nazi flag and the military spectacles and parades, he explained, "If you want to unite a nation that has been torn by class wars you've got to give them some symbol to unite under; these parades do not mean a military spirit."

Of rearmament in Germany, Dr. Schonemann said, laughing off the idea that it could have any threat for the peace of the world, "our rearmament could be only for defensive purposes, for we have not the money to purchase enough for offensive measures—we are far too poor."

The Jewish situation was discussed in answer to a question, having been alluded to only indirectly in the main address.

"This matter has not been one-tenth as bad as it has been painted," the speaker said, "and even now moderation is coming to balance the extremes to which the radicals went. Today there are many Jews in Berlin holding fine positions and who will continue to hold them. At the university I have good Jewish friends among both the faculty and the students, who have not been molested and will not be. A generation ago the Jews were warned by one of their own authors that if revolution ever came to Germany this very thing would happen.

Jews in Professions.

"It happened because, although they number only 1 per cent of the population, but by a system of cliques the Jews had monopolized whole fields of public endeavor. Let me show you—among our school physicians, 68 per cent were Jewish; among our welfare physicians, 68 per cent were Jewish; 38 per cent of the dentists were Jewish; 54 per cent of the lawyers; 80 per cent of the medical staff of one of the largest hospitals; 50 per cent of the teachers of medicine. In another hospital there were 450 staff members and only two or three were Gentiles.

"Then, too, when Hitler began his drive against the communists and Social Democrats, it was found that the leaders were nearly always Jewish, so that in throwing one force (the Nazis) against their strength that had terrified the nation, Hitler was unintentionally fighting Jews."

Dr. Schonemann characterized as another of Hitler's achievements the disruption of the Catholic Centrist party, which he stated did not represent the best phases of Catholic life in Germany and exerted pressure on all other parties.

CITY'S BUSINESS OPENS DRIVE FOR 1934 CONVENTIONS

The Association of Commerce yesterday announced the opening of a drive for another big convention year in Chicago, with the second year of the World's Fair as the attraction. William J. Hennessy, head of the association's convention bureau, said that all indications pointed to at least a normal year before the announcement that the Fair would be reopened.

An average of 800 conventions are held in Chicago each year, while 1,500 have been held this year, 1,300 of them during the World's Fair season.

The Edgewater Beach hotel announced that it already has booked 23 large conventions and J. A. Jones, manager, said the continuation of the Fair undoubtedly would bring a large increase in the convention business.

Mr. Hennessy said the low railway fares during the Fair made it possible for convention delegates to come here as cheaply as they could cities much nearer their homes.

SWITCHMAN'S FOOT CRUSHED.

Felix McWhirter, 45 years old, 8014 Princeton avenue, a switchman, suffered a crushed foot yesterday when he slipped and fell while coupling cars in the yards of the Belt Railway company at 94th street and Jeffrey avenue.

World's Fair Police Will Give Dinner Dance Tonight

The World's Fair police tonight will hold their last get-together of 1933 in the form of a dinner dance at the Hotel Sherman. T. A. Murray, general chairman, said yesterday that approximately 600 persons will attend. E. Ross Bartley, head of the promotion department of the Fair, was the guest at a dinner last night in the Stevens hotel. Hosts were the 52 members of the promotion department, who gave Mr. Bartley a gold clock.

SOVIET AND NAZIS GIVE '34 FAIR AN EXHIBIT PROBLEM

Warn of Propaganda if They're Admitted.

Congressional action, diplomatic participation, and the active coöperation of President Roosevelt—the same steps required before the opening of the 1933 Fair—will be necessary before A Century of Progress Exposition can be reopened in 1934, officials said yesterday. In line with this, it became known, two of the most involved situations with which the Fair has to deal are presented by Russia and Germany.

Although no official confirmation has been given, it was indicated that both nations have indicated their desire to participate in the 1934 Exposition. Neither nation, provided that Russia is recognized by the United States, could be refused participation. Considerable agitation both for and against participation has been stirred up in the case of both countries.

Fear Soviet Propaganda.

With Germany the main objection has been on account of the Hitler dictatorship and the Nazi attitude toward Jews. With Russia the fears and objections are deeper.

Fear has been expressed by business and political leaders that, in the event space was granted for a Russian exhibit, the Russian government would use the exhibit for propaganda purposes, in effect using the Fair itself in a campaign to undermine the type of government which made the Fair possible.

"The Fair has and will continue to avoid all controversial subjects," said Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, yesterday and this was the only official comment on the matter.

However, all contracts with concessionaires and exhibitors contain clauses whereby the Fair retains jurisdiction over exhibits and shows. By this means, it was pointed out, the Fair could cut out all propaganda by Russia and force Germany to avoid any exhibit that would tend to irritate American Jews.

The procedure to be followed in asking foreign participation in the 1934 Exposition will be an invitation by President Roosevelt, based on congressional action, to all the nations with which the United States has diplomatic relations. Thus no nation recognized by the United States could be barred.

Old Invitations Inadequate.

A similar invitation was issued for the 1933 Fair, but it is believed that this would not suffice for the 1934 Fair, and at any rate would not include Russia. U. Grant Smith, chief of protocol for the Fair, is now in Washington to aid in solving the Exposition's diplomatic problems.

No exhibit or concession contract has been accepted by the Fair at the present time although thirty odd applications have been made, Maj. Lohr said. Before the Fair can be reopened more than two thousand such contracts will have to be approved.

A meeting of business men was held at the Fair yesterday afternoon at which ticket guarantees were made for next year. Aside from this practically all activity at the Fair has ceased, although the officials will remain on the job during the winter, taking only two or three day vacations.

Fête Art Institute Officials.

The closing episode of A Century of Progress in Art, the official Fair exhibit in the Art institute during the summer, took place yesterday when officers and directors of the institute were guests at a reception and luncheon in the Blackstone hotel. The hosts were members of the Renaissance club, a Chicago organization devoted to reviving an interest in painting and sculpture.

Mrs. Marco Adrogna, as president of the club, headed the receiving line. The officials of the Art institute were complimented by the club on the exhibit.

BRITAIN ORDERS BIGGER WARSHIPS TO MATCH RIVALS

Says U.S. and Japan Make New Policy Necessary.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The British government announced today that it intended to build larger warships, within the limits of the 1930 naval treaty, to meet the construction programs of the United States and Japan.

The announcement was made in the house of commons by Sir Bolton Meredith Eyres Monsell, the first lord of the admiralty. He made the point that Japan and the United States were building bigger cruisers.

He said the admiralty had revised its 1933 program to include two new type 9,000 ton cruisers with increased armament and one cruiser of the 5,200 ton Arethusa class. He said the revision had been made "following the most anxious consideration and with much regret."

Churchill Calls U. S. "Two Faced."

Close upon the announcement of the new program Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, charged the United States with having a two faced disarmament policy.

In a speech at the Devonshire club tonight Churchill delivered a scathing attack upon all nations which are increasing armaments while participating in negotiations for disarmament.

"The United States made the most beautiful speeches of all," he said, "and also made the largest increases in its naval and air forces."

He said every country except Great Britain had increased its armaments and expressed the hope that Britain "would cut loose from the Geneva conference, which turned out to be not only an absolute farce and fraud, but also to have done very great damage to the relationships of the great European powers."

Recalling Germany's fight against the world in the great war, he said: "They are the most formidable people in the world, and now, I am sorry to say, they are the most dangerous."

Alarmed by U. S. Program.

Almost constantly, since President Roosevelt launched a United States naval program under the terms of the naval treaty, British leaders have shown alarm.

Stanley Baldwin mentioned the situation in his speech of Oct. 6 at Birmingham, and Admirals Beatty and Chatfield have raised their voices in support of a program for building up the British navy, pointing with concern at the United States.

This campaign reached its highest pitch on the anniversary of the battle of Trafalgar on Oct. 21, the British Navy day, when both Beatty and Chatfield spoke in favor of the traditional British command of the seas.

In his announcement to the house of commons, Eyres Monsell revived the long standing British argument over large and small cruisers. He pointed out that the United States and Japan, under the terms of the treaty, were quite entitled to build the ships which those countries had in contemplation and in actual construction.

However, he said, it would be the policy of the British government to restrict the vessels of the larger sizes as much as possible.

He recalled that the 1933 program included one cruiser of 7,250 tons and three of 5,400 tons, and that the admiralty had decided in favor of three larger cruisers rather than the four smaller ones previously contemplated.

Blames U. S. and Japan.

"It will be recalled that in July, 1932, the United Kingdom delegation at Geneva put forward proposals for a reduction of further cruisers to 7,000 tons, with a maximum gun caliber of 6.1, in the hope that this would generally be accepted," Eyres Monsell said. "Unfortunately neither of these hopes has been realized.

"In 1931 Japan laid down two cruisers of 8,500 tons, reputed to mount 15 six inch guns. It is learned she is now laying down two more of the same dimensions, and that the construction of yet another two, making six in all, is projected.

"The United States also has already announced an intention of building four cruisers of 10,000 tons, each with 15 six inch guns.

"If, therefore, our program already approved should be carried out, the new cruisers would be definitely inferior to those being developed by other powers.

"As the house is aware, however, our total cruiser tonnage is limited by the London naval treaty.

"The result is that we have been on the horns of a very serious dilemma. If we proceeded with our original program all cruisers we should be building would be definitely inferior to certain of the cruisers being built by other powers.

"If, on the other hand, we are to build any cruisers comparable with those vessels we must reduce our number from four to three. The first alternative could not be accepted."

U. S. PROTECTION UNWANTED, JAPAN TOLD BY QUEZON

He's Sure Tokio Won't Seize Philippines.

TOKIO, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Manuel Quezon, dominant political figure in the Philippines, declared today that a majority of Filipinos neither expected nor desired American military and naval protection after independence.

Quezon spoke at a luncheon given in his honor by the Pan-Pacific club. His audience was largely Japanese, but United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew was in attendance.

"If the Philippines ever attain their freedom," Quezon said, "the Filipinos must make up their minds to assume full responsibility for their life as an independent nation."

Opposes U. S. Reservations.

Quezon came to Tokio during a few hours' halt at Yokohama of the steamer President Hoover, on which he is traveling to Washington to appeal to President Roosevelt and congress for a new independence act.

Quezon asserted that the Filipinos feel maintenance of American military and naval reservations after independence "would be incompatible with the full independence of our country.

"Peoples aspiring to be free must take their chances as other peoples have done, some with success and some with failure."

Significantly implying his confidence in Japan's willingness to keep hands off the independent Philippines, Quezon continued:

"Fortunately, there are no longer any governments—however powerful—that will boldly assert their right to conquer simply because they have the power and the will.

"Any nation, however small and weak, may properly hope to be permitted the full enjoyment of its independent life if it follows a wise, just and friendly policy toward its neighbors, a policy giving no excuse to any nation to interfere in its domestic and international affairs. Herein lies my optimistic view of the future of my country."

Quezon said the Filipinos contended that "we should be granted our independence as soon as we establish the Philippine republic—which cannot take more than two or three years."

FRANCE VOTES FOR FIRM STAND AGAINST HITLER

Premier and Foreign Chief Threaten "Force."

PARIS, Nov. 14.—(AP)—In two overwhelming votes of confidence the chamber of deputies stood firmly behind the government tonight, making it emphatically clear that France will bow to the dictates of no one.

Premier Sarraut bluntly told the deputies that "France has a moral, material, and military force that forbids any one to dictate to her."

This stand on Chancellor Hitler's nationalistic foreign policy brought Sarraut a sweeping vote of confidence, 545 to 11.

Spurns Direct Negotiations.

Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour flatly refused to settle the Franco-German differences outside the league of nations, thereby spiking rumors of the possibility of direct conversations with Chancellor Hitler.

This stand on the government's policy of "supervised and guaranteed disarmament" drew resounding approval in a vote of 395 to 194.

Before the votes of confidence were taken both the premier and his foreign minister talked of "peace," but they backed their words with vigorous and frequent mention of the word "force."

Says French "Know No Fear."

Speaking of the horrors of war, Premier Sarraut said he wished to "reassure mothers" that "forty millions of the French are cool and calm and know no fear."

"But," he said with sharp emphasis, "France is not disposed to make a panicky peace. She will not concede what she should not concede."

The premier declared there would be "no preventive war" and asked Germany:

"Why rearm? Why increase a military force in an exhausted country until it is no longer anything but a skeleton in armor? The German policy would mean an armaments race."

Admits Possibility of War.

Paul-Boncour acknowledged his fear of war with Germany and refused to consider any arrangement for a direct settlement of differences with Chancellor Hitler outside the league of nations.

"Any concrete proposition submitted to us is certain to be examined by us," he maintained, but, he added, "all accords between Germany and France must be reached in the league."

Sarraut said the result of the German election and plebiscite on foreign affairs Sunday was a foregone conclusion.

"Three million voters, however, freed themselves from this oppression," he said.

He repeated the foreign minister's rejection of a face to face talk with German representatives, saying, "We wish to talk before witnesses" and "Geneva is the best place for the conversations."

Declaring that "Germany is speeding rearmament preparations begun long ago," the foreign minister pointed to French efforts to line up the former allies, but disclaimed any thought of "encircling Germany."

Paul-Boncour maintained that German "exaltation" was "fraught with adventurous possibilities" and that it "is perhaps a menace to European stability."

"Despite repeated assurance of peace and regardless of the government's will, the underlying principles of the movement create risks which the neighbors dare not disregard," he said.

Geneva Faces Showndown.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 14.—Following his threat yesterday to resign as president of the disarmament conference, Arthur Henderson, former British foreign secretary, it is believed, will demand a special meeting of the council of the league of nations for next week, thereby forcing the disarmament issue.

Either the council must renew his mandate as president or the interested governments must take the blame for the failure of the conference on themselves.

"Not being able to remain indefinitely at Geneva," Henderson said, "unless much greater determination to make progress is forthcoming, there will be no alternative but to place myself in the hands of the league council, which appointed me."

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Evidence that the armaments business is paying just as well as ever, despite the world depression, is contained in the annual statement of Schneider & Co., the great armament firm. The profit for the year ending April, 1933, was 25,390,000 francs [the franc is worth about 6 1-3 cents] against 25,473,000 in the previous year. This again permits a dividend of 100 francs a share.

NO NOBEL PEACE PRIZE THIS YEAR, NORWAY DECIDES

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Nobel committee of the Storting [parliament] decided today not to award the Nobel peace prize this year.

Prizes for outstanding achievement in physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and for the promotion of international peace were established by Alfred Bernhard Nobel, the peace prize to be awarded annually by a committee of five elected from the Norwegian storting.

If a prize is reserved for one year, the amount reverts to the principal fund, increasing subsequent awards.

FRENCH SENATE AGAIN REFUSES TO LET WOMEN VOTE

PARIS, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The French senate, a perpetual opponent of women's suffrage, smothered an effort to revive the issue today and refused by a vote of 175 to 113 to consider a moribund suffrage bill.

Before the chamber of deputies, however, is a measure based on the premise that since French women share with men the burden of taxes they should share their suffrage rights. The bill would enfranchise women beginning with the municipal elections of 1935.

The measure, which would also enable women to hold office, was introduced by Louis Proust and has the indorsement of 150 of his colleagues in the chamber of deputies.

19 TARS IN DUTCH NAVAL MUTINY SENT TO PRISON

SOURABAYA, Java, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A group of sailors on the Dutch battleship De Zeven Provincien who mutinied last February, comprising 19 natives, were sentenced after court martial today to terms varying from 6 to 18 years' penal servitude. Five more groups are yet to stand trial.

A crew of about 400 was involved in the mutiny which started on Feb. 5, when the commanding officer was ashore at Oleleh, Sumatra, as the result of a wage dispute. The mutinous sailors kidnaped eight of their officers and sailed out into the Indian ocean. The ship ran wild for five days with government vessels in futile pursuit.

The entire Dutch East Indies fleet, augmented by fighting planes, joined the chase and on Feb. 10 cornered the De Zeven off the southwest coast of Sumatra. The defiant rebels refused to hoist a white flag when ordered to surrender. A bomb was dropped on the ship, killing 22 of the mutineers.

'BIG 4' DAIRIES THREATEN A CUT PRICE MILK WAR

Collapse of U. S. Market Agreement Seen.

wagon drivers who combine the functions of dealer and deliveryman. These drivers buy their milk from the larger cut rate dairies and sell it on their own routes at less than 11 cents a quart. They have recently organized themselves as the Chicago Independent Milk Distributors' association and have announced their intention of filing a brief of protest against the marketing agreement because it fails to make provision for their activities.

Cause of Price War Threat.

The threat of the four big dairy companies to cut rates and go into the cash and carry business grew out of a dispute with small Chicago dealers who signed the agreement which went into effect Nov. 1 under the general marketing agreement, by which prices to farmer members of the Pure Milk association were raised and the retail price of milk was boosted to 11 cents a quart.

Part of this agreement established a milk industry board. That board was authorized to employ auditors to examine the books of all the dealers who were parties to the agreement and to set up a milk pool. Under the agreement the dealers buy milk from producers at three different prices, the base price for milk sold in fluid form, a somewhat lower price for milk from which cream is extracted, and a still lower price based on the wholesale price of butter for surplus production of the Pure Milk association members.

But many of the smaller dealers buy only enough milk for their bottled milk and cream requirements. That left the large companies to take the surplus milk and process it as cottage cheese, butter or other dairy products. The milk pool was set up to pro-rate among all of the dealers, according to their volume of sales, the cost of these surplus purchases. The small dealers would pay an assessment which would go to the large companies handling the surplus.

Demand Itemized Reports.

At a meeting on Monday evening, the small dealers demanded that the big companies itemize their reports of sales. The big companies wanted to report only total sales of fluid milk, cream, cheese, etc. The smaller dealers wanted them to tell how much fluid milk they sold in bottles, how much on contracts to hotels and restaurants, how much surplus [low priced] milk they used for cream and how much for cheese and other less profitable products, and how much of their milk and cream they bought outside the Chicago milkshed.

The small dealers get their milk from the Pure Milk association members within the milkshed. Part of the supply of the large companies, particularly of cream, comes from Wisconsin plants outside the scope of the Chicago marketing agreement. The small dealers charged that without the itemized statements, they would find themselves paying a differential to the big companies for milk which the latter got at lower prices in Wisconsin.

Threat of Price Cutting.

The meeting broke up in an uproar, participants reported, with no agreement and no arrangements for further conferences. But this was not until the large companies had made their cut price threat. One of the small dealers on the board paraphrased this threat as follows:

"If an agreement is not reached on this milk pool, we [the large companies] are prepared to start selling milk at cut rates through chain stores and other outlets all over the city. That will blow up the marketing agreement, and if the marketing agreement blows up, the farmers of the Pure Milk association will strike. We can get along on our supply from outside the Chicago milkshed. You haven't any such supply, and if a strike comes, you won't be able to supply your customers."

Suburban Dealers Protest.

While the milk industry board was holding its stormy meeting, suburban dealers held a meeting to protest against the fact that they had only one representative among the twenty members of the board. Clarence Marx, of the West Suburban dairy, in West Chicago, was elected president of the newly formed West Suburban Milk Dealers' association.

To Marx was delegated the task of enrolling dealers in the north shore and Calumet districts in a general suburban dealers' organization. He is no friend of the union labor which controls milk bottling and deliveries in Chicago. Several years ago he defeated the unions in a fight in his own town, and the milk and ice delivery businesses in West Chicago have been nonunion ever since.

Another factor which may bring about a modification of the present marketing agreement to permit a lower price for cash and carry milk than for delivered milk is the drop in sales which came as soon as milk went up a cent a quart—to 11 cents—on Nov. 3.

The AAA authorities are known to have under way an extensive survey to determine the practicability of a differential between delivered and cash and carry milk. A differential of a cent and a half a quart has been suggested.

Wallace for Making Tariffs to Last for 10 or 15 Years

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Henry A. Wallace told Indiana farmers and business men tonight America should reduce tariffs or cut production or adopt a compromise course, and be ready to stick to it for ten or fifteen years.

Listening in silence and interrupting only once to laugh at a quip, members of the Eastern Indiana Live Stock Breeders association gave the secretary tremendous applause as he completed his address which had White House approval.

The meeting formally opened the corn-hog production control program in Indiana.

Secretary Wallace said America should make an early but deliberate decision as to its foreign policy, and follow it "in all its implications even though certain people are hurt."

The silence with which the address was heard from start to finish was broken only when the secretary criticized the "God sakers" who came to Washington.

"I mean those people who are always saying 'For God's sake, Mr. Secretary, do this or that,'" he said.

The crowd laughed at this, and many in the audience, particularly business men, grinned when he pronounced some of them to be exceedingly wise in handling their own affairs, but "extraordinarily dumb" from the standpoint of their grasp of the national situation.

Secretary Wallace went to Indianapolis tonight, and will board a plane there tomorrow morning to return to Washington, completing his tour of the midwest in behalf of the administration's program.

WALLACE GETS REPORT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Recommendations for action in the cases of three independent Chicago dairies—the Lake View dairy, the Wagner dairy, and the Edgewater dairy—charged with selling below the price fixed by the government, were laid before Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today by Elmer Hays, AAA legal expert, who presided at the "trial" of the independents in Washington several weeks ago. The secretary is expected to announce his decision within a day or two.

While neither Mr. Hays nor other officials of the AAA legal section would disclose the nature of his recommendations, which are based on the record of the hearings, it was generally understood that the report to the secretary urges revocation of the licenses of the three Chicago companies.

Mr. Hays left today for Chicago, where he will preside at the AAA hearing of charges against 77 independent dairies cited for infractions of the Chicago milk marketing pact. The hearing opens tomorrow.

U. S. CITES CHAIN STORES FOR MILK PRICE SLASHING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The agricultural adjustment administration today locked horns with two of the country's largest chain store companies over alleged milk code violations in the Philadelphia market.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace ordered the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company and the American Stores company to show cause within ten days why their federal licenses should not be revoked for underselling price prescribed by the government in the Philadelphia milk pact.

AAA officials admitted the possibility that the action against the chains may result in a bitter court fight which only the Supreme court finally will decide. Should the chains elect to contest the right of the government to dictate and enforce observance of fixed milk prices, it was said, the AAA faces its most powerful opponent to date.

Whereas most of the milk dealers cited for code violations in the Chicago and Philadelphia markets thus far have been small operators with scanty capital, the two chains, it was pointed out, are capable financially of waging a last ditch fight against federal control of retail milk markets.

The administration's citation of the two chains followed the revocation yesterday of two dairy store licenses in the Philadelphia area.

BRITAIN FORBIDS DE VALERA PLAN FOR A REPUBLIC

Says Irish Must Bear Responsibilities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Irish Free State cannot become a republic and remain within the British commonwealth of nations, nor can President Eamon de Valera's present legislative program be realized without raising grave issues, Secretary for Dominions J. H. Thomas told the house of commons today in a declaration of the British government's imperial policy.

Allegiance to the crown is essential to membership in the empire, Thomas said. He reminded De Valera that under the conclusions of the imperial conference in 1926, Ireland was bound to accept all responsibilities of such membership as well as its benefits, such as common citizenship.

The free state, Thomas said, cannot be half in and half out. He charged that three bills now before the Irish dail eireann to amend the free state constitution try to accomplish that.

Assails De Valera's Aims.

One of these bills abolishes the appeal from free state courts to the crown privy council. Another does away with the royal veto on Free State legislative bills. The third eliminates the right of the crown's representative in the person of the governor-general to recommend appropriations of public moneys.

"These three bills conflict with the treaty of 1921, and their passage, therefore, involves further repudiation of obligations entered into by the free state under that treaty," Thomas said.

"De Valera has said his ultimate aim is recognition of a united Ireland as a republic, with some form of association with the British commonwealth in some circumstances and for some reasonable recognition of the king as head of the commonwealth.

"Any such proposal would be totally unacceptable to the government. The declaration of the imperial conference in 1926 as to the relationship between Great Britain and the dominions under the crown must be accepted as the basis for the position of the free state within the empire.

De Valera Denies Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 14.—President Eamon de Valera, replying to the statements made in London by J. H. Thomas, declared that the Irish people never have sought to enjoy the privileges of membership in the British commonwealth while at the same time shunning the responsibilities of membership, as Thomas charged. He said the Irish made their choice unmistakably in December, 1918.

Those who submitted to the treaty of 1921 did not abandon the republic for the privileges to which Thomas referred, he said. They submitted as an alternative to an immediate terrible war which was threatened by former Prime Minister Lloyd George.

The Free State should be free to choose its own governmental institutions, De Valera asserted.

KILLED BY ROCK SLIDE.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Trapped under a slide of rock while working on a county relief road project, Clarence Lutz, 40, was crushed to death today.

NRA VIOLATES CONSTITUTION, SAYS PROFESSOR

Finds It Contrary to High Court Opinions.

The national industrial recovery act, delegating to President Roosevelt the dictatorial powers under which the recovery program has been called into existence, is a direct violation of the rights guaranteed to American citizens by the constitution. It also is contrary to the concepts of governmental power as determined by the United States Supreme court for more than a century.

So said Thomas James Norton, noted judicial scholar and a lecturer on international and constitutional law at the John Marshall law school, in an address before the Chicago Bar Association at luncheon yesterday. His assertions came during his speech on the subject "A Lawyer Looks at the NIRA."

The recovery act as passed by congress, said Dr. Norton, is predicated upon the interestate commerce act in the constitution. The foundation of the recovery act lies, he said, in the phrase which gives the federal government the right to regulate and control commerce if an "emergency burdens interestate commerce." This phrase is contained in the interstate commerce act.

Calls Act a Subterfuge.

"Now we all know how silly this is," said Dr. Norton. "We know that, contrary to burdening interstate commerce, there is not enough business to create any business exchange between the states at all. This act is just a subterfuge.

"Congress, in enacting the law, adopted a resolution declaring that a national emergency exists. This gave it no more power than it possessed before. There is no mention in the constitution of any special grant of power to congress in a national emergency. And all congressional power is granted by specific acts in the constitution.

"As a lawyer I believe that it is dangerous for the departments of government to get outside their political domains," continued the lawyer.

Reads High Court Opinion.

Citing an opinion of the United States Supreme court rendered during the civil war, which he described as a far greater national emergency than that which the country faces today, Dr. Norton said that he wished to show what the justices of the high court felt about the suspension of constitutional rights. He read from the opinion as follows:

"The constitution of the United States is a law for rulers and for the people, equally in war and peace, and covers with the shield of its protection all classes of men at all times and under all circumstances. No doctrine involving more pernicious consequences was ever invented by wit of man than that any of the provisions can be suspended during any of the great exigencies of government. Such a doctrine leads directly to anarchy or despotism."

"I read this to you to recall to your minds what our ancestors were getting at when they framed and upheld the constitution and what we are now forgetting," said Dr. Norton.

Child Labor Opinion.

One argument which he advanced against the constitutionality of the recovery act was based upon the federal control of production and manufacturing. The Supreme court more than fifteen years ago, he said, wrote an opinion invalidating a child labor law passed by congress. The law had forbidden the transport over state lines of any commodities in the manufacture of which child labor was used.

This decision read: "The making of goods and mining of coal are not commerce, nor does the fact that these things are to be used or afterward shipped in United States commerce make them a part thereof."

After quoting the decision Dr. Nortin said that even under the interstate commerce act there was no federal power to take the action to regulate production as President Roosevelt has done.

"It is my idea," said Dr. Norton, "that we would get out of this depression like we got out of all others if the President would just let us alone. Then once we were out if we convinced all business men that they had a country which they should not be out to 'skin' we never would get into another."

SCHALL BOOED AT U. OF MINNESOTA —ATTACKS NRA

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Senator Thomas D. Schall was booed by a University of Minnesota audience as he attacked the national recovery program. He first was booed when he referred to President Roosevelt as "Frankenstein Roosevelt" in talking about war debts which he said th President was cancelling.

"What was that, a groan?" he said. "Was that indigestion, or"—he hesitated— "maybe you'd better call a physician."

Another outburst came when he said Lincoln and Washington would "turn over in their graves" at NRA activities, which he asserted were being pushed "with the government controlling newspapers, radio and movies."

He stopped, then said: "O, I know it's hard, boys, but you've got to hear the truth."

CHICAGO TO ASK $40,000,000 FOR 75,000 NEW JOBS

Council Instructs Mayor to Request U. S. Funds.

Mayor Kelly was empowered yesterday by the city council to ask federal authorities for $40,000,000 of "easy money" from the President's new civil works program fund of $400,000,000 to provide work for a minimum of 75,000 jobless Chicagoans until March 1.

Mayor Kelly will also ask that the federal grant cover the cost of materials which the men will use on various public improvement projects. That cost, under the terms of the program, must not exceed 30 per cent of the total expended. The mayor, with Gov. Horner, Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, and R. J. Dunham, chairman of the state relief commission, left for Washington yesterday afternoon.

Will Request Police Funds.

In addition to an extensive program of street resurfacing and of renovation of city buildings, especially police and fire stations, planned Monday night at a conference between Mayor Kelly, Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt, and an aldermanic committee, the mayor will ask for federal funds to add 2,000 policemen and 1,000 firemen to the city forces.

These men would work for the three and a half month period only and would be recruited, like all the other workers, from those now receiving relief for the idle. Police Commissioner Allman indorsed the idea strongly. Instead of sending the men to the regular police school, he said, it would be possible to utilize them as reinforcements almost immediately by teaming them up with experienced patrolmen.

The council also gave the lie to published reports that a scheme is afoot to pledge the city water system to a private company, which would build water filtration plants with a federal loan, by empowering Mayor Kelly to seek a $16,000,000 loan with which the city would start this work itself.

First Unit on South Side.

This will be a loan from the public works administration, of which the city must repay 70 per cent, and not an outright grant, as in the civil works program. The first unit of the proposed filtration system would be built at 68th street, to serve the south side. That section of the city has suffered most from water pollution by wastes from the Calumet industrial district.

"We have been talking about this for weeks," said Mayor Kelly from the council rostrum. "Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt has had Loran D. Gayton, assistant city engineer, getting the proposal in shape for presentation at Washington. If we get the grant, the plants will be built without any increase in water rates or taxes."

"So there will be no confusion because of a newspaper story printed this morning," said Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, "I wish to state that I don't think any member of the council is in sympathy with any proposal to turn over the water system to private interests. This plant will be of the city, built by the city, and for the city, and there is no danger that our water system will fall into the hands of any private interests."

Orders Water Certificates.

The council authorized City Controller Upham to issue three million dollars' worth of water certificates, secured by the revenues of the water system, in anticipation of the federal grant. The authority for issuing this series of certificates expires Dec. 31. It was explained that if PWA authorities grant the loan the certificates will be ready to be posted as collateral.

Ald. Clark made another suggestion for application for a PWA loan, which Mayor Kelly approved informally. This was that the city ask a 12 million dollar loan to rehabilitate and extend the fire and police alarm systems.

"At present the American District Telegraph has alarm systems in numerous private industrial plants," said Ald. Clark. "The city fire and police departments answer these alarms, but the company gets the revenue for handling them. Last year it reported a profit of $500,000 on this service, put an additional $200,000 in surplus, and set $250,000 more aside for duplication.

City Could Extend Systems.

"The city could extend its own alarm systems into these plants and collect the revenue itself. It is doing most of the work now. The company's franchise has a few more years to run, but a start could be made before its expiration by extensions to plants not served by the company."

Mayor Kelly also will act at Washington as a spokesman for school board projects. The board hopes to get $1,553,738 for renovation and reconditioning of the city's 400 school buildings, some of which have not been redecorated for ten years or more. The program wolud give employment to 1,500 men.

ROCK ISLAND PUTS $400,000 TERMINAL ON SALE, AFTER LOSS

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The city council last night voted to put the river and rail terminal, built in 1931 for $400,000, on sale. Congressman Chester Thompson will be asked to urge the federal government or the Inland Waterways corporation to take it over.

The city leases the terminal to the Inland Waterways corporation and receives 15 cents a ton for all freight handled. It was pointed out that during the two and a half years of operation the city has received slightly more than enough to pay the insurance on the terminal buildings.

The cost of the project is being paid by the taxpayers over a period of 20 years.

The city council also voted to cancel its membership in the Mississippi Valley association and turned down a request for $100, the association's fee.

POLICE TO HELP U. S. PUT WAR VETS TO WORK

Police Commissioner Allman has placed the Chicago police department at the disposal of the United States department of labor in its efforts to find employment for war veterans, it was announced yesterday. T. W. Creighton, manager of the employment service of the department of labor, found difficulty in locating veterans for hurried assignments because many of them do not have telephones.

Under the arrangement made with Commissioner Allman, Manager Creighton finds it necessary to locate a veteran he telephones the police district in which the veteran lives. The district dispatcher then instructs the policeman on the beat nearest the veteran's home to go there and tell the veteran to report at the office of Creighton in the United States postoffice building.

Chicago Delegation Will See Ickes.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Garrett, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Chicago and Illinois civic and political leaders are in conference tonight aboard a train headed for Washington, formulating details of a proposal that will be made to the government tomorrow morning to advance "easy money" for construction of elevated highways in Chicago.

Final decision on these details will be postponed until after a meeting with congressmen now in Washington who will join the party before a conference with Secretary of the Interior Ickes. However, this preliminary discussion indicates that the interview with the secretary will include a request for a tentative allocation of 11 million dollars "easy money" to finance the first units of the construction.

A definite assignment of this money to this project cannot be made, as the PWA has been administered, before the engineering designs, specifications and estimates are presented to the federal authorities. Director Kingery of the state department of public works, acting on orders of Gov. Horner, is engaged in preparing such plans, but he estimated that it will require another thirty days before any are in shape to forward to Washington.

Seek Other Relief Funds.

Aboard the train are Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and President Whealan of the Cook county board, who have an appointment with the federal relief administration to seek 40 million dollars to furnish jobs for 75,000 men on a group of improvements other than the elevated highway system. However, they indicated they will join with the elevated highway proponents in the interview with Secretary Ickes.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, organized this delegation moving upon the secretary. It includes Lester J. Norris, president of the Fox Valley federation, and representatives of several other civic organizations, as well as a group of Illinois congressmen. Both United States senators, James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich, have pledged their help. Representative Fred A. Britten arranged the appointment.

The 11 million dollars, it is estimated, will cover the cost of elevated highway construction to the west, to the northwest, and to the southwest, with a fourth project to link the outer drive just north of Jackson park with the Indiana line at Indianapolis boulevard. Approximately 20,000 men would be employed in the work.

Plan for Southeast Entry.

The southeastern construction would consist of a pavement with continuous grade separation on a landscaped embankment through Jackson park to connect with trestle work in Stony Island avenue south to 67th street. Stony Island at grade would be used to South Chicago avenue, also at grade, to an elevated pavement linking South Chicago avenue at 93d street to Indianapolis boulevard at the state line.

An elevated structure also would be built in Randolph street from Des Plaines street to Union park, where a jog north would carry the pavement in Lake street on the structure now used by the Chicago Rapid Transit trains.

The northwest project would lead from the Orleans street bridge over the Chicago river, using Kingsbury street and Clybourn avenue to a temporary terminal at Fullerton and Ashland avenues. The structure to the southwest would consist of an elevated structure in Archer avenue from State street to 31st street.

"Of the 11 million dollars to be advanced by the government," said Mr. Hayes, "$3,300,000 would be an outright grant. This is not a large grant in view of the $4,803,000 a year paid to the government by the motorists of Cook county in federal taxes on gasoline, oil, tires, accessories, and new cars.

"The $7,700,000 to be repaid to the government could be returned from the state gasoline tax revenue at the rate of a million or less a year. The motorists of Cook county pay $21,700,000 a year in state gasoline tax and license fees."

Due Motorists, Norris Says.

"It is time that the motorists, who are carrying such a heavy federal tax burden, get something in return instead of billions for farm relief and billions for reclamation projects," said Mr. Norris.

"It is time that Illinois, paying 7 per cent of the nation's taxes, gets something more than four-tenths of one per cent of the federal grants," Mr. Hayes retorted.

"The elevated highway system," added Ald. John A. Massen, chairman of the council traffic committee, "is a project of established merit, of lasting economic value to the community, and therefore is entitled to special consideration from Washington."

Dr. Miller McClintock, head of the Harvard university traffic research bureau, who made the two year transportation study of Chicago which recommended the elevated highway construction, will meet the party in Washington. He is to explain to Secretary Ickes the factual compilations that prove the cost of the elevated highways to be but a fraction of the benefits in saving the community from the waste in lives and in money in surface street congestion.

PARTY LEADERS SEE CRASH AHEAD FOR ROOSOCRATS

Scan History of Leaders in Movement Here.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Leaders of both the old major parties began yesterday tryingto estimate what results will follow continued building up of what they call a Roosocratic party in Illinois.

Their first judgment was that confusion of old lines would come from attempts to use the left wing of the Republican element to construct a campaign machine which would ignore and even combat the regular Democratic organization. They also felt that the effort would fail in its principal purpose for several reasons, one of which was that the Republican forces now counted upon as allies have their own axes to grind within the Republican party.

Scan Political Records.

This second conclusion was based on an examination of the political records of the men considered primarily responsible for the appointment of Attorney William H. Holly as a judge of the United States District court, the most recent event to emphasize the trend toward a Roosocratic party movement.

Except for Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, and Donald R. Richberg, NRA counsel, who, it is said, are counted on as part of the pro-Roosevelt bi-partisan structure, there are only three Illinoisians known in Republican circles who have definitely been identified with leadership in the Roosocratic movement. They are Newton Jenkins, Robert M. Adams and Richard W. Wolfe. They say—at least privately—that they "put over" the Holly appointment.

All of them have been active in one way or another in Chicago and Illinois Republican politics for several years. None of them has been distinguished for regularity recently. Rather, they have been identified with independent campaigns.

Ambitions Toward Office.

At least two of them have definite ambitions in the direction of Republican nominations. Jenkins, it has been understood, intends to make his fourth try at the United States senatorship at the next opportunity. Adams is in a "receptive mood" toward the county judgeship, for which an election will be held next year.

But the trio has vastly larger projects in mind. They announced recently that they were organizing a national committee for the "Progressive Republican party." Jenkins already has a state-wide effort under way that is called the Newton Jenkins Republican organization. And it is suggested that local campaigns will be conducted by a county committee of the "Progressive Republican party" headed by Adams.

One of King George Swatters.

Just where Wolfe fits into the future plans has not been disclosed. It is only suspected he may want to run for state treasurer. But his political past is in the records. He was one of the original and most violent "King George snoot busters," and was rewarded with a city hall job as commissioner of public works and during his term was constantly in hot water with the city council and even the state's attorney's office.

Jenkins never has held public office, although a dozen years ago he was a candidate for alderman, but he has been constantly active in politics along extremely individualistic lines. In his senatorial primary campaigns he was identified first with the La Follette group of 1924 and finally admitted that his original Chicago backing in 1932 came from the boss "snoot buster."

His friends deny that he is a radical. But some of his views on important issues were set forth recently in a booklet issued in the name of the Jenkins Republican organization.

Attacks International Bankers.

"The international bankers in this and other countries," reads a section of the booklet, "have violated every principle of national sovereignty. They have made treason respectable and patriotism a subterfuge for true. They have looted the wealth of the nation and have all but destroyed the world's greatest country."

Other extracts follow:

"There must be a drastic overhauling of the capital structure of the country."

"American banks failed from above because the international bankers controlled in state and nation the regulatory officials and bank examiners of the land."

"Labor must be insured steady work with fair wages. War veterans must be given their bonus."

The fee set for paid membership in the organization was $4 a year, and the goal for the state was set at 40,000 members.

Promoter of Independent Movements.

Although a party worker in the Gold Coast district for several years, Adams, the third of the trio, did not attain public attention until he helped promote two independent movements. One of these was the "People's Ticket Against Coalition" in a judicial election about six years ago. The other was the "Business Men's Republican organization" which ran an independent county ticket headed by Axel Lonnquist. Neither achieved substantial results.

Adams became associated politically with Jenkins last year. They now have law offices together and it is understood that in some professional matters a sort of partnership exists. But Jenkins does not devote much time to the practice of law. He gives himself almost entirely to politics.

Washington reports yesterday indicated that there is one appointment on the way to reality that is not of the Roosocratic variety. National Committeeman Patrick Nash will be in the capital this morning and he is expected to give the final touch of indorsement to the appointment of Thomas Temple Hoyne, newspaper man and writer, as controller of customs at Chicago.

Until fifteen months ago Mr. Hoyne was financial editor of a morning paper. He also is a lawyer. The position for which he is slated is now held by Leslie Glenn, a brother of Otis F. Glenn, former United States senator, who was defeated last year.

Mrs. Roosevelt Never Seeks to "Influence" Appointments

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Political questions are taboo at Mrs. Roosevelt's press conferences.

But this morning when the newspaper women met in the White House, a reporter for a local paper, making the proper preface, asked if there were any basis for a squib which had appeared in the gossip column of another local paper: namely, that the selection of the District of Columbia commissioners was due to the influence of the President's wife.

Mrs. Roosevelt hadn't seen the paragraph. Told of it, she threw back her head and laughed.

"Knows Nothing About It."

"Due to my influence? Ridiculous. I haven't any influence. I don't know anything about the D. C. commissioners. I never dream of having an opinion on matters like that, any more than I'd dream of flying to the moon."

"We thought so," said the girl from the local paper, and the talk turned to more personal affairs.

Extremely personal affairs. For Mrs. Roosevelt revealed that Elliott's first wife—Mrs. Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt—and the baby William were arriving this afternoon to spend two weeks at the White House. Thus bearing out the reports that Mrs. Roosevelt is very fond of her divorced daughter-in-law.

Ex-Daughter-in-Law on Visit.

Just about the time that Elliott's former wife arrived at the White House this afternoon, Al Smith and John P. Raskob came in to have tea in the upstairs sitting room with the President and her daughter, Anna Dall. Downstairs Mrs. Roosevelt was entertaining the important women executives in the war, postoffice, and civil service departments.

Tomorrow come more guests: Eddie Dowling and Lillian Gish, bringing along a special motion picture to show the President. Asked if they were to dine at the executive mansion, Mrs. Roosevelt admitted she hadn't a ghost of an idea, for her fat engagement book was in another room. Suddenly she recalled the Dowling telegram which had read:

"Lillian Gish and I are bringing down a film and two good appetites."

LAY ROOSEVELT PARTY LINES IN MASSACHUSETTS

President's Son James Is Dominating Figure.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Study of the federal patronage situation in Massachusetts as it stands today, disclosed that the attempt to build up the most powerful Roosevelt party machine that can be assembled is now out in the open.

The dominating individual is young James Roosevelt, son of the President. His insistence has been that appointments of an important nature go only to men and women he is satisfied will be entirely loyal to his father. The five major places have been filled in conformity with this condition.

Plans to Make Up Own Slate.

The Democratic leaders of the state such as David I. Walsh, senior senator, and Gov. Joseph B. Ely, who also is national committeeman, virtually have been ignored in the formulation of decisions at Washington. The result is that the state organization apparently is determined to make up its own slate of candidates for state offices without regard to the wishes of the national administration.

This hostility exists although young Roosevelt is credited with working out a compromise between last year's pro-Roosevelt and pro-Smith elements that is considered something of a masterpiece in view of the tangled lines. The five big places were split up so that two of them went to active supporters of Alfred E. Smith in the pre-convention days, two others were given to original Roosevelt men, and the fifth was awarded to a non-combatant.

The two places in the department of justice, those of United States attorney and marshal, went to Roosevelt men, Francis J. W. Ford and Mayor John J. Murphy of Somerville. The two pro-smith appointments were those of Joseph A. Maynard as collector of the port of Boston and of Miss Mary H. Ward as immigration inspector. Joseph P. Carney, who stood on the sidelines in the pre-convention period, was made internal revenue collector.

Insists Walsh Should Decide.

Except for Maynard, Senator Walsh indorsed none of these appointees in advance. Gov. Ely has protested in vain that the senior senator instead of young Roosevelt should have been the administration's chief consultant in this state.

Right now it appears that Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, a pre-convention Roosevelt supporter, is being ignored, but it is known that he was on the inside when the whole personnel of the staff of the United States attorney was announced without even advance information to the man selected to take charge of that office, Mr. Ford.

TRUCK FALLS 25 FEET; TWO ESCAPE.

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Gus Schroeder, 60, of Rock Island, and Hiram Bartlett, 30, of Illinois City, escaped serious injuries today when the truck in which they were riding struck a bridge abutment and whirled over twice as it fell 25 feet to a creek bed.

CALLS GREEK COURT'S DECISION IN INSULL HEARING 'ERRONEOUS'

ATHENS, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Demetrius Kalopothakis, a former employe of the American legation, in a signed article in the liberal paper Elefftheron Vima today described as "erroneous" a recent Appeals court verdict refusing to permit the extradition of Samuel Insull.

Kalopothakis, who acted as interpreter for Forest Harness, a representative of the United States government in the extradition hearing, alleged the court accepted defense testimony without checking up on it. He demanded the deportation of Insull, whose return the United States sought in connection with the collapse of the former Chicagoan's utilities interests.

The writer said the verdict accepted that certain acts of which the United States accused Insull were true, but admitted no fraudulent intentions. The court's verdict is likely to prejudice the present good relations between the two nations, Kalopothakis said.

WINDSTORM PLAYS HAVOC WITH SHIPPING

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Arctic winds that swept the great lakes regions and fog in the Pacific northwest played havoc with shipping yesterday.

A coast guard picket boat [No. 8,303] was reported missing off Keenanaw point in Lake Superior, and believed to have been lost. It carried a crew of two.

The steamer D. E. Callendar, with a crew of 25, was beached off Long Point, Ont. A coast guard cutter was standing by and the crew was believed to be in no immediate danger.

The freighter J. F. Schoellkopf was driven on a shoal off Menominee, Mich., but was later liberated.

A freighter also went aground six miles off Erie, Pa., in Lake Erie. Its pilot had attempted to find an anchorage during a blinding snowstorm.

Three ships were damaged off Vancouver, B. C. The Koryu Maru, Japanese freighter, went ashore on Bird rock near Chemainus, and the passenger steamers, Princess Alice of the Canadian Steamship company, and the Yukon of the Alaska Steamship company, were seriously damaged in a collision during a heavy fog.

EXPLAINS IDEAS OF ROOSEVELT ON SOCIAL PLANNING

Tennessee Valley Chief Speaks to Educators.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, in an address last night before the convention of land grant colleges and universities at the Stevens hotel, sought to interpret the ideas of President Roosevelt concerning social and economic planning.

The Tennessee valley plan, which is an experiment in power, social development, and farming in an area of 40,000 square miles, is not an isolated device, Dr. Morgan said, but a part of the pattern of the new deal. If it works the President hopes to try similar developments in other areas.

Some Parts of National Scope.

"As parts of the plan are presented to the public from time to time, they must seem unrelated and confusing," said Dr. Morgan, who formerly was president of Antioch college in Yellow Springs, O. "Some parts must be handled nationally, but there are many elements of the program which can be handled much better locally. If I were to guess, the President would be greatly relieved if more of the experimental program could be worked out on a small scale.

"I think he sees the Tennessee Valley Authority as a project in social and economic planning. To some this means regimentation of life in the Russian manner. There are many other ways. In any social and economic life there are many great wastes. One authority sets the waste at nine tenths. My own figure is about the same. Our capacity to produce wealth is tremendously above our achievement."

Urges Educators to Aid.

Chester C. Davis, chief of the production division of the agricultural adjustment administration, appealed to the educators to coöperate in putting over the administration's program for the reduction of corn acreage and the number of hogs farrowed and marketed. He answered the argument of those who have been opposing the farm allotment plan on the contention that the problem is one of underconsumption rather than overproduction by declaring it was the duty of those in authority to help bring about an adjustment that will meet the realities of the present situation.

"For the last 10 years," he said, "we have marveled over the paradox of bursting granaries and unused surplus at a time when the breadlines are the longest in the country's history. We have moved against this paradox. It is an established policy that no project of the AAA can proceed until the possibility of transfering as much of the surplus into relief channels as can be taken and distributed has been thoroughly explored."

Sees Political Realignment.

Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, speaking at an earlier session of the convention yesterday, said that the next congressional elections may mark the beginning of a political realignment of the American people.

The Republican party, he declared, faces a great decision. That would be whether to cling to the old laissez faire system, or whether to present new alternatives to the Roosevelt goal.

"Franklin Roosevelt," he said, "moves in the direction of a tightly coördinated economic system. It foreseats larger power of the federal government. It is not moving toward Fascism or Socialism. I have found no such evidence. He is facing the problems of a new world of science and technology without bothering about the traditions of the Democratic party."

The dramatic realignment which Dr. Frank sees would be along the long prophesied but never achieved conservative-liberal cleavage.

Dr. Frank characterized the world-wide renaissance of self-contained nationalism as "economic infantilism and the politics of insanity."

"A literal working out of self-contained nationalism," he said, "spells the doom of commercial agriculture. The American farmer will sink to the status of a peasant with subsistence living. Commercial agriculture today has its back to the wall. I deplore the methods of middle west farmers now, but I share their fears."

Stomach Sufferers AMAZED With Results of Udga Treatment

Acid Stomach Imperils Life of Millions

Hyperacidity (acid stomach) is, as every physician can tell you, the curse of millions. It is the most common cause of stomach disorders, such as gas pains, dyspepsia, indigestion, gastritis, pains after eating, bloating, heartburn, and other distressing conditions.

Take No Chances

It's a bad thing to gamble with—this matter of stomach trouble. The odds are against you and the consequences too dangerous. Pain killers are worse than nothing, they offer only temporary relief and the destructive work of the acid goes on and on, whether you feel it or not.

Double Acting Treatment

To combat these conditions you need a treatment that will first neutralize the excess acid secretions and then protect, soothe and tone the membranes or stomach lining in order that the natural process of healing may take place. This double acting feature is ideally combined in the now widely used Udga Treatment and is responsible for the excellent results this treatment has produced in thousands of cases.

Prescription of Noted Stomach Specialist

The Udga Treatment is a simple, harmless preparation based on the formula of a noted stomach specialist. Only pure, scientifically compounded ingredients are used. No dopes, no narcotics, no habit-forming drugs. It cannot harm anyone and according to reports from users has given complete satisfaction in many thousands of cases ranging from acid stomach to severe gastric disorders. Hundreds of these were cases of long standing and many had been pronounced hopeless, yet they state that after using Udga they are entirely free from their former trouble.

What Chicago Users Say

Here are just a few statements voluntarily made by Chicago users of the Udga Treatment who have proved its merits by actual test. These testimonials are genuine and are typical of more than 54,000 expressions of gratitude sent from grateful users living in all parts of the world:

No More Stomach Pain

"Suffered with stomach trouble for about two years. I could not eat anything but cream of wheat and drink milk and was almost in despair as to my recovery. I have spent many dollars with doctors and getting different medicines which relief only lasted two or three days. Then I would be back to the same condition that I was before, suffering intensely. I saw your advertisement, which described my ailment. I thought I would try it. I got more relief from those tablets than I had for many months previous. I can eat almost anything now without the least bit of pain." C. J. Waring, 11362 Bishop St., Chicago.

Permanent—Not Temporary Relief

"I can truthfully say I have not used any medicine in any form for over two years, although I suffered with stomach trouble for over three years before using Udga treatment. Thanking you for the good your treatment has done for me." Fred I. Hoss, 735 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Feels Like a New Man

"I used to come home evenings tired and worn out from pains in my stomach. I wasn't able to eat anything without having the most severe pains. After taking one, one dollar size box of your tablets I feel like a new man. I eat, I drink everything that my appetite calls for without fear of suffering afterwards; many thanks to Udga." Carl Schmidt, 3054 N. Monticello, Chicago.

Works All Day Long

"I am a very much improved man from the use of Udga Tablets. Life would have been impossible without them. Not knowing how very low I was, you can never appreciate what they have done for me. I could not stay up for two hours a day. Now I work all day long. Thank you most heartily for the good I have received from their use." Gordon L. Wood, 40 Illinois Street, Chicago Heights, Illinois.

Did Him a World of Good

"I find your tablets the best treatment for stomach ailments and recommend them to anyone suffering with stomach disorders, as they sure did me a world of good." Andrew Ott, 7300 S. Paulina street, Chicago, Illinois.

Relief After 17 Years

"I had indigestion or indigestive troubles for about 17 or 18 years, which in later years developed gall bladder trouble, etc. I was treated by several M. D.'s, but with only temporary results. It is now about 8 months since I finished the last bottle of Udga tablets and I am eating now, almost anything within reason, without any ill effects." Edwin Moe, 6333 S. Honore St., Chicago.

Enjoys His Meals Now

"I want to let you know how much good Udga has done for me after all the other medicine I had taken and did not do me any good. I sure can enjoy my meals now." H. Barrie, 1941 W. Monroe St., Chicago.

Udga Saved His Life

"I sincerely believe your tablets have saved my life. I have been a stomach sufferer for four years, tried every treatment could think of and doctors, too. X-ray pictures showed gastric disorders of the stomach. I was one of the worst cases you have ever had. I am all well of my stomach troubles." Andrew Bajean, 1619 N. Wood St., Chicago.

Has Lots of Pep

"I have had my stomach trouble for many years, but after taking your treatment for two days, all pains have stopped and I have had more pep in the last week than I've had in ten years." F. C. Dombroski, 3617 S. Francisco Ave., Chicago, Ill.

SPECIAL TRIAL OFFER

EARLY ECONOMY BY ROOSEVELT IS NOW WIPED OUT

Outlay of Easy Money Exceeds Savings.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—The economies in the cost of the federal government which were effected by the Roosevelt administration within its first three months in office have now been completely wiped out by allotments to the federal departments from the three billion three hundred million dollar public works easy money fund.

The appropriations for the ordinary expenses of the government voted by congress for the fiscal year 1934 aggregate 750 million dollars less than the actual expenditures for the fiscal year 1933.

Allotments of public works money to the departments, however, now total more than 900 million dollars.

Bureaus Get Money.

By means of the funds so received the federal bureaus, boards and commissions have been enabled to resume virtually all of the activities curtailed by congress in the interest of economy and in many cases to expand them far beyond their original scope.

Allotments totaling $934,811,494 have been made to federal agencies, the net economy in the administration of which is $269,962,316. Of the entire allotment $868,396,181 goes to agencies, the appropriations for which for the current fiscal year represented savings totaling $547,502,193. The remaining $66,415,313 has been allotted to the labor and treasury departments, the appropriations for which represented not savings but an increased outlay of $277,539,877.

Figures in Detail.

The detailed figures follow:

| | Budget savings. | Easy money allotments. |
|---|---|---|
| Dept. of Agri. | $ 12,462,574 | $ 55,918,889 |
| Dept. of Comm. | 10,721,408 | 9,956,555 |
| Interior Dept. | 2,683,684 | 231,697,610 |
| Postoffice Dept. | 92,906,297 | 7,600 |
| Dept. of justice | 4,041,950 | 949,845 |
| State department | 1,383,073 | 1,528,000 |
| War department | 46,851,804 | 292,952,214 |
| Navy department | 19,238,961 | 268,118,024 |
| Nat. advisory committee for aeronautics | 225,000 | 247,944 |
| Dist. of Columbia | 11,424,288 | 1,759,500 |
| Veterans Adminis. | 345,961,000 | 515,000 |
| Fed. Pow Comm. | 18,627 | 400,000 |
| Lib. of congress | 71,912 | 2,800,000 |
| Total | $547,502,193 | $868,396,181 |

| | Budget increase. | Easy money allotments. |
|---|---|---|
| Dept. of labor | $ 1,256,595 | $ 1,903,480 |
| Treasury Dept. | 276,283,282 | 64,511,833 |
| Total | $277,539,877 | $ 66,415,313 |
| Net grand total | $269,962,316 | $934,811,494 |

The Roosevelt administration came into office pledged to reduce the cost of the federal government not less than 25 per cent a year, or about 1 billion dollars. The result is that the savings on paper do not exceed three-fourths of the amount aimed at and even this economy has now been obliterated by the flood of public works easy money poured into the departments.

Designed to Aid Industry.

The public works fund was designed to put money back to work chiefly in industries. To what exent the funds allocated to federal departments will achieve this purpose is a controversial matter. It is contended that nearly all of the funds allocated to the war, navy, and interior departments will be expended on construction which will give factory work to tens of thousands of workmen.

On the other hand, the funds alloted to the departments of agriculture, commerce, and labor are being expended chiefly on services of a paternalistic subventionary or regulatory character which congress was disposed to curtail severely, if not to eliminate altogether.

The outstanding result of the use of the public works funds up to date by the departments has been the re-employment not of idle workingmen but of government clerks, inspectors, and other employés discharged under pressure of economy.

As a measure of unemployment relief for the federal bureaucracy the easy money distribution is already an unqualified success. There are now more government employés than before the economy drive started.

Senator L. R. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] says that even the broad authority of the public works act has been stretched considerably to cover allotments to be expended not for physical construction but for bureaucratic services which congress had decreed should be curtailed.

Succeeding articles will show in detail how economies voted by congress are being nullified by the public works fund handouts.

ROOSEVELT PLANS JOBS FOR WOMEN AS PART OF SCHEME

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Nearly 500 officials and relief workers tomorrow will hear from President Roosevelt and Harry L. Hopkins, the civil works administrator details of the plan by which the administration hopes to put 4,000,000 men to work 30 hours a week.

Plans for relief work for women, for additional efforts to aid farmers and to supply food for the 1,000,000 families that will remain on relief rolls were disclosed today.

The women's and the educational divisions of the relief administration have authorized local communities to establish centers at which unemployed single women may live and receive instruction in work that would aid them to obtain employment.

These centers would be established only where asked for and where the community furnished housing and equipment. Unemployed teachers and other experts would teach the girls and they would be allowed to remain only until jobs could be found for them. It is said there are 300,000 to 1,000,000 women workers now out of employment.

Under the plans, every state would have a director of women's work. Thirteen of these have already been appointed.

LATHAM RENEWS COURT FIGHT FOR FORECLOSURE FEE

Attorney Carl R. Latham, former president of the Chicago Bar association, yesterday filed a petition before Judge Denis E. Sullivan in the Superior court to set aside an order denying him fees of $7,250 in foreclosure proceedings.

Judge Sullivan denied the fees last June 15 after it had been shown that Attorney Latham had represented conflicting interests in the proceedings, acting as counsel for both the receiver and bondholder's committee of the properties.

A hearing on Mr. Latham's petition was set for Nov. 22. The properties involved in the foreclosure actions are seven apartment hotels. Attorney Latham is now chairman of the bar association's receivership and foreclosure committee.

PRESIDENT KEPT WAITING BY SMITH AND CAMERA MEN

White House Call Draws Army of Photographers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Jaunty and as free as ever, Al Smith doffed a black derby on the portico of the White House this evening and kept the President waiting five minutes so that the news photographers could get plenty of shots.

The former governor of New York, making his first visit to the White House since his off and on pal, Franklin Roosevelt, has taken up residence there, showed no sign of feeling, as he well might have, that but for the strokes of fortune he might have been the dweller there.

Hence the Invitation.

Mr. Smith was invited for tea, along with his friend, John J. Raskob, and his physician, Dr. James Sullivan, and the latter's youngish son, Peter. The reason Mr. Smith was invited for tea was that the Catholic university, of which he is a new trustee, wanted him to attend a meeting of the board tonight, and Mr. Smith was very loath to come unless he was sure there would be no stories in the papers hinting that he had snubbed the President, or been snubbed by him.

So the President was apprised of the situation and solved it quickly by issuing the proper invitation, and no one was snubbed.

Mr. Smith arrived on the stroke of the appointed hour. A few people wating for him missed the brown derby but noted that Al wore the satin lapeled black coat which he sports in Tammany parades.

Mildly Reproves Photogs.

After the photographers had used up a hundred or so tungsten bulbs in taking their flashlights, during which Al's arm, with the hoisted derby, must have grown fairly tired, he called to them that they "oughta sign a code and work together," and entered the White House. He and his friends were shown to the second floor sitting room of Mrs. Roosevelt, where the President and his daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, awaited. Mrs. Dall officiated at the tea pot, her children romped in, and Mrs. Roosevelt, leaving some fifty guests at tea in the East room downstairs, hurried up for a moment.

After a half hour's chat, the Smith party came out on the portico again to be met by half a hundred newspaper men.

Discuss Their Grandchildren.

"We had a nice visit," he said, "and we discussed our respective families and the contest we're having over who can have the most grandchildren. We talked about his vacation at Warm Springs and I put him wise to Eddie Cantor, so he'll know him when he sees him again.

"Talk politics? No one said a word about politics except one of the children and he wanted another piece of cake. Just a social visit, that's all."

Nor would Al talk politics himself. The recent squelching of Tammany in New York City wasn't mentioned. Postmaster General Farley, who engineered a so-called Roosevelt war on Tammany in a vain effort to elect Joseph V. McKee mayor of New York, wasn't about, but Mr. Smith was using his official limousine and Ambrose O'Connell, special assistant postmaster general, was convoying him around the capital.

AL SMITH'S FRIEND APPOINTED; FARLEY WINS OVER CURRY

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—James J. Hoey, recovery party nominee for borough president of Manhattan at the recent election, was appointed today by President Roosevelt to be collector of internal revenue for the second New York district, to succeed William Duggan, Republican.

Appointment of Mr. Hoey, friend of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and his floor manager at the 1928 Democratic national convention, was announced at the White House only a few hours before Mr. Smith called today on the President.

The appointment, which was on recommendation of Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic state and national chairman, indicates that John F. Curry, leader of Tammany, is not to be consulted by the Roosevelt administration on appointments.

Political observers also saw in the Hoey appointment a possible maneuver for a Roosevelt-Smith alliance to reorganize Tammany hall and displace Curry as leader.

Mr. Hoey, a prominent member of Tammany, is opposed to the leadership of Curry and made this evident when he joined with former State Senator Thomas I. Sheridan, Ferdinand Pecora and others to fight Tammany in its own stronghold.

SINCLAIR SPLIT POOL PROFITS WITH HIS RIVAL

Oil Magnate Testifies at Pecora Hearing.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Just why William S. Fitzpatrick, former president of the rival Prairie Oil company, should be given what was described as a "Santa Claus" share of $300,000 of the $12,000,000 profits of a Consolidated Oil stock pool in 1929 today gave senate investigators an unanswered riddle.

Harry F. Sinclair, head of Consolidated, which acquired Prairie by merger in 1932, promoting Fitzpatrick to the vice chairmanship of Consolidated, told the committee he did not know why Fitzpatrick was cut into the pool's earnings.

Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the senate banking committee looking into the pool operation, out of which Sinclair made around $3,000,000, promptly made arrangements to have Fitzpatrick appear tomorrow, calling on Sinclair to have an aid get him by phone in New York.

Puffs Away at Cigar.

Sinclair, whose last appearance before a senate committee in 1924 ultimately led him into jail for contempt for refusing to answer Teapot Dome inquiry questions, puffed steadily at a huge cigar today and consulted occasionally with attorneys in testifying.

In concluding, Sinclair referred to the investigation as a "joke," but subsequently explained he meant testimony previously given by Arthur W. Cutten, grain and stock operator who managed the pool.

Sinclair also said that before appearing he had conferred with Fitzpatrick, Cutten, Elisha Walker, a Sinclair officer, and Hunter Marsden, all figures connected with the market operation.

Making his answers brief, amid many replies of "I don't know" or "I don't recall," with an occasional "I don't understand that question," Sinclair told the committee he understood that Blair & Co., a New York firm participating in the Consolidated pool, asked that Fitzpatrick share in the profits.

Discussed Deal with Fitzpatrick.

Pecora subsequently developed in examining Sinclair that Blair & Co. handled the negotiations that led to the consolidation of Sinclair's company with Fitzpatrick's, and that these negotiations had proceeded "off and on" for five years or more before they were concluded.

"So the negotiations were pending while this payment was made to Fitzpatrick?" asked Pecora.

"I would say so, yes," replied Sinclair, agreeing when Pecora asked if it was with his consent and knowledge, but asserting that Blair & Co. did not get into the merger negotiations until late in 1930.

Sinclair told the committee that after he had been informed he was to appear he discussed the transaction with Fitzpatrick and that Fitzpatrick had told him that Blair & Co. said they were "going to make him some money."

Offered No Objections.

Asked by Pecora when he first heard that Fitzpatrick was to share in the profits, Sinclair said "shortly after" the pool was formed under an agreement, Oct. 24, 1928.

Blair & Co. asked him about giving Fitzpatrick 2½ per cent of the profits, Sinclair said, adding that they gave "no reason."

"Did you offer any objection?" asked Pecora.

"No," answered Sinclair.

"What did Fitzpatrick do for the money?" queried Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.].

"I do not know. He didn't do anything for me."

"It meant a reduction in your share of the profits?" interjected Pecora.

"I was happy to do it," said Sinclair. "I was trying to get help for the company. I would have been happy to give all my profits to others."

"Santa Claus Syndicate."

"Did Fitzpatrick play any part in the syndicate?" questioned Pecora.

"Not that I know of."

"Then why did he get this 2½ per cent?"

"You'll have to ask him."

"Would you call it a gift?"

"Call it what you like; it wasn't Christmas."

Discussing a conversation he had with Fitzpatrick before appearing in the hearing, Sinclair said Fitzpatrick told him "the Rockefellers were interested in making him some money," but did not amplify that remark. Of the pool profit, Sinclair said:

"I told him (Fitzpatrick) that profit was pretty soft for him."

"Pretty soft?" asked Pecora.

"I thought so," Sinclair replied with one of his infrequent smiles during his appearance.

"Then this was a Santa Claus syndicate so far as giving Fitzpatrick $300,000 was concerned?" queried Pecora.

"It sounded like it," answered Sinclair.

Calls It a "Joke."

The witness told the committee he had discussed with the executive officers of the Consolidated Oil corporation the issuance of 1,130,000 shares of common in late summer, 1928, and described negotiations with Arthur W. Cutten, grain and stock market operator, to buy them.

Cutten was the manager of the syndicate, with a one-fourth interest, the same as held by Sinclair. Blair & Co. had one-fourth and the remainder was divided between the Chase Securities corporation and the Shermar corporation, a personal company owned by Albert H. Wiggin, then president of the Chase National bank, parent of the securities corporation.

Referring to testimony last week by Cutten, the oil man said it "was more or less of a joke."

"Did it seem that funny to you?" asked Pecora.

"It did."

"What was funny about it?"

"The whole transaction was funny."

"What transaction do you mean?"

"I mean this investigation."

"O, the investigation is funny?"

"Yes."

"Is it still a subject of amusement to you?"

"Rather."

"Quite a joke?"

"A little."

"Are you testifying because you think the whole thing is a joke?'

"I am not."

"Are you imbued with the spirit that it is a joke in giving your testimony?"

Couzens Takes Dig at Sinclair.

"I am not. I endeavor to give testimony as I remember it."

Senator Couzens interrupted to observe "a good many people at one time thought Teapot Dome was a joke. I hope they don't go through the same sentiments at this investigation."

Sinclair later said he didn't mean the whole inquiry was a joke but was referring only to Cutten's testimony. Pecora said after the hearing:

"I'm going to get the reason for that Santa Claus gift to Fitzpatrick."

Ruloff Cutten, a cousin of Arthur W. Cutten and a member of the brokerage firm of E. F. Hutton & Co., which took part in some of the stock transactions, was questioned at length earlier in the day about the operations.

MRS. PRICE SAYS SHE DID NOT EVEN KNOW BARNETT

Denies Implicating Him in Jewel Robbery.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Laura B. Price of Chicago today told the state board of pardons that she had never, at any time, implicated Maurice Barnett in the robbery, by which she lost her jewels, in 1929, and in consequence of which she served a jail sentence for complicity in a conspiracy to defraud the Royal Exchange Insurance company of London.

Mrs. Price, questioned by attorneys for Barnett and members of the board, denied she knew Barnett prior to the robbery or that she had reason to believe he was concerned with it. She also contradicted statements made by Joseph Baum and Ben Levin, who were indicted and who turned state's evidence. The case against Baum and Levin was nolled by former State's Attorney Swanson.

Plea Is Opposed.

Assistant State's Attorney Clarence J. Mueller, who represented Swanson in the trial of the cases, Assistant Attorney General Niger and Luther F. Brinkley, attorney for the insurance company, opposed the plea for pardon, which was argued by Howard Doyle of Decatur, John R. McSweeney and Harry A. Silverstein.

In addition to the testimony of Mrs. Price, there was submitted a mass of testimony taken during various trials and pardon board hearings in this unprecedented case, including the statements of Baum and Levin, repudiating their testimony. The latter constituted the basis for an order entered by Judge Harry Fisher, by which Barnett was saved from prison, after his conviction. This order was expunged from the court record by the Supreme court, after it had, on a second review of the Barnett conviction, affirmed a judgment against Barnett, sentencing him to one to five years in prison.

Question Jurisdiction.

At the opening of the hearing it was suggested that since Barnett had not been taken into custody on the Supreme court writ, which had been held up pending the pardon hearing, the pardon board could not take jurisdiction of the case. It was explained, however, that the rule requiring an applicant to be in custody applies only to prisoners seeking parole. A plea for pardon, it was stated, could be made to the governor through the board.

No decision will be announced until Gov. Horner's return from Washington.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Clemency for Dr. Nelson B. Ross of Muncie, serving a life sentence in Indiana state prison for murder, was denied today by the state clemency commission.

The latest move to release Dr. Ross was protested by the family of the slain man and officials of Blackford county.

Paroles were granted today to Bishop Dalley, sentenced in 1928 from Lake county to ten to twenty years for assault and battery with intent to rob, and to Ira Horton, sentenced to 180 days for public intoxication.

ARRAIGN FIVE AUTO THEFT RING SUSPECTS TODAY

Five members of an alleged automobile theft syndicate specializing in the sale of parts and tires were formally charged last night with obliterating the serial numbers of stolen cars and will be arraigned before Judge John Gutknecht today.

They are Martin Levy, 5320 Drexel boulevard, and Louis Blumberg, 7434 Champlain avenue; Buster Gardner and Vincent Pavell, both of 1330 West Chicago avenue, and Oscar Rich, 7150 Normal avenue. Other developments in the war against auto thefts and stripping were:

A verdict of justifiable homicide returned by a coroner's jury investigating the death of John Lackowitz, 20 years old, 1543 South California avenue, shot by Policeman Joseph Casey Sunday as he was fleeing from a stolen automobile.

A sentence of six months in the Bridewell imposed on James Leise, 17 years old, 2113 West 18th place, by Judge Gutknecht. He was captured in a stolen automobile and was carrying a sawed-off shotgun.

Going immediately to the corps headquarters at 1812 West Pershing road, Maj. Gen. Brown denied himself to interviewers, sending out orders that he was not to be disturbed. He announced that he would hold a press conference at 10 o'clock this morning. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, whom Gen. Brown succeeds, recently sailed from San Francisco to his new command in the Philippines.

DR. WYNEKOOP JAILED AGAIN ON ATTACK CHARGE

Nurse Accuses Physician of Attempted Rape.

Dr. Gilbert A. Wynekoop, 54 years old, 1537 E. 55th street, many times arrested by police in the last three years for annoying women, was again in jail yesterday charged with attempted rape. Despite incarceration in the psychopathic hospital, indictments and many arraignments, the physician has thus far eluded a prison sentence for his acts.

This time, police hope to obtain a conviction upon the testimony of Miss Myrtle Archer, 37 years old, 1609 Wilson avenue, a trained nurse. She told Sergts. James P. McLaughlin, Irving Goldman, and Joseph Conlon that the doctor called her to his office in answer to an advertisement for a job she had inserted in THE TRIBUNE and attempted to attack her.

"I'll get out of this one as I've got out of similar charges before," boasted Dr. Wynekoop in a Hyde Park police cell yesterday.

Obtains Frequent Continuances.

Dr. Wynekoop's police record disclosed that he has escaped prison previously through the reluctance of women to appear in court against him for fear of publicity, also, through some influence, he has often obtained frequent continuances until witnesses were weary of attending the court sessions, it was disclosed.

The recent practice of the physician, the police learned, has been to hire a front room in some rooming house, put his doctor's plate in the window, and then telephone to young women who have advertised for positions as nurse or stenographer. He has rented three such places in the Hyde Park district in the last few months, Sergt. McLaughlin said.

The physician was put through the showup at the detective bureau last night in order that he might be viewed by women complainants. He will be arraigned in the Felony court before Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller today or tomorrow.

Gains His Liberty.

As long ago as 1926 Dr. Wynekoop was examined at the psychopathic hospital. A recommendation was made that he be given institutional care, but he gained his liberty. In 1930, upon complaint of a young woman, he was indicted for attempted rape, but the case was stricken from the docket when, after a number of continuances, the complainant failed to appear. In April, 1930, he was fined $200 in the Jury court after being convicted of attempting to attack a young woman who answered his advertisement for a nurse.

The prisoner is a brother of Dr. Charles I. Wynekoop, 5700 Kenmore avenue, who said that the Wynekoop family has attempted without success to have Dr. Gilbert Wynekoop detained in an asylum.

MINISTER SHOOTS JUSTICE OF PEACE, THEN SURRENDERS

Waurika, Okla., Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Rev. C. O. Bigbie, 28 year old Baptist minister, was jailed here today for the shooting of C. L. Tidwell, justice of the peace at Ringling,, 20 miles east of Waurika.

Driving here after the shooting, which occurred in the office of the Ringling Eagle, a weekly newspaper, Mr. Bigbie walked into the sheriff's office, tossed a small automatic pistol on the sheriff's desk and declared:

"I had to do it."

Tidwell, shot just above the heart, was taken to an Ardmore hospital, where he was reported in a dangerous condition.

Officers said the shooting apparently resulted from a controversy over the filing of intoxication charges against a Ringling citizen.

LORD INVERCLYDE ACCUSES WIFE OF MISCONDUCT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Nov. 14.—Lord Inverclyde, 36 year old Cunard Steamship company official, accused his wife, Lady Inverclyde, the actress, of misconduct with Matthew Paanaker, a Paris theatrical agent, in a divorce suit hearing which began here today. The couple were married in 1929.

The Scottish nobleman testified his wife was guilty of misconduct on two occasions in London in 1932. His testimony was supported by a French detective. Lady Inverclyde, a former musical comedy star known on the stage as "June," denied the charge. She already holds a decree she won against her husband in Reno, Nev., in 1931. Lady Inverclyde at that time charged mental and physical cruelty.

Lord Inverclyde is a descendant of the first baron of Inverclyde. He was wounded during the war.

NOT GUILTY, DUKE PLEADS IN BRITISH LOTTERY TRIAL

London Police Court Judge Reserves Decision.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 14.—His grace the duke of Atholl marched into the Bow Street police court today and pleaded not guilty to a charge of selling lottery tickets during the recent "mystery fund" appeal which he conducted in the name of British charity.

The issues involved are regarded as of great importance in Great Britain and the case was taken under advisement by the police magistrate. If the duke is found not guilty he will have found a loophole in the 270 year old British sweepstakes laws.

The defense offered no evidence today. The duke was accompanied to court by Lady Atholl, a member of parliament.

Aged Man Testifies.

The crown witness, Arthur Chappell, an aged resident of Bournemouth, put the crux of the whole issue when he testified he bought a ticket in the duke's fund in the belief that he had a chance to get his money back at long odds. Chappell's name, incidentally, was not among the recipients of the $180,000 in prizes which the duke distributed after he had paid the expenses of his appeal and made a donation of $295,000 to charity.

How the prizes were distributed is unknown to the prosecution, but the fact that the money was given away in return for tickets constituted the basis of the charge.

"The only way the duke of Atholl could give prizes was to choose the prize winners himself either by drawing from a private lot or by exercise of his own arbitrary will," said Eustace Fulton, chief counsel for the prosecution.

"The duke honestly believes that he has invented a method which enabled him to get around the provisions of the lottery act. I cannot tell you with any precision at all, anyway, how it is said he has done it. In the opinion of the prosecution it was the simplest form of illegal lottery."

Fulton said that the duke asked the public to buy $2.50 tickets purely as a memento of his effort to kill the Irish Sweepstakes in Britain and divert money to British hospitals. The terms printed on the back of each ticket said that the money was to be given to the duke to do with as he wished.

"If the printing of such words make that legal which otherwise is illegal then every lottery can be made legal by the use of a little printer's ink," he continued. "Why should anybody give the duke money which was to be distributed among charities at all?"

Refers to Previous Scheme.

The prosecutor finished with a reminder that the duke started a sweepstake earlier in the year, but dropped the scheme. He added that the duke used the same tickets on which the word "canceled" was printed for the drive to be conducted later with the slogan: "Trust the duke!"

Norman Birkett, counsel for the duke, admitted that the original sweepstake met with the "disfavor of authorities," but contended that the mystery appeal was faultless because no lottery ticket was ever sold except on a chance and the duke promised his donors nothing.

"I submit it is perfectly plain that if the duke had been minded to say, 'You have trusted me with your money; I propose now to purchase myself an annuity for the rest of my days,' nobody could have questioned its legality," he said.

20 Midgets Storm Court in Plea for Back Wages

Twenty midgets who appeared until Sunday night in the Midget village at the World's Fair swarmed before the bench of Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend yesterday, complaining that they have not been paid for three weeks and that many of them were destitute. James Doyle, mayor of the village, told the judge that their salary arrears totaled $6,500. The funds of the village are tied up by an injunction issued by Judge Friend in connection with a suit between Jack Fine, manager of the concession, and the proprietors. Judge Friend will rule today on a motion to release money to pay the little performers.

FILES PETITION FOR REHEARING OF SCHIRESON CASE

A petition for a rehearing in the case involving Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon, was filed yesterday in the state Supreme court by Attorney General Otto Kerner. The petition was filed in the name of Michael F. Walsh, director of the department of registration and education.

Dr. Schireson's license to practice in Illinois was revoked in 1930 after a committee consisting of physicians had heard various charges against him. The main charge was that of Miss Sadye Holland, who lost both legs after an operation for bowed legs. The Supreme court reversed the decision of the medical committee, however, upholding Dr. Schireson's contention that the committee heard incompetent evidence, went outside its jurisdiction and did not make out a case of malpractice against him.

The petition for a rehearing pleads that the high court overlooked certain points in arriving at its decision and points out that the decision affects the whole civil administrative code as well as the medical practice act.

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, flat-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralizing gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From Germany's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist. Advertisement.

"I FEEL LIKE A NEW MAN"

No more dull headaches—no more pepless, irritable days! Feels and looks like a new man.

"You can't imagine how much better I feel, Bill. It's really a miracle. Only a couple of weeks ago I lay awake night after night—worrying lest something really serious was the matter. And yet that dull, achy feeling should have told me what was wrong. I'm so glad I followed your advice. I feel like a million dollars now."

What was wrong with him? And with millions like him—dragging along only half-alive? The answer is simple.

ASTHENIA

(Run-down condition, usually caused by Constipation)

That's the insidious thing about Asthenia . . . it drags you down, slows your mind, robs you of your joys and pleasures, yet you hardly realize you're slipping.

Would you like for once to brush the cobwebs from your eyes—be ready and eager for any task—experience all the glories of this glorious old world? Then rid yourself of Asthenia and stay rid of it.

You think that you're not the least bit clogged—you say that you're "regular" as can be—but physicians will tell you that it is only too easy to deceive yourself in this respect and stay doped with poisons. Thus millions of micro-organisms accumulate in the intestinal tract and produce that dull, achy, pepless feeling known as Asthenia.

Decide right now to turn the tables on Old Man Gloom. Take Pluto Water every morning for 10 mornings, and see a new world in 10 days.

Thousands of furnace-cleaning husbands get a holiday —freed by GAS HEAT

To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we install it at our expense . . . remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

NO wonder the head of the house likes gas heat. In the old days he spent his Saturday afternoon holiday cleaning the furnace, shaking and hauling ashes, removing clinkers, sweeping the basement. It was a dirty, dusty job—but it had to be done.

Now it's a different story in thousands of homes. 14,536 families have contracted for gas heat in the Chicago area. All furnace drudgery is ended. Saturday afternoon is a real holiday. Every morning all winter long the head of the house gets an extra hour's sleep. No early morning fire fixing, no back-breaking coal shoveling, no chopping kindling to coax or start a fire, no setting dampers and waiting for heat to come up. The house is warm when you get up—if you have gas heat.

Install Gas Heat NOW

Womenfolks, too, appreciate gas heat. No shoveling coal for them. Walls and drapes stay clean much longer. No basement dirt is tracked upstairs.

Now is the time to install gas heat. The long winter is still ahead. Every home—even the most modest, can now afford to heat with gas. Rates for gas heating are now one-half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season.

Accept our no-risk offer

To prove that you can now afford to heat with gas we invite you to try it without spending one cent for equipment. We'll install it in your furnace or boiler and pay all the cost. You try it for any period up to a year and pay only $3 a month rental on the equipment in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. When you decide—as we think you will—that you can't do without gas heat—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

But, if any time within the first year you decide you don't want gas heat, just order it out. Out it comes and the rental charge stops immediately. Your former heating equipment is replaced in good workmanlike order.

Take advantage of this special offer. Get this modern convenience—automatic gas heat. Fire your furnace from your easy chair by setting a thermostat on the wall for the heat you want. The temperature stays even, comfortable every hour—day and night. Gas heat means so much in comfort, convenience and health for the entire family. # LIQUOR CONTROL LIES WITH CITIES, KERNER'S BELIEF

Thinks Repeal Revives Old Law.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Cities and villages in Illinois probably have the right to pass ordinances licensing, regulating or prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors after the 18th amendment is repealed and pending any changes in existing statutes.

Such power was given municipalities years ago in the city and village act.

Attorney General Otto Kerner, in an informal opinion, today said he believed this provision of the act, which became inoperative with the enactment of the 18th amendment, would again be in force after repeal of prohibition.

The attorney general said he had not had an opportunity to make an exhaustive study of the question and that his informal opinion might be incorrect. He was inclined, however, to believe a further study of the matter would show that cities and villages had retained the authority originally granted.

Can Be Used as Stop Gap.

This power to license, regulate, or prohibit, as granted in the city and village act, may be the stop gap which can be employed in the interim likely to develop between Dec. 5, when repeal becomes effective, and the time when the general assembly adopts a new liquor code.

Gov. Horner has said he will call the general assembly into special session before Dec. 1 to consider liquor legislation. In the meanwhile a commission, created by the general assembly, is engaged in writing a liquor control bill.

Unless the legislature moves with surprising alacrity it is considered unlikely that it can adopt a new liquor code before Dec. 5.

There are those among legislative observers who believe the general assembly will have a difficult time in finding any liquor control scheme which will meet with a two-thirds vote of approval in both houses.

Chicago Wants Home Rule.

Among the legislators are those who advocate the utmost home rule for municipalities in all things pertaining to liquor. Mayor Edward Kelly of Chicago, recently told the liquor commission that such was Chicago's desire. Many downstate municipalities have also adopted resolutions requesting similar legislation.

Then there are legislators who believe that the state should permit only package sales while others favor consumption on the premises. Some of the latter class would prohibit drinking on the premises unless food was sold with the liquor while a few believe the "old time saloon" is as good a solution as any.

To date the liquor commission has not indicated the nature of the recommendations it will make.

Under the old dram shop act, which was in effect before prohibition, the state collected neither a license fee nor a gallonage tax. Legislators who are seeking new fields for taxation in efforts to abate property taxes are likely to urge a heavy state tax.

DELAND HAS $55,000 FIRE.

14 ARRESTED FOR PASSING $10,000 IN BOGUS BILLS

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Fourteen men charged with passing $10,000 worth of counterfeit $5 bills during the last three months were arrested by United States secret service operatives tonight.

Bert C. Brown, chief of the Detroit office of the secret service, said the bills had been circulated throughout the middle west and the east. The arrests followed two weeks of investigation by secret service operatives and Detroit detectives.

FIND SOME IN CHICAGO.

Only a few days ago Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan of the secret service revealed here that a flood of counterfeit $5 bills had entered Chicago. In the last month, he said, there was an average of 15 to 20 a day passed on merchants. It is believed the gang seized in Detroit operated here directly or through syndicate.

Capone's Attorney to Ask Hoodlum's Freedom Today

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Frank Doughman, counsel for Al Capone, today notified the district attorney's office he probably would present his client's second petition for a writ of habeas corpus to federal court tomorrow. He said the petition would argue that Capone's trial on charges of income tax evasion was barred by the statute of limitations and that alleged new evidence not presented at the first hearing would prove his case.

CAT AT BIRTHDAY PARTY ATTACKS 6; LEAPS ON CAKE

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—A birthday party in Brooklyn was thrown into shrieking commotion tonight when Minnie, a black and white house cat, attacked six persons and then leaped wildly into a huge cake containing 55 candles. The injured were treated by an ambulance surgeon for bites and scratches and allowed to go to their homes.

The cat was taken to the police station and placed in solitary confinement. It will be presented with pleasure tomorrow to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals or any one else who will take it.

SCIENTIST FINDS 3.2 BEER IS NOT AN INTOXICANT

Tells Results of Tests on Fifty Persons.

The 3.2 per cent beer, legalized last April, was pronounced nonintoxicating yesterday in a report made public by Dr. Anton J. Carlson, chairman of the department of physiology at the University of Chicago, after exhaustive experiments. The scientist has concluded that the beer will not cause intoxication "in quantities which can be consumed with comfort."

More than 50 men and women, ranging in age from 19 to 60 and in weight from 100 to 223 pounds, have submitted to Dr. Carlson's beer experiments during the last four months. These subjects have consumed from two to 16 bottles of beer daily during periods ranging from 15 minutes to 16 hours. They were paid from $1 to $3 a day.

Forced Beer Drinking.

"It was discovered that people had to be forced to drink sufficient beer to exhibit marked changes of behavior," Dr. Carlson said. "The forced drinking of large quantities was accompanied by such discomfort and nausea as to make it highly improbable that the people would consume similar amounts voluntarily.

"Our general conclusion that 3.2 per cent beer is nonintoxicating cannot be properly understood without reference to definitions of intoxication upon which the conclusion was made. The definition used is as follows: Materially abnormal mental or physical condition manifesting itself in the loss of the ordinary control of the mental and physical capacities, or both, as to render a person's actions actually or potentially a nuisance, or, under circumstances, a danger to others."

Three Tests for Subjects.

The subjects were tested in three ways, as follows:

1. Data were obtained on the changing amount of alcohol in the blood and these figures were compared with the amount of alcohol present in the blood of people adjudged intoxicated in police courts.

2. Records were made of the performance of subjects in six types of mental and physical tests, including reaction time to lights and sounds, standing steadiness, sensitivity to pain, and speed in naming colors and arranging playing cards in suits.

3. General behavior of the subjects was noted by the experimenters during and after drinking.

Six different quantities and rates of drinking were studied:

1. Two bottles in 15 minutes, repeated with and without food. 2. Two bottles an hour for eight hours. 3. One bottle every 40 minutes for eight hours. 4. One bottle an hour for 16 hours. 5. Four bottles in 30 minutes 6. Forced drinking, in which the subjects were urged to drink eight to 14 bottles as fast as they could without regard to their comfort.

SENATOR ANGRY AT N. Y. LIQUOR CONTROL BOARD

Objects to Applicants Filing Bond.

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The state alcoholic beverage control board's authority in the preliminaries of licensing retail liquor dispensaries was challenged by three angry state senators led by Majority Leader John J. Dunnigan today.

Shouting that he was "tired of people telephoning me to complain about the arbitrary manners the beer board has assumed," Senator Dunnigan demanded—and got—ten sets of license application blanks at the New York City alcoholic beverage control board's offices on Lafayette street.

Must Give Bond, Own Lease.

The city control board operates under the state board, of which former Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney is chairman. Since last Friday it has been giving out one set of application blanks to a person, who must show a lease, or option, on property that meets the state requirements for a liquor dispensary, and also must be provided with a bond.

Senator Dunnigan, who was accompanied by Senator Thomas Burchill of Manhattan and Senator Joseph D. Noonan of Queens, hurled all those regulations and safeguards aside in the heat of their anger today and distributed handfuls of applications to the crowd, regardless of leases or bonds.

They burst into the control board's offices a short time after Mr. Mulrooney had cleared up a misapprehension of the board's intention about limiting the number of licenses to be granted. Mr. Mulrooney said that the board has no intention of limiting the number of licenses for any kind of liquor business in the city or state, and any temporary limitation it may put on the number of applications to be issued will be merely for the purpose of holding down, for the time being, the number of applicants to a size that his staff of investigators can handle.

Helped Frame Beer Bill.

Senator Dunnigan took a leading part in framing the legislation that created the laws for the sale of 3.2 wine and beer, but he had no sympathy for the regulations that the control board has drawn up to safeguard the issuing of licenses for stronger liquors.

With Senators Burchill and Noonan backing him up, he laid down the law to Louis Fischer, an executive of the board, at the fourth floor offices this afternoon.

"I demand a dozen sets of application blanks!" Senator Dunnigan shouted, pounding the desk in front of Mr. Fischer. "I'm sick of this business of telling people they can have one set or no sets. You haven't any authority or right to keep the blanks away from the public!"

"I can't hand you out batches of blanks—it's the regulation of the board that the applicant must have a lease and a bond before he can get into the liquor business," Mr. Fischer protested."

The senator shouted down every protest by Mr. Fischer, and at last that executive gave the senator and his associates ten sets of application blanks each, which they distributed to people standing around.

JUDGE'S CHARGE IN DEFUNCT BANK CASE 8½ HOURS

New York, Nov. 15 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—The jury that will decide whether or not Isidor J. Kresel, former counsel and director of the defunct Bank of United States had a guilty part in a loan made by the bank to three affiliates, listened yesterday and last night to the longest charge to a jury ever made by a judge in the criminal branch of the Supreme court. It was made by Justice Taylor, who took 8½ hours. The jurors began deliberations shortly after midnight when they returned from supper.

Mr. Kresel has been on trial since Sept. 15 on an indictment charging him with abetting in the misapplication of $2,000,000 of the bank's funds, part of an $8,000,000 loan made by the bank on Jan. 13, 1930, to three safe deposit company affiliates.

Mr. Kresel had been indicted with other directors, including Bernard K. Marcus, president of the bank, and Saul Singer, a vice president, both of whom are serving terms in Sing Sing, and Herbert Singer, son of Saul Singer and a law office assistant of Mr. Kresel.

The testimony showed that two days before the $8,000,000 was loaned to the three safe deposit affiliates of the Bank of United States the defendant had had a conference with Marcus and Singer.

Mr. Wallace had contended that the plan for making the $8,000,000 loan had been worked out at that conference, but Mr. Kresel denied that he had taken part in plans for that loan.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

INCENDIARISM.

Orators who depart from their text under stress of emotion have frequently made remarks they subsequently wish had not been said. We suspect Secretary Wallace added to the list when he declared that "if the people of Chicago cannot become possessed of a more statesmanlike knowledge of the national crisis the consequences will be such that Chicago must surely become an ash heap." Few if any of the President's chief aids have permitted themselves so incendiary a remark, and we mean incendiary in both the actual and the figurative sense.

This outburst has a special significance not only because Secretary Wallace has up to this moment seemed inclined to moderation but because its occasion was surprisingly inadequate. If the editorial of the Daily News which provoked this unexpected violence is not well within the bounds of legitimate comment the alternative must be complete silence from any citizen who cannot regard the activities of the administration as infallible and sacrosanct. The editorial entitled "The Cities Pay the Recovery Bills" was a statement of fact temperately expressed and not negatived by Secretary Wallace. The gist of its common sense comment is that "the burden of the taxes supporting all these farm relief experiments is being carried by the masses of consumers in the cities." Secretary Wallace cannot deny this and his attempted rebuke is no answer. A balance of interests between producer and consumer is not easy to find, but there is no reason in a free country why the voice of any class of our people should be overawed with threats of flames and ruin. The News said truly that "thus far the cities have not protested as Secretary Wallace disregarded the lessons of the past, and that if a halt is not called on his tax levying activities the forgotten men and women of the cities may become as articulate in their protests as are the striking farmers of the west." We think this contains sound advice and is on no account deserving of Secretary Wallace's irrational condemnation. It presents fairly a problem which the administration cannot dispose of by threats.

But aside from the issue of policy and of justice raised, the incident has significance as further evidence of an assumption on the part of the administration that its program is above public discussion and superior to the right of dissent. Every administration dislikes question and would like to proceed without restraint. But hitherto it has been recognized that the expression of opinion is guaranteed to the citizen of this republic, and we are not disposed to agree that the declaration of emergency by any administration can deprive American newspapers or American citizens of the right and duty of free comment upon the proposals or the conduct of its government.

Secretary Wallace's vision of a great city reduced to ashes because of its people's unwillingness to accept with complaisancy the economic consequences of his experimentation seems to us ominous of unreason and a very untimely contribution to public morale. There is in this city and in other cities, we believe, a sincere concern for the relief of agriculture. But this does not involve and should not involve a blind acceptance of the consequences to city people of any imposition the experimentation of the federal government may bring about.

Also we do not regard as just or sensible the apparent assumption of certain pundits of the administration that the right of free comment has suddenly become obsolete. In fact, there have been no conditions in which this nation has found itself that so clearly call for the exercise of that right as the present. The American people are a free people and it is their right and their duty at this time and at all times to examine the proposals and proceedings of their government. Unless they have suddenly surrendered their heritage they will exercise this right and fulfill this duty undeterred by any threat of dire penalties. We are confident that the nation will solve its problems in the manner of a free people as they have done in all past difficulties whether labeled emergencies or not.

A CONSTRUCTIVE DECISION.

The President has kept faith with the taxpayers and contributed substantially toward recovery by announcing that three nuisance taxes will end with the ratification of repeal by the thirty-sixth state. The taxes involved are a half cent tax on gasoline, a five per cent tax on dividends, and a five per cent capital stock tax. The motorist is already carrying heavy taxes and the taxes on dividends and on capital stock constitute in effect double taxation. The President had let it be known that he did not favor them save as necessary measures to aid in balancing the budget and that when alcoholic beverages were legalized and a new resource of taxation provided he would get rid of the nuisance taxes. The relief through their elimination is estimated at about 220 million dollars a year. It is a constructive measure which we think will be felt widely. Gasoline users are carrying a heavy load and the taxes on dividends and capital stock are an obstruction to business recovery, for they make profit almost impossible. So long as this condition continues the financing of industry, commerce, and transportation is nearly paralyzed and it is upon the revival of this private enterprise that reemployment and national solvency mainly depend.

THE HIGHWAY PROJECT.

Senator Dieterich and other members of the Illinois delegation who have promised to support the petition for a public works provision for the modern elevated highway system for Chicago will have the satisfaction of knowing that no proposal brought before Administrator Ickes has had a better foundation in justice and public policy. THE TRIBUNE from the first has credited Mr. Ickes with a sincere determination to administer the enormous fund under his control with loyal regard for the objects of the grant and for consideration of sound public expenditure. The position on behalf of the highway system meets fully every principle which has controlled his administration. This public work will give prompt employment to a large number of workers, both in construction and supply of materials. It will relieve a district in which unemployment is as serious as in any community in the country. And in the longer view it will bring substantial benefits through the relief of conditions of congestion which are a heavy and continuous economic loss not merely to Chicago but to the extensive region of which Chicago is the business center.

We are confident Mr. Ickes will recognize the economic and social claims which support Chicago's petition. No better investment could be made. We think also that Mr. Ickes may well take into consideration the fact that although Chicago and Illinois have been substantial contributors to the federal treasury they have been more than moderate in their demands, and in fact Mr. Ickes himself has rebuked our local authorities for failure to press their legitimate projects with more vigor. It is indeed a fact that there are several Chicago projects which deserve aid, such as the outer drive bridge and the airport. The latter is really a project of practical importance in the development of expeditious mail delivery and national transport. But overshadowing both is the highway system, which will come before him with the strongest claims. It will provide prompt and substantial relief for unemployment and it has been formulated by disinterested expert study and judgment. Chicago will appear before Mr. Ickes with clean hands and a proposal based on sound and permanent public policy.

THE FORD BID.

The controller general of the United States, Mr. McCarl, holds that a bid to sell Ford trucks by a Ford retailer must be received by the government departments and may not be rejected because the maker of the trucks has not signed an NRA agreement. The point, Mr. McCarl finds, is not whether he has signed but whether he is obeying the law. The government in seeking to reject the bid rested its case on the refusal to sign up.

The office of controller general was designed to procure the services of a singularly free place holder, the appointment being for fifteen years without reappointment. Current drifts of political opinion may pass the controller by. He administers law covering the payment of public money and in the Ford case holds that it would be illegal to buy trucks and exclude from the competitive biddings a maker for the reasons advanced.

Ford is a dissenter of whom the government would like to make a conspicuous example. He is held guilty of a wrong state of mind. Overt acts against the welfare of the country have not been found, but Mr. Ford thinks that somewhere in the constitution and laws of his country there is authority for him to manage his own business even in this year. Gen. Johnson has different ideas. The conflict between the two is complicated by the fact that the general has not yet been able to put a finger on something he could use as a reason for cracking down.

Various recovery administrators have not carefully considered the boycott for its inherent faults and evils. At least it is to be imagined they have not because they have been so eager to use it and to incite citizens to use it. In normal times the law protects people from the consequences of this dangerous instrument of zeal or prejudice, but these are not normal times. The department administrators have their spirit up and if they cannot deal with dissenting opinion one way they will deal with it another. The boycott is another way.

It is a short cut and if it could be used generally it would spare the administrators the necessity of proving cases against persons regarded as stubborn. These persons could be ruined by official blasts against them, depriving them of their business and their means of livelihood. The people have been urged to have nothing to do with persons with whom administrators have conflict. In sufficient public excitement it might work, but it would be repulsive to a government of laws. Witch hunting is the most dreaded of public errors and that is what boycotts lead to.

Editorial of the Day

RECONCILED.

[The Baltimore Sun.]

Inasmuch as Bernard Shaw is understood not to have been present at the opening night of "The Gondoliers," by Gilbert and Sullivan, forty-four years ago, perhaps it is not exactly accurate to say that he has changed his mind about the piece, as the London News-Chronicle seems to think he has. As his initial review in the London Star, Shaw wrote an implied explanation of his failure to attend. "A new Savoy opera," he wrote, "is an event of no greater artistic significance than—to take a most flattering comparison—a new oratorio by Gounod. We know the exact limitations of Mr. Gilbert's and Sir Arthur Sullivan's talents as well as we know the width of the Thames at Waterloo bridge."

When this was called to Mr. Shaw's attention the other day he explained again, this time declaring that Sullivan's music "has risen in value by keeping," whereas when it was first produced it sounded "churchy" in contrast to the exuberance of Offenbach. Heard today, Sullivan's scores fit into a more proper niche and one "can now appreciate their delicacy and the tenderness which redeems their witty levity and preserves the more ephemeral topicalities of Gilbert from perishing." In view of the fact that Mr. Shaw could have escaped from the whole thing by the simple device of explaining that he had ducked his assignment forty-four years ago, this elaboration of revision is generous.

He, however, would not regard it as generous, for to Bernard Shaw the necessity of preserving for forty-four years an erroneous opinion is probably incomprehensible, as incomprehensible, his detractors will say, as that he should hold to a true opinion for a quarter of that time.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By J. A.

HENRY WALLACE, known as "Happy Hank," the chief of agriculture, sighs gloomily over Chicago's fate, and an end to all its culture. For Henry (otherwise Happy Hank) our civic pride quite dashes; in fifteen years, says Hank, our town may be, just a heap of dusty ashes. Oh, tut, tut, Henry Wallace, that's been tried before and how! Just read in history's pages of Mrs. O'Leary's cow. Chicago was ashes for a while, but still it wore its crown, and proved to a dazed and breathless world, you can't keep a good town down.

THE NUMBERED NIGHT.

SONNET SEQUENCE FOR B. M.

I.

Abracadabra of the numbered night
Brought down the stars that they as sentinels
Might abrogate the coming of the light
And still the tinkling of the camel's bells
For your approach. We spoke of ancient things . . .
The pyramids . . . old Buddhas and their jewels . . .
Of how Pythagoras wore seven rings,
How Sancho learned much wisdom from his mules.

The single fiery opal on your breast
Rayed out approvingly as though it knew
That some unchaliced, age-old alkahest
Had spilled upon the page I read with you.

And as we placed old volumes on the shelves
We knew nothing was older than ourselves.

II.

Melpomene did not restrain her lyre,
And now, as then, it boasts a seventh string;
When bold Prometheus stole mountain fire
It, too, was an inevitable thing.
Shall we then be amazed because a tree
Is conscious of its branches or a rose
Intimidate the honey-seeking bee—
Or faint when life assumes a couchant pose?

Nor was I troubled when a sudden spark
Dropped to the altar when my prayers were done;
Long had I heard of beauty being stark
And laurel heavy with the laurel won.

But never knew I this . . . one should so speak
To make my valley seem a mountain peak.

III.

"Sustain the afterbeat!" a teacher said.
Is memory an unforgotten tone?
Shall purple not remember it was red
Or moss forget its root is fast in stone?
So am I rooted in a majesty,
A consciousness that knows no separate thing;
Yet here is life . . . playing at travesty
The soaring dove flies with an eagle's wing.

The afterbeat of transcendental peace
Can be as thunder in a silent wood,
Where beauty walks denuded of the beast
Between the chastened virtues, bad and good.

And it is meet that I should walk alone
Who am as sawdust to the risen stone.

GREAT JOY is radiated by Gen. Johnson over bringing (sezze) Henry Ford into line. The general reminds me of the story about the man who was bragging what a very obedient dog he had. "Yessir," he declared, "Rover minds everything I say. It's simply wonderful the control I've got over that dog. He obeys everything I tell him right away. Now to illustrate: There's Rover lying over there on the other side of the room. Now watch him while I tell him to do something." Whereupon the man turned towards Rover and commanded sternly: "Rover, come here!" The dog looked up, glared at his master, growled savagely, and then turned and went under the bed. "Or," said the dog's master hurriedly, "go under the bed, Rover. I will be obeyed!"

OLDISH LOOKING CHILDREN.

THE articles about paintings in A Century of Progress collection have suggested some written inquiries. One relates to the distinction between pituitary and other obesity.

A picture that shows obesity not of the pituitary type is Venus and the Lute Player by Titian. In this picture rather too much of the fat is found around the hips and thighs, but the disproportion is not great enough to make this a specimen of pituitary obesity. The picture is rather that of a person who was physically inactive, lazy, and self-indulgent.

This Venus was not much given to exercise. Contrast it with some other pictures of fat women—those in which the legs are not fat, but in which there are great folds of fat around the hips, back, and abdomen. Pituitary obesity gets pretty close to the deformity class. Titian's Venus is far from it.

Another inquiry relates to the old faces of the Christ Child, as depicted in a dozen paintings. Most if not all of these faces are Hebrew babies. This is as it should be, since Jesus was a Jew. The adult Christ is generally depicted without distinctive Jewish features—at least in pictures painted in the later centuries. This, however, is one stage in an evolution of style or method. Well informed art critics fix the dates of certain pictures of Christ by the way in which he is represented. The accepted method of depicting him changes from period to period.

The inquiry, however, is for an explanation of the maturity of the facial expression of the Christ Child. The face of a baby at birth is without expression. It is not much more than an anatomical division of the body. As the months and years go by the experiences of life, the thoughts and emotions are written in the facial expression.

In many of these paintings the Christ Child is pictured as a babe in arms, but with the facial expression of an adult—not infrequently of an adult who has had considerable business experience. What is the explanation of the anachronism?

Cretins look like little old men. They have the facial expression of men who have had many experiences. Cretinism is a variety of thyroid abnormality. There is ample evidence of thyroid abnormality in ancient times, and many of the thyroid abnormals were known to artists. But these precocious looking babies were not cretins. Nor did they have progeria. This is a form of infantilism complicated with an appearance of premature senility. The dictionary indicates that a persisting thymus gland may be responsible for it. A better opinion is that it is caused by a marked deficiency of the pituitary and thyroid—one or both.

Congenital syphilis may be the cause of a premature appearance of maturity, especially in the facial expression. Some children with congenital syphilis look like little old men. The facial expressions of the babies under comment are not those caused by congenital syphilis.

I suppose there is no explanation except fashion. In that period, painting the facial expression of the Christ Child as that of a mature man was the fashion.

TRAINING IS CURE.

A. W. writes:

1. What is the difference between nervous prostration, nervous breakdown, nervous exhaustion, and frayed nerves?
2. Give treatment for each, and state usual causes for same.
3. Under proper treatment, how long do these conditions last? What can be done to prevent return?
4. Are any of these conditions ever fatal?

REPLY.

1. All of these are loose terms, having about the same meaning.
2. As a rule the treatment is a matter of training in equanimity, courage, and control, and out of self-indulgence. Other treatments may be of some supplemental service. As a rule one must work out his own salvation. Medical service may be a supplementary aid.
3. The answers to one and two suggest the answers to this group of questions.
4. No. A fatal issue is not to be expected even when the difficulty is somewhat more fundamental, as in psychasthenia, low blood pressure, and neurasthenia.

It may be necessary in your case, but, if so, that is exceptional. Wearing broad-toed shoes and persistently lifting the ingrowing corner of the nail eventually cure this troublesome disorder.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What time does the law allow a creditor to locate hidden assets after his debtor is adjudicated bankrupt? 2. Can insurance records now in Boston, Mass., and Newark, N. J., be subpœnaed into a bankruptcy court in Chicago? 3. If so, about how much would this cost? 4. Does the so-called bankrupt have to pay all costs of such procedure if assets are located? 5. If a man deliberately or otherwise hides assets at a bankruptcy hearing by lying what penalty is imposed on him? J. A. L.

1. Section 585 of the article of bankruptcy in corpus juris is in part as follows: "A court of bankruptcy has power to reopen the estate of a bankrupt on the ground that there are assets not administered, or to permit the trustee to recover assets which were concealed or fradulently disposed of. An application to open the estate may be made within a reasonable time."

2. Yes. Section 24 of the article on bankruptcy in corpus juris is in part as follows: "The court in which the petition for an adjudication of bankruptcy is properly filed and which makes the adjudication has plenary jurisdiction in bankruptcy throughout the United States."

3. We are not in a position to say.

4. The cost of collecting the assets would be a proper charge against the "estate."

Chicago, Nov. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Some time ago I had to undergo a surgical operation. The doctor's fee was $175. I paid weekly installments while I could, but am unable to continue due to unemployment. The account was turned over to an attorney for collection. He filed suit against me and took judgment by default. The amount sued for was $200, while in fact I only owed the doctor $147. Is it legal to sue for more than the amount due? W. J. T.

Yes, in the sense that there is no penalty. No, in the sense that if a defense were presented the civil judgment ought not to be entered for more than the actual amount due.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We have five children in our family and my mother owns a two flat building which has a $3,000 mortgage on it. She is desirous of making the house over to her two single daughters and was wondering just how she has to go about it. A. A. M.

If your father is living, your mother could not convey a clear title without his joining in the deed. If he is dead, she should simply execute and deliver a deed describing her as widow. We advise the employment of an attorney to discuss the relative advantage of a joint tenancy or a tenancy in common deed and to draw up the instrument.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile.—The belief that Japan is preparing a big commercial offensive in South America has been strengthened by the revelation that Japanese diplomatic agents in Santiago, Lima, Buenos Aires and other capital cities have been instructed to arrange for the reception of visiting delegations.

Two official statements have been issued here on the subject. The foreign office announced that discussions would commence shortly with a Japanese commercial mission interested in stimulating imports into Chile, principally of cotton cloth. The statement said the chief delegates would arrive in December.

The second communication came from the finance ministry and informed the Japanese minister that Chilean customs offices had been instructed to permit the free entry of their import samples.

Newspapers here attribute the Japanese interest in Latin-American markets as "the natural sequel to the restriction of eastern markets owing to the Chinese boycott and British jealousy in India." A section of the press warns against the perils of Japanese economic competition and advocates increased tariffs to avoid undercutting by depreciated yen production.

Reports from Peru, Bolivia, Ecuador, and other Pacific coast republics of South America confirm that the Nipponese trade invasion has already begun and that Japanese agents are traveling through these countries with their wares.

Shipping connections between Japan and South America have been strengthened in accordance with the strategic campaign. More ships are being run across the Pacific and more ports of call are scheduled. Further facilities have also been planned on the run to the Atlantic coast republics via Africa.

The Japanese trade delegates, it is understood, will seek not only to foster business in different representative lines but, in the words of the foreign office here, also "study the general commercial situation with the object of intensifying trade relations between South America and Japan."

Whatever the Japanese plans may be—and it is obvious that they have not yet been fully revealed—they will encounter considerable South American opposition, politically and economically.

Influential political parties interpret the trade overtures as the first step in the Japanese "look to South America" policy. Hard headed national manufacturers look at their possible market losses as a result of Japanese competition.

The Chilean government recently had to go to the assistance of the local cement company, which had been deprived of valuable markets in the north owing to far eastern competition. Cheap Japanese cement had flooded out most South American markets.

THE STANDUP BAR.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Your editorial, "The Standup Bar," in your issue of Oct. 7 is so interesting in its absurdity that it should evoke considerable comment from clear thinking citizens.

For some inconceivable reason you consider it a greater evil to drink while standing up at a bar than to drink while sitting on a stool in front of a counter. You consider it a greater evil to drink while standing at a bar than to drink while sitting in a chair in a back room or in a room obscured by swinging doors and window blinds. Not one word in your editorial points to the evil of the back room or the "private dining room." To your way of thinking, the bar and not these hell holes makes the saloon.

The bar is a piece of equipment exceptionally well fitted for quick, efficient service. The bar determines the conduct of a drinking place in about the same proportion as the printing press formulates the policies of a newspaper. The open barroom with unobscured windows and doors and with back room eliminated seems to be the best method of liquor control when the sale is by the drink. Too much restriction will encourage the speakeasy. In those provinces in Canada where the barroom has been eliminated the speakeasy has taken its place. This fact seems to contradict your statement that "better systems of control are in successful operation in other countries and can be adapted to American conditions and needs."

CHICAGOANS AT THE FAIR.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Why not give some praise and credit to the born and raised Chicagoans who have been attending A Century of Progress Exposition almost steadily since its opening date? A young couple that I know personally have been attending the Fair regularly, though the young man is out of employment and the money he had saved he has been spending at the Fair doing his duty to make it a success. Several times they have missed being the millionth visitor, the prize always going to some one from some other city.

Chicagoans who could have gone to the Fair and haven't should be ashamed of themselves. A prize should be given to the person who has attended the Fair the greatest number of times.

EDITH I. HARTMANN.

NEXT YEAR'S FAIR.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Apropos the new Fair planned for 1934. I am hoping the plans include the opening to the public again of the North island beach and the exclusion of the Adler planetarium and its beautiful grounds and approach from the Fair inclosure.

The planetarium, like the aquarium, is a gift to the people of Chicago, rich and poor, and the great west side surely deserves a free beach again.

THE EVIL IN MEN'S HEARTS.

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 11.—The cartoon by Orr in this morning's paper is one that should never be forgotten. How true it is that never will war cease until the evil that dwells in the heart of man is driven out.

Nothing will ever drive out the evil that dwells in the heart of man until the Prince of Peace comes into it and gives him a heart of love. Then war will cease and we shall have peace.

AFTER PROHIBITION.

Moline, Ill., Nov. 9.—The eighteenth amendment now stands repealed, thereby ending the long fight carried on by the wets to destroy national restraint against the liquor traffic.

The temperance forces put up a valiant fight, but, handicapped by lack of money and nation-wide apathy of the great mass of dry voters, their efforts were futile. They could not compete with the millions of dollars spent by the wet interests, the great flood of wet propaganda, and the high pressure tactics of the national administration itself.

The claim that prohibition was voted out by a representative majority of the people is fallacious. Statistics from all the states which have thus far acted reveal that the total vote for repeal was only 24 per cent of the total eligible vote in these states, and only 39 per cent of the vote cast in the last presidential election.

In most of the states an abnormally light vote was cast and, with the stay at home vote greatest in the dry rural regions, it was inevitable that the large wet cities would be the deciding factor.

National prohibition is dead, but the temperance cause yet lives and the drys will carry on the fight more vigorously than ever against the liquor traffic. The wets can repeal laws against booze, but they can never repeal the destructive results of booze, and the tragic results of repeal will soon become manifest.

It is my confident prediction that after a few years of experience with the new wet regime the voters of this nation will again turn to national prohibition as the best and only real solution of the liquor problem. LESTER E. FROST.

OLD TIMERS IN OFFICE.

Maywood, Ill., Nov. 9.—Recently while serving on a jury I took the trouble of inquiring into the political situation in Chicago and Cook county, and I find that we do not get service for our tax dollar.

I attended two meetings of the county board, consisting of fifteen members, of which four are women, and I was astounded to note that 90 per cent of the time of one meeting was occupied with the women members chattering about nonessentials, and not a single male member of the county board took a definite stand on any subject except a young commissioner named Ryan. Then one of the women members made a motion to adjourn, and the male members of the board lit their cigars and called it a busy day.

Next year comes election time, and once more the voter or taxpayer will be asked to vote both in the primary and the general election for some old mossback politician, either Republican or Democrat, who has been at the political trough all his life. Why cannot we select young men for political office who can render us some service and brain power? Is it not possible for the American Legion, Association of Commerce, or universities to get together and select some young or middle aged men for political offices next spring? All of my life do I have to vote for either Bob Sweitzer or Bob Crowe, Clayton Smith or James Kearns, Joseph McDonough or Homer Galpin, Pat Nash or Charles Deneen, Mrs. Fleming or Mrs. Bemis, William Busse or Charles Weber, and so on down the line? Do the voters of this county have to keep political officers in office in perpetuity unto death? Give the taxpayers and voters some relief with new faces. We deserve a new deal!

WIFE OF PRINCE GETS SHARE OF YANKEE MILLIONS

Former Barbara Hutton Wins $20,000,000.

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The Princess Alexis Mdivani reached the age of 21 today and received a one-third share of the 60 million dollar estate left in 1919 by her grandfather, F. W. Woolworth, pioneer of the 5 and 10 cent stores.

She returned to the United States last week to celebrate the occasion and to present Prince Alexis Mdivani, whom she married as Miss Barbara Hutton five months ago in Paris.

In their honor her father, Franklyn Hutton, stock broker, gave a dinner party at the Hutton home, 1020 5th avenue. Surrounded by 50 guests at small tables, a Hungarian orchestra, and opera singers as entertainers the daughter made it evident she still felt as she did before the spectacular wedding in Paris, when she told the world "It's going to be fun to be a princess."

"As long as she is happy," her father declared then, "that's enough for me."

"We are very happy," the princess told the friends who wished her well tonight.

Prince Alexis also was pleased. His wife had no intention of turning him into a hard working American business man. She had even explained publicly it was because he had no such intention either that she was attracted to him.

41ST WARDERS ASK FEEDER BUS ON HIGGINS ROAD

Several hundred residents of the 41st ward, which takes in the far northwest side of the city, appeared in a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday in a plea for the installation of street car feeder buses on a four mile stretch on Higgins road between Canfield road on the west to Milwaukee avenue on the east.

The feeder bus extension would eliminate the payment of an additional ten cent fare which residents now must pay for bus connections with trolley lines.

The delegation was led by Ald. James C. Moreland, who filed a petition for the feeder bus extension last March. A dozen witnesses presented testimony, being questioned by Attorney Edwin A. Feldott, counsel for Ald. Moreland.

Air Line Claims Record on Long Distance Travel

United Air Lines officials yesterday claimed an international record for long distance operation on the Chicago-California route. During the last six months 99.44 per cent of the 2,803,000 miles of flight scheduled were flown over the 2,000 mile route, half of it at night. Sixty-nine per cent, or 1,003 of the 1,457 scheduled flights, were completed on time or within thirty minutes of schedule. Only 172 trips were two hours or more late. The six month period covers the time that the route has been flown by new high speed equipment, on schedules that are forty miles an hour faster than previously.

MARY McCORMIC DIVORCES PRINCE SERGE MDIVANI

Tells Judge He Threatens to Maim Her.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Another "marrying Mdivani," Prince Serge of the soviet province of Georgia, "struck out" in the American matrimonial game today. He was divorced by Mary McCormic, opera singer.

Serge did not show up in court. This is the second "strike out." He married Pola Negri, film actress, in 1925, but she divorced him in Paris in 1931.

Only a few weeks ago, Mae Murray, another film actress, divorced Serge's brother, Prince David, here. The other member of the noble trio, Alexis, is married now to Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress. He was divorced a few years ago by Louise Astor Van Allen of New York.

Another Noble Experiment Fails.

Jauntily attired, Miss McCormic took the stand today and told the judge her marriage was "a noble experiment, but it didn't work out."

In other days, both she and Miss Negri described Prince Serge as the "world's greatest lover," but today the singer said he struck her, threatened to maim her and called her "terrible names." Some of these she repeated to the judge.

Miss McCormic said she footed all the household bills and that Serge never supported her.

"He didn't want me to have any friends," she testified. "He said I must remember I was a princess and could not associate with common people."

In this connection, Mrs. Carrie Doran, friend of the singer, testified that Prince Serge once told Miss McCormic that she, the singer, was beneath his station in life.

"I'll say he did!" was Miss McCormic's answer to her lawyer's query as to whether the prince ever abused her.

She said he locked her in the bathroom of their apartment in a Beverly Hills hotel one time and took the keys to her automobile so she could not keep an engagement.

Miss McCormic's suit originally was for separate maintenance but before court opened today, her lawyer, Michael Luddy, changed it to ask outright divorce, as Prince Serge already had asked in his answer to her separate maintenance suit. In that answer, he charged that she was too friendly with Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate and opera patron, now a fugitive in Greece.

Terms Are Not Disclosed.

Luddy said a property settlement satisfactory to both Miss McCormic and the prince had been made out of court. The terms were not disclosed.

The singer later discussed her reported romance with Harry Bannister, divorced husband of Ann Harding, movie actress, and referred to him as "a perfect fiancé," but said that didn't mean she was contemplating marriage, especially since under California laws her divorce is not final until one year hence. She said she might have numerous other fiancés before November, 1934.

Miss McCormic's marriage with Serge she described as "a little bit, ah—disconcerting—more so than my last one," but she said she could not remember her first husband's first name and supposed it would not be long until she could not recall Serge's either.

She and the prince married at Phoenix, Ariz., April 17, 1931, about two weeks after Miss Negri divorced him.

CAB KILLS MAN AND SPEEDS ON; DRIVER BLAMES ROBBERS

John Beiger, 2101 South 47th court, Cicero, a chauffeur, fatally injured a pedestrian with his taxicab last night. He surrendered early this morning and told police he did not stop because he was a prisoner of bandits at the time and they forced him to keep on driving.

The pedestrian killed was Robert Berney, 60 years old, of 2230 South Harvey avenue, Berwyn. He was struck at 52d avenue and 23d street, Cicero, and died in Berwyn hospital.

About 1 o'clock this morning Beiger appeared at the Cicero police station. He said two bandits got into his car at 22d street and Austin boulevard and made him drive east in 22d street. After he hit Berney, he said, he began slowing down, but the robbers, threatening him with guns, ordered him to drive on. He took them to Wilson avenue and Sheridan road and then to 23d street and Oakley avenue, where they robbed him of $4 and escaped, he said. Beiger was held for the inquest.

Berney's death and one other yesterday raised to 953 the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1. The other victim:

George Mansfield, 70 years old, colored, 51 East 59th street. Died at the Provident hospital of injuries incurred Nov. 10 when his automobile struck an elevated railway pillar at 64th and Wallace streets.

ELDERLY COUPLE RESCUED FROM BLAZING HOME

Ralph Bacon, 82 years old, and his wife, Amelia, 79, were rescued by firemen early this morning after they had been overcome by smoke in their home at 1939 Austin avenue.

Charles Bratt, driver for John Groves, chief of the fifth fire battalion, found them unconscious on the floor of the kitchen. They were taken to the county hospital, where it was said their condition was serious.

The fire, which started from an overheated furnace shortly after 1 a. m., caused damage estimated at $1,000.

The Bacons were to attend the funeral of their daughter, Mae, 49 years old, at 10 a. m. today in the chapel at 2346 Madison street.

SCHOOL BOARD STUDIES LUNCH ROOM DEFICIT

Calls Bogan and Household Arts Director.

The board of education will hold a hearing today to determine the sources of losses incurred by lunchrooms in the fifty-two high schools and branches. A deficit of $9,884 in the operation of the lunchroom system for September prompted the inquiry.

Supt. William J. Bogan and Frances L. Swain, director of household arts, will be asked to explain the losses and to advise the trustees on how to avoid a deficit in the future. James B. McCahey, president of the school board, declared that at a future hearing Chicago restaurant owners will be invited to give suggestions to the board for a more efficient lunchroom system.

To Question Managers.

Lunch room managers will also be questioned regarding purchases of meats, milk, and other products. An investigation recently conducted by the board has revealed a wide discrepancy in the prices paid for staples by school lunchrooms throughout the city.

"We learned that some lunchroom managers are purchasing milk at 33 cents a gallon," explained Mr. McCahey. "The board has been paying 25 cents a gallon for milk purchased for the Parental school."

The investigation also disclosed, Mr. McCahey said, that some lunchrooms were being operated efficiently with little help, while others had hired what seemed an excessive number of employés.

Favor Central Buying Agency.

Board members have indicated that they favor some form of central buying agency to keep the prices down. The gross receipts from the sale of meals and candy in the school lunchrooms at the close of the school year in June, 1933, amounted to approximately $800,000. Before the depression the gross sales from the business had been more than $1,000,000.

Three high school lunchrooms are operated by women's clubs. These are: Schurz High school, operated by the Irving Park Women's club; Senn High school, Rogers Park Women's club, and Englewood High school, Englewood Women's club. The school board, however, pays for cleaning and heating the rooms.

Auto Lenders, Under Fire, Sue to Enjoin State Offices

Eight concerns which lend money on automobiles filed a suit for injunction yesterday against Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance. They seek a court order prohibiting him from enforcing regulations promulgated on Nov. 1 on the ground that they are oppressive and illegal and will prevent the petitioners from making money.

Chief among the complaints are that the insurance director will not permit them to write auto insurance in connection with their loan business and that he refuses to allow them to hypothecate notes for loans from the banks. The lenders also complain that the state official will not let them collect commissions for storage, towing, servicing, and repairing automobiles they seize. Further they object to the approved forms for notes and chattel mortgages.

Lenders Form Association.

Joining in the suit are Lewis E. Bowers, Inc., the Chicago Discount corporation, the Finance credit corporation, the Inland Investment plan, the Liberty Loan association, the Majestic Investment corporation, the Motor Car Discount corporation and the Motor Loan company. These concerns are licensed to lend amounts up to $300, with automobiles as security, at 42 per cent a year under the small loans act. They are also members of the Association of Automobile Finance companies, organized in October, 1932, following a drive of the Better Business Bureau against unlicensed lenders.

"We are receiving many complaints against two types of money lenders, the so called salary buyers and the high rate automobile lenders," said Frank H. Lancer, head of the loan shark division of the Better Business bureau. "We launched a drive first upon the salary buyers, who were collecting 240 per cent interest.

"Then informed the banks that they had no right to accept notes for small loans as collateral. The banks demanded new collateral, and the automobile lenders decided to become licensed and formed their association.

"After our campaign the auto lenders were put under the supervision of the state insurance department and the new regulations imposed by Mr. Palmer apparently resulted from the many complaints we received and forwarded to him."

Among the methods employed by the automobile money lenders to extract more than the legal rate of interest, according to Mr. Lancer, are the bond and the insurance rackets. Borrowers were required to put up from $6 to $12 for surety bond to protect the lender against the removal or sale of the automobile. Also, the borrower would be charged from $12 to $15 for insurance on his car. Under the law the only extra charges permissible are moneys paid to a public officer, such as for recording mortgages.

"But the principal racket," said Mr. Lancer, "was seizing the automobiles when the borrowers made their first defaults. One company even had a separate division dealing in used cars."

Gets Insurance Commission.

Mr. Lancer said that Glen E. Dewey, president of the Automobile Lenders' association, formerly had his own insurance business, Glen E. Dewey, Inc., and that members of the association sent him their business, on which Dewey received a commission. Lancer also said that Lewis E. Bowers, whose name heads the list of the complainants, obtained a lender's license in June, 1932, after he was threatened with prosecution by the state's attorney's office.

Hiram McCullogh, Mr. Palmer's assistant in charge of small loans, said the regulations were promulgated with the advice of the attorney general, and that when Dewey, president of the association, protested he was told to go ahead and file the injunction suit.

HOME OWNERS GIVEN HELP TO FIGHT TAX SALE

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $313,250, making a total of $86,787,719 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

| | 1928. | 1929. |
|---|---|---|
| Nov. 14 | $ 34,427 | $ 54,003 |
| Uncollected | 16,472,953 | 44,141,291 |
| | 1930. | 1931. |
| Nov. 14 | $ 76,710 | $ 148,110 |
| Uncollected | 60,947,348 | 71,352,033 |

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $3,847.

The Chicago Real Estate Board, acting on the request of County Judge Jarecki, announced yesterday that it would aid home owners in filing objections to the sale of their property for delinquent 1931 taxes. The real estate board has filed a test objection to the sale of the 438,000 homes and small flat buildings in Cook county, asking that Judge Jarecki apply a 15 per cent reduction to the assessed valuation of these properties.

Judge Jarecki instructed the real estate board to station employés in one of the rooms adjoining his court where complaints are filed and inform the home owners that their objections can all be included in the test objection.

"In this way we can protect the home owner from being the prey of racketeering tax associations," Judge Jarecki said.

During the day the judge appointed County Treasurer McDonough receiver for 33 income bearing properties to collect delinquent taxes totaling $94,000 under the Kerner-Skarda act. Other property owners paid a total of $64,000 to avoid receiverships.

MOTHER GETS SIXTY DAYS FOR ELECTION FRAUD

Mrs. Lina Singer, 3339 Douglas boulevard, was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail yesterday by Judge Charles T. Allen of Woodstock, who is hearing election fraud cases in the Cook County court. Mrs. Singer, who is a sister of Harry Weisbrod, former state representative, and former Assistant State's Attorney Martin O. Weisbrod, was found guilty of making a false canvass of votes in the 41st precinct of the 24th ward where she acted as Republican judge of election in the election of Nov. 8, 1932.

Attorney Martin O. Weisbrod made a plea for his sister, declaring that she had a sick child and that their parents were in ill health. Judge Allen, however, imposed the sentence, stating: "This is the most painful duty I have ever performed."

Two other women who acted as clerks in the same precinct were also given jail terms. Mrs. Florence Arleu, 1431 South Homan avenue, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and Miss Martha Rabinovitz, 1434 South Turner avenue, was sentenced to 15 days in jail.

SCHOOL WORKERS RECEIVE $900,000 IN TAX WARRANTS

More than $900,000 worth of 1933 educational fund tax warrants were received by teachers and other school employés in lieu of cash for their March salaries yesterday in the warrant distribution headquarters set up at 128 North Wells street. It is expected that two weeks will be necessary for the distribution of the $4,099,000 in warrants. Arthur Schweitzer, assistant business manager of the school system, in charge of the warrant division, estimated that more than 4,000 persons had appeared at the office during the day. Principals from several schools, he said, appeared at the hearquarters to obtain all the warrants for the teachers under their supervision.

2 CENTS A MILE NEW RAIL FARE ON NORTH SHORE

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad announced yesterday that, beginning Dec. 1, fares in all service between points would be cut from 3.6 to 2 cents a mile. This is more than a 44 per cent decrease. Also, it was announced that the two day round trip excursion fares from the suburbs to downtown would be cut more than 10 per cent.

"The North Shore line in slashing its fares in the hope that this will stimulate business and induce people to travel again," said R. S. Amis, passenger traffic manager. "The new fare of 2 cents a mile is far below the cost of operating an automobile."

Malone's Brother-in-Law Sails to Join Kin Abroad

Norman Johnson, brother-in-law of William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, who was recently indicted on charges of income tax evasion, sailed for Europe last Saturday an hour before federal agents learned of his whereabouts, it was revealed yesterday at the United States courthouse. Johnson sailed on the motorship Manhattan, which will travel to Ireland, England, and then to Germany, where Malone was last reported. Agents also learned that Johnson drove to New York in Malone's automobile and is believed to have taken the car aboard the ship.

WOMEN OF WEST SIDE THRONG TO COOKING SCHOOL

Applaud Mrs. Chitwood's Culinary Arts.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Snow and cold weather apparently whetted the cooking appetites of 5,000 women who yesterday attended the first west side session of THE TRIBUNE'S school of cookery in Guyon's Paradise ballroom, Crawford avenue near Washington boulevard.

HARRY REED. [Singer on cooking school program today.]

A few of them arrived as early as 8:30 in the morning. By 11 o'clock the large ballroom was nearly filled, and by the time the program opened at 12:30 a capacity crowd was in attendance. Many of the women who came early were provided with box lunches. They ate in leisurely fashion, then settled down to tatting or knitting.

Mrs. Chitwood At Work.

On the stage Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, home economics expert, bustled about with even more than her accustomed energy, seemingly conscious that keen, experienced eyes watched every move. She smiled when, half way through her lecture, a note was handed her from the audience.

"Do you always handle your pie dough so much?" it read.

"No, in my own home I don't handle it so much, because I'm not talking so much," Mrs. Chitwood said smilingly.

It was an appreciative if critical audience, however. Long drawn sighs of "A-ah!" greeted Mrs. Chitwood when she held aloft a large dish of "Japanese salad" festively garnished. Heads nodded with approval when her cranberry apple pie emerged from the oven. Tender smiles appeared when she chopped an onion for "Mexican rabbit," as if by that gesture she proved herself a kindred spirit who knew real cookery from false.

Community Pride Appears.

A sense of community pride was demonstrated more than once by the west side audience. When Carl Craven, leading them in singing, declared that he remembered from a previous year that they sang better than south siders, they laughed and applauded, after which they outdid themselves singing "Sweet Adeline."

When Mrs. Chitwood, looking over her audience, which included the home economics classes of the Siena High school, said that she could see she had experts to deal with, women in the front row smiled complacently, accepting the compliment as natural. Later a girl from the Siena classes, Mary Kathryn Gasey, walked up on the platform and gave Mrs. Chitwood a bouquet of chrysanthemums "from the west side women."

One Man Band Applauded.

A variety of entertainment was served up to the west siders, including the much applauded Harry Froster Welch, "one man band," who acts as a human sound machine in some talking pictures. He duplicated an orchestra and a few operatic stars, as well as two planes engaged in an air battle.

Charlie Agnew, orchestra leader of W-G-N and the Stevens hotel, appeared, introducing Emrie Ann Lincoln, who sings with the orchestra. Russ Russell, W-G-N staff announcer, introduced Agnew. Helen Bartush, soprano, sang several solos, and pupils of Miss Mayblossom Macdonald in the Ideal Dance studios danced, accompanied in one number by Leslie C. Groff, accordion player.

Miss Fanny Butcher, literary critic of THE TRIBUNE, and Miss Ruth De Young, assistant to the society editor, gave short talks.

Delicacies Passed Around.

Mrs. Chitwood was introduced by Miss Mary Meade, THE TRIBUNE cooking editor. Phil Maxwell acted as master of ceremonies. Miss Lorraine Nevens and Miss Lois Grider in chef costumes passed around Mrs. Chitwood's creations to members of the audience. They also distributed bushels of groceries.

Another treat in cookery education was provided for the west side women by Erik Dahlberg, maitre d'hotel of the Drake who, in describing to them how ices and cakes are made and formed, told them that he had provided these delicacies for at least 800 weddings on the west side. As he lectured a chef demonstrated a pair of ice love birds seated on a nest of ice, a feature which, said Mr. Dahlberg, is always in demand for weddings.

Today Master of Ceremonies Maxwell will present another elaborate entertainment program at the second day's session of THE TRIBUNE'S west side cooking school. Classes in the school are being held for four days on each of the three sides of the city. Last week the south side school drew capacity crowds each day. Next week north side women will learn about cooking from Mrs. Chitwood when THE TRIBUNE school of cookery is held in the Aragon ballroom.

Today's Program of School.

Stars of "Rube Appleberry," W-G-N radio feature, will be introduced by Bob Elson, W-G-N staff announcer, at this afternoon's program. Tony D'Orazi, W-G-N cartoonist of the air, will help the entertainment along. Stage stars will include 10 members of the cast of the Show Boat Dixiana, who will present excerpts from the old melodrama, "No Mother to Guide Her."

Harry Reed, war veteran singer, will appear in several solo numbers, and the Eva Fitz-Gerald Studio of Dramatic Art will present a number of pupils in dances. Ernest Amiet, executive chef at the Palmer house, will lecture briefly. Frank Bennett, accompanied by his wife, Cathryn, will lead community singing.

Miss Edith Weigle and Miss Eleanor Nangle, members of the staff of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, will give short talks.

BARBARA STANWYCK AND FAY WIN SUIT OF PORTRAIT PAINTER

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 14.—(AP)—A judgment favoring Barbara Stanwyck, movie actress, and her director husband, Frank Fay, was handed down by Municipal Judge Leo Aggeler today in the $1,000 suit against them by John Decker to collect for his services in painting a portrait of the couple's two year old son, Dion.

Decker contended the Fays commissioned him to paint the portrait. They said Decker gave it to them without charge with the understanding their son would sit for a portrait when he was older.

Witnesses in the trial variously estimated the painting to be worth the price Decker asked, and as low as $3.50.

CITY INTERVENES IN BATTLE FOR LOWER GAS RATE

Joins I. C. C. Against Pipe Line Company.

Federal Judges George T. Page, James H. Wilkerson, and John P. Barnes, sitting en banc, yesterday permitted the city of Chicago to intervene in litigation in which the Chicago District Pipeline company is seeking to restrain the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing lower rates for natural gas.

The Chicago District Pipeline company sells gas to the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and the Western United company. These three concerns pay about 8 million dollars a year to the pipe line for gas which comes from the southwestern fields.

Cuts Payment to $6,600,000.

The Illinois commerce commission in its ruling reduced that payment to $6,600,000 and held that sum would yield the pipeline company a "fair rate of return." Attorney Frank Daley, representing the pipeline company, argued that the payment would amount to confiscation of the company property. He also contended that the commerce commission was exceeding its authority in ruling on gas originating in the panhandle district.

The contract of the three utility companies with the pipeline company provides that they shall buy at least 180,000,000 cubic feet of gas each year.

City Allowed to Intervene.

The city, through Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman, holds that the amount of gas stipulated in the contract is too large. The assistant corporation counsel was allowed to intervene in the case and the city became a co-defendant with the commerce commission.

Attorney Grossman's effort to file a brief in the case yesterday was unsuccessful when the three judges ruled that the document contained extraneous material. The council for the city was ordered to follow the line of defense offered by Attorneys Irvin Rooks, Howard C. Knott, and Robert Farrell for the commerce commission. Arguments in the case are expected to last two days, now that the city has intervened in the case.

LINDBERGHS PLAN TO FLY ACROSS OCEAN BY STAGES

May Stop at Azores and Bermuda.

CALDELAS DE TUY, Spain, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today he is considering flying across the middle Atlantic by stages as a continuation of his aerial survey of the north Atlantic.

He will not fly nonstop, he said, and it was indicated that he may follow the route originally mapped by the late Capt. Alan Winslow and followed in reverse last summer by the Italian seaplane squadron under the command of Italo Balbo.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, who were forced down near here by fog yesterday on a flight from Santona, Spain, to Lisbon, planned to continue the journey tomorrow, if weather permits.

Dredge River for Takeoff.

Lindbergh today supervised the dredging of the Minho river in order to make possible the takeoff of his seaplane. The river is shallow and rocky.

A crew of Spanish soldiers and Portuguese fishermen helped him. The plane was moored to a tree on the river bank opposite the summer home of former Premier Pimenta de Castro of Portugal in the Portuguese town of Valenca do Minho.

The colonel rose early today and examined the motors and refueled. Later he boarded the gunboat Pradera in order to examine the river for a possible takeoff place.

Sleep Aboard Plane.

The Americans stayed aboard their seaplane last night and were taken ashore today by the launch of the gunboat. They were entertained by village authorities.

Aviation officials believed Lindbergh might halt at Bermuda and the Azores on the return flight. In this way he will have checked flying conditions in both directions across the northern and southern routes over the north Atlantic.

The Lindberghs visited Valenca do Minho, Portugal, across the river from here this afternoon. The colonel refused offers of hospitality by the town consul, saying he preferred to sleep in his seaplane because he feared the river currents might carry the plane from its moorings.

Donald: "But, mother, nearly all the other boys who were absent could come in cars but their folks don't even try to use them in cold weather—'cause they can't get them started." Mother: "Maybe, dear, they don't use the right gas and oil—that's practically the only difference between our car and many others. Understand, Donald, people are careless—they fail to get penetrative oil—found only in Germ Processed Motor Oil made by Conoco. Cold oil, even winter grade, unless it is right, makes it hard for the starter to revolve the motor. Conoco Oil helps motors turn over easily and then the Conoco Bronze Gasoline acts at the first spark and the motor starts at once."

Full motor protection, especially in cold motor starting, can be found only in Conoco Germ Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil because the penetrative oiliness, called "The Hidden Quart," stays up in your motor and never drains away. Conoco Germ Processed Oil is the highest grade motor oil obtainable . . . the paraffin base crude oil sources, the scientific skill and the most modern of refineries combine to make it so. Then it is Germ Processed with an exclusive Conoco formula.

Instant Starting and Lightning Pickup can best be obtained with Conoco Bronze Gasoline, and without sacrifice of Long Mileage, Greater Power and Anti-Knock advantages. For cold weather starting it cannot be excelled—all the possible fuel needs of modern cars have been fulfilled at no increase in price.

It can be easily identified by its bronze color but you must be sure it is Conoco Bronze Gasoline for only in this way can its advantages of unusual performance and greater economy be obtained.

CASE WORKERS ARE BLAMED FOR RELIEF FRAUDS

Inefficient Methods Hit by Prosecutor.

Gross inefficiency of case workers for the Cook county bureau of public welfare has been disclosed in the campaign of prosecution against relief frauds, James A. Peterson, attorney in charge of fraud investigations for the Illinois emergency relief commission, said yesterday.

"The case records that have come to us for prosecution reveal a sad lack of investigation on the part of the individual case workers," he said. "Nearly all of the frauds we have prosecuted were committed in the fall of last year and were not discovered until the following spring or summer. Efficient case work would have eliminated, or at least minimized, a great number of frauds.

"Some of the case work is almost unbelievable. In a number of instances the case worker failed to visit offending families for a year, and when the visit finally was made apparently there was no effort to determine what new income or employment the family had found. It is not strange that we find fraud existing under such lax conditions."

18 Convictions So Far.

The drive against relief frauds, instituted a month ago on the order of Robert J. Dunham, new chairman of the relief commission, has resulted in eighteen convictions carrying sentences ranging from a few days to six months in the house of correction, Mr. Peterson said. The drive is gaining momentum rapidly, and a much larger number of convictions is anticipated in the next month.

Mr. Peterson said the prosecution of frauds has been pushed despite the opposition of many social work executives, chief among whom are the advisory board of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, headed by Joel D. Hunter. Hunter called on Peterson Monday to tell him that the prosecution of cases in which the central committee on fraud did not recommend such action was not approved by either the advistory board or the committee on fraud. Mr. Peterson announced he intends to prosecute all fraud cases "to the limit" regardless of the pressure that is brought to bear upon him.

Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, was asked to comment on the poor case work disclosed in the fraud prosecutions.

Denies Poor Case Work.

"Don't these convictions on frauds demonstrate very poor case work?" Mr. Moss was asked.

"No," he replied.

"Have you discharged any case workers for inefficiency of the type disclosed by the fraud prosecutions?"

"No."

"If any case worker is shown to have been negligent in her investigations by these convictions will she be discharged?"

"I suppose so," Moss replied. "Of course, the reason that more frauds were not uncovered previously is that the case workers carried such large case loads that they could not do their work properly."

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the relief commission, who served in that capacity under the former commission, was asked about the case work inefficiency.

"I don't think these convictions represent any mishandling on the part of the case workers," he said. "An analysis I have made of the individual cases does not convince me that there was excessively bad case work."

"Why were there no prosecutions six months ago when frauds were first discovered?" he was asked.

Indictment of Conditions.

"In the midst of a heavy relief load it was not possible to jump in and prosecute individual cases," Reynolds said. "It was necessary to reduce the case loads per case worker first to allow the worker to single out the frauds and to be able to carry the prosecutions through. These convictions are not an indictment of case workers, but of the conditions under which they worked."

"If definite negligence is shown won't the case worker involved be discharged?" he was asked.

"If almost criminal negligence is shown we will have to discipline the case worker," he said. "It is a matter of studying individual cases. We are making such a study now."

Two new convictions for relief frauds were obtained by Mr. Peterson's staff yesterday. Martin Daley, 38 years old, 842 West 54th street, was sentenced by Judge Leon Edelman in the Stockyards court to thirty days in the House of Correction for raising relief orders. Robert Stevens, 26 years old, 5222 South Wood street, was sentenced by Judge Alfred O. Erickson in the Relief court to thirty days in the House of Correction for a $48.75 fraud.

Judge Erickson dismissed charges against Mrs. Pauline Simeon, 45, 914 West 31st place, after she had made restitution of $233 obtained fraudulently from the relief agency. She was employed as a janitress in the Federal Reserve Bank building at the same time that she was receiving relief funds.

The judge reopened the case of Peter Zintoy, 6124 West Addison street, whom he sentenced to five days in the house of correction yesterday, and cut the sentence to three days. Zintoy had defrauded the relief agency of $330, but made restitution in full.

Relief Rolls Reduced.

There was a net decrease of 959 families on the rolls of the Cook county bureau of public welfare in October compared to September, according to the monthly report issued yesterday. Last month 116,446 families received aid. The next decrease would have been greater except for an increase of 5,903 in the number of new applications for aid last month.

Relief expenditures in Cook county last month amounted to $4,780,271, an increase of $299,271 over expenses of September. The average sum spent per family on relief was $36.91, an increase of $2.41 over the preceding month. This increase was due to $281,930 spent for fuel, compared to $48,718 spent for that item the previous month; $387,024 for clothing, compared to $227,554 the previous month; an increase of $30,000 in rent payments and an expenditure of $30,000 for stoves and stove repairs.

ESTATE OF GATES EVENTUALLY TO GO TO HOSPITAL

The Presbyterian hospital eventually will receive almost the whole of the $750,000 estate of Philetus Warren Gates, retired vice president of the Allis-Chalmers company, machinery manufacturers, under the terms of a will admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell.

Mr. Gates died Nov. 7, at the age of 76, in his apartment in the Orrington hotel, Evanston. He made outright bequests of $10,000 to the Evanston hospital and of $2,500 each to two nephews and a niece. The remainder of the estate is placed in trust for life for his widow, Mrs. Phimelia Gates.

At the death of Mrs. Gates, the estate is to be divided into twelve portions. Twelve relatives and friends are to receive the income from these portions during their lives, with the proviso that any income over $3,000 a year to each legatee is to go to the Presbyterian hospital. At the death of each of the twelve, that share of the principal will go to the hospital also.

Head of Royal Academy of Painters Dies in London

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Sir David Murray, 84, president of the Royal Academy of Painters since 1917, died here today.

OFFICERS HOLD DOWN EXPENSES IN CHARITY DRIVE

Most of Workers Are Volunteers.

Strict economy is being practiced by the administrative and campaign offices of the Community fund of Allied Chicago Charities. A visit to the headquarters of the fund at 111 West Washington street, yesterday, the opening day of the campaign to raise $4,000,000 needed by 102 private welfare organizations to supplement their budgets, revealed that the officers of the fund are making every effort to keep down administrative expense.

While nearly 1,000 men were opening their canvass of the city's employed people, suggesting that each give a half day's pay a month for six months, typewriters and adding machines clicked in the Community fund offices. In eight rooms a staff of 80 workers began the tremendous task of mailing, auditing, and filing reports. Only a half dozen of the entire staff will receive any pay from the fund. This is the staff that is necessary the entire year to distribute the money and take care of the essential office work in behalf of the cooperating charities.

Most of Workers Volunteers.

The rest of the staff is composed of volunteer workers. The executive heads are business leaders who are contributing their time and advice. The ranks are filled with workers loaned by various business concerns. The office space is donated, as well as the printing of pamphlets and posters.

Only the necessary furniture has been moved into the offices. It was loaned by friends of the fund. Officers of the fund emphasized that the volunteering of office personnel and materials and campaign workers is in addition to contributions which will be given by the various companies or their employés.

A feeling that the contributing public is a little better off financially and that employment is a little more widespread this year, leads the fund executives to believe that the $4,000,000 will be raised.

"Better Community Spirit."

"There is more of a united community spirit toward private charities than in the past," explained R. Douglas Stuart, president of the fund. "The charity drives of similar nature preceding the Community fund have prepared the public for this form of giving. They know more of what the fund is and what the private charities do."

Three divisions, each having its own field, are actively engaged in raising the fund. The first, the sponsoring group, worked quietly in advance of the public opening yesterday. This group already has raised $1,500,460 from 881 subscribers, and expects to raise half the total. The second group is the trades, industries, and professions group, which opened the canvass from among the employed. The third division is the women's division which will follow the suggestion of the 1933 mobilization for human needs. The women will make their appeal through clubs and churches.

The first results from the public campaign will be announced in about a week, when a meeting of campaign workers will be held.

H. L. HAYWARD, ENCYCLOPEDIA PUBLISHER, DIES

Horace L. Hayward, for many years publisher of the Encyclopedia Americana and long a resident of Chicago, died Monday night at Punta Gorda, Fla., after a long illness, according to dispatches received here yesterday.

Mr. Hayward was born in Medora, Ill., Feb. 23, 1871. He came to Chicago in his youth, and in 1909 began the publication of the Encyclopedia Americana, becoming president and treasurer of the Americana corporation, which now has offices at 333 North Michigan avenue. He retired two years ago because of ill health and moved to Florida. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marguerite L. Hayward, and one daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Becker of Chicago.

In addition to his publishing business Mr. Hayward was interested in outdoor sports. His hobby at one time was horses and he owned and drove the trotter, Dandy Jim, which set a world trotting record for a half mile track by going a mile in 2:01¼ in 1897.

Funeral services will be held at Punta Gorda tomorrow.

W. J. Harrison, 33 years old, who described himself as a golf professional and in whose room the party was held; Miss Anne Cook, 23 years old, of Calumet City, and Leo Ebert, a waiter at the Savoy hotel, were held for questioning by the Hammond police. ## Triangle Club Show Will Be December 26

Change Date of Dance for Marie Gardner.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE dinner dance that the Henry A. Gardners will give for their debutante daughter, Marie Louise, during the Christmas holidays will be on Christmas night instead of the next night, for two reasons. First, because the Princeton Triangle club has decided to give a performance here on Tuesday the 26th, and second, because Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Carton had planned to give a dinner for Miss Gardner before the Triangle club show. Their dinner is to be at the Casino and so is the Gardners' dinner dance.

The local Princeton club is trying to arrange to obtain the Auditorium theater for the 26th but that is the date set for the opening of a new Chicago opera company, so it may be that the Princetonians will have to appear in another theater. That this new company will open then is not certain, so it is quite possible that the Triangle club will give its show in the old theater where it has appeared so many times before.

Miss Jean Wilhelm's debut ball is set for the 26th so the Princeton visitors are assured of a gay party after the performance and this particular debutante is sure to have the most successful ball of the season for so many extra stags always "make" a dance, at least in the estimation of the girls. Miss Wilhelm's parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy are giving the ball at the Blackstone hotel.

Plan Parties for Mme. de Gramont.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter will entertain Mme. Elizabeth de Gramont at luncheon on Friday, later taking her to the symphony concert, and that night Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed will give a dinner for the distinguished French writer and speaker, who arrives today for a week's stay.

Mme. de Gramont, as she prefers to be called, although she is a member of the two oldest ducal families in France, will lecture on "Châteaux and Château Life in France" at the fourth Town Hall lecture at the Drake hotel Saturday morning, after which Le Cercle Français and the Alliance Française will give a luncheon for her at the Casino.

On Wednesday afternoon of next week she will talk to the Juniors of the Alliance at Mrs. Charles S. Dewey's residence about the great dressmakers of Paris. Mme. de Gramont is said to combine the charm of old France with the modernity of new France and the result is delightful, so Chicago society is looking forward to meeting her with great pleasure.

Landowners' Party of Longmeadow Hunt.

When the Longmeadow Hounds ride cross-country west of Winnetka Saturday afternoon they will gather up all of the farmers over whose lands they ride and bring them back to the Kenilworth club Saturday evening for the best party of the Longmeadow hunt season. Old English fashion it is the landowners' party, the annual night on which landowners and huntsmen mingle and the latter make payment for the fences they have damaged during their season.

In past years there have been at least 300 guests for the party, Clark J. Lawrence, the M. F. H. of the Longmeadow Hounds, explained yesterday, so this time another gala gathering is anticipated with everything from radio skits to Virginia reels for entertainment. Movies will start the evening off about 8 o'clock. Songs, vaudeville stunts, and dances in the Victorian interpretation will follow.

There has been more enthusiasm among the Longmeadow riders this year than ever before. Every Monday morning they're up at 6:40 to follow the field and every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon they're out again with their pack of hounds.

The Hill Blacketts are riding with the hunt for the first time this year. And so are Miss Veronese Beatty, the Ross J. Beattys' daughter; Ira C. Darling, the Denison Hulls, Henry Scarborough Jr., and Clifford Templeton. Every week-end Carlisle Winslow and A. L. Schmedeman Jr., son of Wisconsin's governor, come down from Madison to ride.

Among the more familiar followers of the Winnetka hunt are the Donald McPhersons, the William McIlvaines, the Ernest Ballards, Howard Fenton, Ernest Hicks, and Thomas McKernan. All of them will be hosts at the landowners' party Saturday night.

Mrs. Wirt Dexter to Leave Today.

Mrs. Wirt Dexter is leaving today for her home in Boston after a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, of Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Dexter was one of the charter members of the Fortnightly and is one of the most dearly loved women of her generation, so whenever she is here she is kept busy seeing old friends.

James Keeley is sailing tomorrow from New York on the President Polk for a trip through the Panama canal and a one day visit with his daugh-

Preparing Church's Famous Mince Meat

Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson and Mrs. James L. Houghteling spent all of yesterday in the kitchen of the St. James community house mixing and cooking the famous St. James mince meat which will be on sale at the utility and food sale the women's guild of the church will hold on Tuesday, Nov. 28, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. at the community house, 666 Rush street. And then at 6:30 and again at 7:30 there will be the famous dollar turkey dinner that the guild specializes in each year. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE 1934 World's Fair will not be merely a warmed over anti-climactic continuation of the 1933 Fair, it appears from some information offered yesterday by one of our scouts. First, you may expect to see at least eight Latin-American republics combined in a general Pan-American exhibition. There may be more by the time the Fair opens; eight are now ready to sign.

Fair—
Serenity—
Flowers—
Club—

Money is being raised for a typical Irish street and inn in connection with the Irish Free State exhibition. Peru, which almost sent her FAR-FAN, a pre-Incan opera played entirely by Quichua Indians, is expected to send that oldest opera of the world for the 1934 Fair. This opera is expected to be one of the features of the exhibition, and with other countries sending spectacles as interesting, the Pan-American building will present one of the most picturesque spectacles at the Fair. Secretary of State Cordell Hull's visit to Montevideo, promoting good feelings and better communication between the Americans, may help to make the 1934 exhibition bigger than is anticipated, it is pointed out.

* *

THE women's organizations and fraternal societies are to be asked to help with something to take the place of the peep-shows. Two spectacles are suggested, to be financed by the sale of $10 certificates. One is "The Century of the Dance," to show minuets, quadrilles, reels, and other dances through the years to today's ballroom dancing. Stage dances that were the sensations of their day are suggested—the Loie Fuller serpentine dance, the Floradora sextette, the age when the Castles held sway. The other spectacle discussed is a history of the dance, showing dances all over the world at all stages of the world's history.

A CHICAGOAN wrote to Lady Hastings, who spent last winter and summer in Chicago and who now is sojourning in Mexico with Lord Hastings, and included in her letter a query as to the age of her mother, the famous Marquesa Casati. A New York friend had asked if she could find out. The characteristic reply of the incomparable Cristina follows: ". . . I went up into the mountains yesterday and the air was cool like stream water and had in it the smell of pines and smoke of charcoal burning. I was given two lovely presents this morning—an enormous whistle in the shape of a gray owl with three little dots and woven rich purple belt—both Indian. They fill my heart with pleasure. I have no idea what my mothers' age is, have you? Love," CRISTINA."

* *

MARION CLAIRE, who takes the rôle of Sari Linden in "Bitter Sweet," is doing more for florists than the NRA, judging from the quantities of flowers that arrive at her dressing room at the Grand. The other evening Miss Claire made a discovery. She learned that her orchids lived longer when she put them in bottled spring water than when she put them in chlorine-flavored city water. Now she is putting all her flowers in bottled water. As you probably know, Miss Claire is a local girl. It is interesting, perhaps, that while an American girl [Peggy Wood] played the rôle of Sari Linden in London and an English girl [Evelyn Laye] played it in New York, a Chicago girl plays it in Chicago.

* *

NOT by way of endorsement, but because it is our policy to let you know what is going on, we report the tango "club"—gigolos for dancing partners and teachers, Mexican orchestra with marimba combinations—that will open up shortly. A membership exclusively of women, seventy-five of them, of the type that will "understand," as it was suavely phrased. Tango lessons and dancing three afternoons a week, bridge the other three. Bridge and a bar subterranean. No gambling, though. The idea of gaming tables was given up as complicating matters too much. A Streets of Paris atmosphere in the décor. Secrecy as to the membership list, with signatures of members in the hands of the man at the door. . . . Perhaps the name speakeasy is not dated after all, merely its connotation to be changed.

Fans Indicated in Style Show of '34 Bathing Suit

Some of next year's feminine bathing suit styles may require fans, if models displayed yesterday are any indication. Bathing suits of all types for 1934 were shown at the Great Northern hotel at an exhibition by middle western knitwear manufacturers. Some of the creations are of the near nudist type, being scantier than any models ever displayed before.

New Costume Jewelry Made in Large Sizes

Prystal Fashions Some Late Arrivals.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Here's some good news for redheads who have a weakness for tortoise shell costume jewelry! Lots of the stuff, with price tags that will make you gasp—and the secret is, it's prystal, so cleverly copied that it would take a keen eyed expert to detect the difference.

You can get bracelets, narrow, not so narrow and the new outsize numbers, bracelets that you can wear singly, in duos or in trios; large broochies in the modernistic manner; huge chest clips that will completely stun the envious spectators—large button earrings and pairs of new bracelets that will knock your eyes out.

The bracelets are nothing but two four inch squares made with holes large enough to slip over the hand.

All of this fascinating new costume loot is now available in all the lovely ginger brown shades that formerly were only obtainable in much more expensive tortoise shell.

Some more black and oyster white prystal jewelry looks like it must have been designed for amazons—you'll see the biggest clips that have been unpacked, the biggest barpins that you have ever used as an anchor for your flying lapels or ascots on your fuzziest wool sports dresses.

These amazingly large creations are fashioned with big blobs of black prystal stationed on either end of a long bar of white or transparently clear prystal.

Earrings and stunning big flat finger rings in intriguing colors are also new and just the accent you need for dark colored velveteen blouses, new "knits" and angora woolens.

Bracelets of this colored prystal come in three combinations of color to be worn as a dress contrast—for instance, three shades of purple, three tones of rose red, gold or blue, and the always good get-together black and white and gray.

Society Is Told Liberty Faces Grave Danger

Dr. Bridges Talks Before Fortnightly Club.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

The lecture Dr. Horace J. Bridges gave yesterday at the Fortnightly on "The Growing Dangers to Human Liberty" met with an enthusiastic response from many members of his audience.

Dr. Bridges' talk was one of the Tuesday morning series of lectures sponsored every October and November at the Fortnightly by a group of society's most intellectually interesting women. Ten years ago Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum indicated the need for such a series. They answered the need by organizing this current topics' lecture series.

It is the Anglo-Saxon peoples who can claim the lead in turning liberty from something on paper to something in life, Dr. Bridges pointed out, but now it is up to them to protect it. Fascism, Hitlerism, and communism he characterized as modern revivals of despotism. . . . . "the divine right of kings stood on its head."

He pointed out the grave dangers of the concentration of property rights in the state. "It leads," he said, "directly to slavery. No Louis XIV ever dreamed of such power." Even graver dangers, the speaker said, are Fascism and Hitlerism. Dr. Bridges sees in their "strangle hold on the human mind" a way in which they dominate every channel of education and control all publicity.

In this connection Dr. Bridges made reference to the visit of Marconi to A Century of Progress. After having delivered a ten minute message in fluent English without a note the distinguished scientist, Dr. Bridges explained, was called upon to speak in his native tongue. At this Marconi pulled out a paper and read a message in Italian sent by Mussolini. Even the great minds of the world, Dr. Bridges declared, must be dominated by Fascism.

Mrs. Louis E. Laflin was an interested member of the audience. Near her sat Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings. Then there were Miss Helen Gurley, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Thomas Taylor Jr., Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, and Mrs. Robert B. Dickinson.

In interesting contrast to Dr. Bridges' talk was the lecture of Dr. Friedrich Schonemann of the University of Berlin that drew a record crowd to the luncheon of the Council on Foreign Relations at noon at the Palmer house. In broad terms Dr. Schonemann told of the rebirth of the German spirit under Hitler.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour attended the Foreign Relations luncheon and so did Mrs. Arthur Bissell, the Graham Aldises, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mrs. George Richardson, whose husband was the presiding officer; Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, and numerous others.

Chestnut browns, sleek black caracuils, and flame blouses were the fashion notes in the dining room. Miss Louise Dewey's close fitting brown turban was decorated with an orange coq feather, while Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord wore one of the most becoming bright colored blouses.

Gifts of Books Will Replenish Library Stocks

National Book week is "Give a Book Week" in Chicago as a result of a shortage of volumes in the public library.

The public is not being asked to donate money or new books, but used books such as are gathering dust in the cellars and attics of thousands of homes. Activity in the campaign has been centered in the schools by the Illinois congress of parents and teachers, and yesterday, the second day of the campaign, indicated a generous response.

A goal of 500,000 books will be achieved if the slogan of "A book from every child" is realized. Chief Librarian Carl Roden yesterday expressed the hope that that part of the public which does not learn of the library's need through school children will do its part.

"The sad fact is that Chicago's public library is no longer able to give satisfactory service," Mr. Roden said. "Deficits in tax collections have wiped out the library's book fund, making it impossible to replace the wear-and-tear losses of 100,000 volumes a year."

Circulation has fallen off 250,000 volumes a month, from a total of 1,300,000 a month in 1929. Requisitions for books by students for use in the reference rooms are returned 45 per cent unfilled. The loss falls upon the nucleus of most-used books—fiction, children's books, popular books on history, biography, travel, the sciences and arts. Donations in these classifications will be particularly appreciated, Mr. Roden said.

One-volume American histories have practically been wiped out, and the demand for them is heavy. English essays, poetry, and standard English fiction have only slim representation now in the library stacks.

Books may be taken to any branch of the public library or to any public school during this week. Through an exchange system, contributed volumes which cannot be used directly by the library will be used to obtain needed books.

The subject will be "Free Will or Determinism? Which Point of View Must the Natural Scientist and Social Scientist Take?"

Art Reporter Sees 5 Shows on North Side

Praises Water Colors of Hazel Hannell.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Five exhibitions of differing character are current this week in galleries on the near north side. Most charming are the delightful water colors by Hazel Hannell in the Palmolive Book shop, 151 East Walton place. These are chiefly studies of flowers with a few landscapes and little portraits thrown in. The portrait of Mrs. Howard Linn stands out among the last named group for its bordering on the edges of caricature while yet giving one a decided and accurate impression.

Across the street in the Lord Nelson room of the Drake hotel hangs an exhibition of portraits by J. Ernest Brierly, under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts. In the same room sculpture by Oscar Mortens is also sponsored by the All-Illinois. The two exhibits taken together are of some importance.

Of Mr. Brierly's work it may be said that infrequently he hits it off, as in "Mary Morris Van Schaik" and "Berdie." But repeatedly, to the detriment of his canvas, the hands are badly painted and there is a certain wooden feeling about the pose and flesh qualities.

At 1014 Rush street a group of young painters calling themselves "Chicago's Newest Group" is exhibiting paintings modern and aggressive in character. These young artists apparently are a band of Weisenborn's pupils and have adopted from him a strongly realistic and almost brutal outlook.

In the Allerton gallery there has just opened an exhibit of portraits and paintings by Salvatore Salla. The crayon portraits are delightful, particularly those of Mrs. Robert J. Dunham and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr. The water color of boats, "On the Golden Horn," is lovely. In the oils the portrait of Frank G. Logan is clever.

The fifth exhibit is that of Indian painting and crafts at the American Indian Foundation, 111 East Ohio street, an excellent exhibit of its kind repeating former successes staged at the Indian Trading Post.

THIRD AND LAST

By NORVAL RICHARDSON

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American, makes a comfortable living abroad by helping fellow countrymen out of difficulties. Fred Crawford, a Paris newspaperman, is her friend and counselor. Bun agrees to help James B. Finlay, an elderly, wealthy American, find his young wife, Helène. He wants no publicity. He had met Helène after the war in Bucharest. He had installed her family, the Bohlanoffs, in a villa on the Riviera at Grasse. Her brother, Ferenz, he had brought to America. No trace can be found of Helène and her parents since the last time she returned to visit them. Bun's suspicions are aroused by Finlay's niece, Mrs. Craymer. A recent newspaper picture, showing Helène standing with a tall woman in a group at Biarritz is the only clue Bun has to go on. That same night Finlay is murdered. The money Finlay had given Bun as advance payment is stolen from her apartment. Finlay's son Robert arrives from America. He proves to be an imposter. Bun meets the real Robert Finlay in Cannes. She is attracted to him, but believes he's in love with Helène. She continues the quest with him. The tall woman with Helène in the group picture is identified as the Countess Vernadon, who has a villa in Grasse. Bun and Robert call on her at her dreary villa. She denies knowing Helène. As they are leaving they see a woman fall from a window. They send a doctor out from the town. Next day Mrs. Craymer, who had arrived in Cannes, is found dead. Fred Crawford joins Bun. Robert leaves for Bucharest after receiving a note he thinks is from Helène. Bun finds out that the young woman who fell from the window of the villa of Countess Vernadon is Helène, who had been held there captive. Bun gets to see her, through the doctor, just before she dies. Bun and Crawford fly to Bucharest where they are met by Fanchon of the Paris police.

INSTALLMENT XXXIX.

A MASKED BALL.

Fanchon turned to Bun. "You will agree with me, Mademoiselle, that it is hardly a time to hope for much information from a hostess who is preparing for a ball."

But Bun hardly heard him. She was looking at the man opposite and thinking rapidly. "You said a masked ball?"

The man nodded.

"For charity?"

"Yes Mademoiselle."

"Then the tickets are sold. Would it be difficult to buy them?"

The man held out his hands. "For a price—almost anything may be obtained in Bucharest."

Bun turned back to Fanchon.

"I shall go to that ball, Monsieur Fanchon."

"I follow you perfectly, Mademoiselle. We shall all go to that ball—masked and in costume."

For the first time Bun felt a sympathy for the fat, pudgy little man beside her. She leaned back in the car with a smile of satisfaction. "Now—let's drive by slowly."

The car passed the large building before which a red and white marquise was stretched from the pavement to the main door. Tubs of green plants lined the steps. The doors were thrown wide open and a group of workmen in blue blouses were arranging strings of lights along the balustrade.

"We make a suspiciously large party," Fanchon said, when Bun came out of the room to which she had been shown wearing the Pierrot suit.

Again, Bun felt the need of calling all her restraint into action. If she had followed her impulse at that moment she would have sprung out of the car, rushed up the steps, through the open doors, faced the woman, and demanded Robert Finlay. The absurdity of this desire made her shrink back.

They had passed the house and were at a further corner when the driver turned for instructions.

With your permission, Mademoiselle, we shall now drive to the hotel. I assure you that house will be watched from now on. We shall have a report of every one who goes in and out of it—including workmen."

When they reached the hotel Fanchon turned them over to the director, who had already prepared rooms. Fanchon excused himself to hurry off his assistant with orders. Crawford went to his room, and Bun was conducted to her suite. She had hardly given a glance about and was still in the sitting room when a knock sounded on her door and Fanchon entered.

"It is important that I should have your opinion of this case before I take further steps. If you are not too tired."

Bun indicated a chair, dragged off her hat, tossed it on a table. Then, finding her case, she drew forth a cigaret and lighted it. Inhaling deeply, she watched Fanchon as he sat down heavily, only his eyes alert in an otherwise phlegmatic body. But all this was façade, she knew instinctively. Not a word she was going to tell him, nor an inflection, was going to be lost on him. She chose her words carefully.

"You were right when you surmised that I was deliberately holding back information. I am going to do that no longer. Perhaps you had better take notes. Or, better still, let me read those to you that I have made."

Fanchon tapped his forehead. "My notes are here, Mademoiselle."

An hour later he hurried downstairs and drove off to the headquarters of the Rumanian secret service. Bun, left alone, stood in the center of the room, motionless. The enforced calm of the trip was now gone. She was once more in the grip of unmanageable excitement. The four walls about her seemed to be crushing down upon her, making her a prisoner. This arrested motion, the necessity of waiting, drove her frantic. And all the time she was there in the same city with him, he in grave danger, she holding her hands and standing still, idle. A cold bath and fresh clothes did nothing to calm her. She looked at her watch when she was fully dressed and found it was only 5 o'clock. Fully five hours more before she could do anything. They might be the last of Finlay's life. Already he might be dead. She clenched her hands, drew herself up, and hurried out of the room.

She found Crawford in the lobby of the hotel. "Will you walk with me, Fred—and not say a word? I just want to keep in action—physical, not mental. And don't let me go near that house. I'd go in if I did."

When they returned two hours later, the hotel director said that Monsieur Fanchon—he spoke of him as Monsieur Durand, the name under which he was traveling—was awaiting them in Bun's sitting room. He sprang up when she and Crawford entered.

"I hope you will forgive me for coming straight up here. It is not the time to stand on ceremony and risk discovery. I thought it more discreet to wait for you here." He turned to several cardboard boxes. "Here are the costumes. If you will choose one I will have it taken to the apartment I have had my assistant occupy while we are here. After you and Mr. Crawford have dined here I shall ask you to come direct to his apartment. There we can put on these costumes. You understand it would hardly be wise to be seen leaving this hotel dressed for the ball.

He opened the boxes and waited for Bun to make a selection. When she chose a Pierrot suit of white satin with black dots, his pudgy face broke into a radiant smile.

"Mademoiselle, I congratulate you upon your choice."

"But why? I chose it because there will probably be a hundred exactly like it."

"Exactly. Just that is what makes the choice so clever."

He put the costume back in the box, gave them the number and address of the apartment at which they were to meet immediately after dinner.

Bun and Crawford dined in the restaurant. After dinner they strolled out into the lounge, ordered coffee, and casually inquired of the waiter what amusements the town afforded. He suggested a café chantant and, at their request, ordered a taxi and told the driver where to take them. Two blocks away Crawford gave the driver the address of Fanchon's apartment, where they found him and four men awaiting them already dressed and masked.

"We make a suspiciously large party," Fanchon said, when Bun came out of the room to which she had been shown wearing the Pierrot suit. "You," he said to the four men, "must follow a few minutes after us. That will be much better." He handed each of them a green ribbon rosette. "Wear it on your left wrist towards the palm of the hand. Our signal is to raise the hand slightly—just enough to show the rosette." He pinned one on Bun's sleeve, then on Crawford's. "And be careful to remain fairly close together; not noticeably so, but enough to be within call. Are all of you armed?" The men nodded. "And you, Mademoiselle, do you mind carrying a small pistol. I hope it will not be necessary to use it—but——"

Bun drew out of the folds of the costume the pistol Crawford had given her before entering the Villa des Roses. Fanchon nodded with satisfaction. "Then I think it is time that we start."

Bun clung to Crawford's hand as their taxi spun along the street.

"Fred," she said, "this may be the crisis of my life. In fact, I know it will be, no matter which way it turns out. If something should happen to me——"

"I won't listen to you." Crawford retorted. "Stop looking for trouble."

Bun leaned near to him. "All right, Fred. Only——"

"What?"

"I just want you to know how grateful I am."

"For loving you?"

"For sticking by me—in spite of everything."

Joan Bennett Awaits Stork in February

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—There'll be a blessed event in the Joan Bennett-Gene Markey family some time in February. Miss Bennett, whose last camera work in "Little Women," recently completed, makes Amy a living, breathing, vivacious, understandable girl, has retired from the screen until the end of her next chapter in family affairs. She intends to return to the screen later.

Miss Bennett is the mother of one of the cutest, best behaved little youngsters in Hollywood, 5 year old Diana Fox, by her first marriage to a Seattle man. It'll be the first blessed event in his career for Markey.

Radio-RKO promised Elissa Landi $1,000 a day extra for each day past the shooting schedule for "Man of Two Worlds," with Francis Lederer. The film ran two days over the time.

Marguerite De Lamotte is back in films after four years. She is playing a subordinate part in an independent, titled "Woman's Man," at Monogram studio. Appearing with her are John Halliday, Bill Cagney, Kitty Kelly, and Barbara Bedford.

Bruce Mitchell, once prominent director, has a part in "All of Me," in which Fredric March, Miriam Hopkins, George Raft, and Helen Mack are playing at Paramount.

"Engaged to Bill Powell? I should say not.

"That is, I should say I am not engaged to any one." And that's Margaret Lindsay's stand on the proposition of matrimony. But she still goes out with Powell and smiles fondly while she does so.

Sally Rand is dancing with skirts on in the George Raft story "Bolero" at Paramount.

Ginger Rogers' mother, Mrs. Lola Rogers, is engaged here as a Hollywood literary agent. Nick Stuart, ex-actor and Sue Carol's ex-husband, is another new and successful agent.

Triangle Club Show Will Be December 26

Change Date of Dance for Marie Gardner.

ter, Mrs. Cabot Brown, and her husband and their two little sons.

An interesting event on today's calendar is a luncheon meeting of the American Friends of China at the Palmer house at 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. John Paul Welling and Dr. Quincy Wright, who were delegates to the recent meeting of the Institute of Pacific Relations at Banff, will talk about various significant developments of the conference.

Enjoy Lecture at Arts Club.

Necks were stretched and chairs were turned as the women in Daniel Catton Rich's audience at the Arts club yesterday tried to see the paintings about which Mr. Rich was talking. Around the gallery walked young Mr. Rich, assistant to Director Harshe and curator of murals at the Art institute, as he lectured about the George Gershwin collection that now is hanging in the large gallery at the club, and as he talked the whole collection became more interesting and understandable to those who are not "up" on modern art.

Those who are don't need to have it explained to them, of course, and although there are many in the club who are, there also are many who aren't. Mr. Rich stopped in front of each painting and told something about it and its painter and at the finish he summarized by explaining why he thought Gershwin had chosen those particular paintings for his collection. There is a kinship between Gershwin's musical compositions and his taste in art, and in neither is there anything academic. The same dynamic intensity that is present in his music is apparent in most of the canvases that he has chosen to own, and as Mr. Rich pointed out Gershwin's musical compositions and his choice of contemporary paintings prove what a deep interest he has in people as interpreted by artists.

Mrs. Stearns Attends Before Leaving City.

Some of those who listened to Mr. Rich's lecture were Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy and three of her four daughters, Mrs. John Noble Stearns Jr., who left later in the day for her home in New York; Mrs. Vaughan C. Spaulding, and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm. Mrs. Austin H. Niblack is shooting ducks with her husband and the J. Andrews Kings down at Henry this week or she would have been in the family party to see Mrs. Stearns off on the 2 o'clock for New York, undoubtedly.

Among others in the large audience, most of whom stayed for luncheon, were Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Miss Alice Roullier, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Miss Eleanor Holden, Miss Edith Cummings, Miss Mary Rend, Mrs. Rich, Mrs. Shreve Badger, Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Storrs, Mrs. Gabriel F. Slaughter, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker, Mrs. Thomas Fisher, and Miss Elizabeth Telling.

Miss Telling's interesting exhibition of pastels of types she encountered on a recent trip to Bali and Siam has been extended through this Saturday at the Roullier galleries in the Fine Arts building, so great has been the interest.

Faulkner Alumnae Planning Benefit.

The alumnae of the Faulkner school are planning a scholarship fund benefit luncheon and bridge to be held at 12:30 next Tuesday at the South Shore Country club. The committee in charge includes Mrs. H. Ferris White, Mrs. Robert Warfield, Mrs. James H. Tatman, Mrs. Alan Lockard, Mrs. Percival Hart, Mrs. Ronald J. Chinnock, Miss Elizabeth Patterson, and Miss Frances Gethro.

The North Shore chapter of the D. A. R. is meeting today with Mrs. William Egan of Egandale. Robert Collier Fergus is to talk on "Stephen A. Douglas, the Forgotten American."

Invitations have been issued for the annual supper dance of the executive board of the Misericordia Hospital and Infants' Home to be held on Dec. 2 at the Drake hotel. Mrs. John C. Tully is chairman.

Miss Dorothy Warner, daughter of Mason Warner of Winnetka, has chosen Nov. 25 as the date for her wedding to Malcolm Graves McEachren. The service will be read at 4 o'clock at her father's home on Church road and will be followed by a reception for the two families and a few intimate friends.

De La Salle Dinner for Brother David Lawrence

The De La Salle Alumni association will honor the Rev. Brother David Lawrence, director till this fall of the De La Salle High school, at a banquet tomorrow evening at the Midland club. Brother Lawrence has just completed twenty-two years at the south side school and is now director of St. George High school in Evanston.

Sorority Bridge.

Omicron Chapter of Zeta Chi sorority will hold its first annual bridge at 8 o'clock this evening at the Knickerbocker hotel. Miss Hazel Adele Dodd is president of the sorority.

Paris Rejects the Brimmed Chapeau, but Gives an O. K. to the Dainty Toque

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The real winter millinery that nestles into a high fur collar and isn't aggressive about it is coming out in Paris now. Women, as you would know, have given up trying to be 1910 ladies under a load of velvet brims and plumes, and they're wearing small, neat fitting toques.

The variation of these small dainty hats is pretty wide. Lots of them have a bit of ostrich or other feather trimming. Many ladies are wearing Reboux's velour skull caps with a mass of curly feathers right on top, like the model shown in the center of our sketch. This particular hat is a light rusty brown in color and the feathers are of the darkest brown, a pretty scheme of shades.

Talbot's handkerchief toque is one of the big runners of the millinery season. It is pictured here at the bottom of our sketch, and consists of a fitted skull cap of velvet over which is tied a velvet handkerchief with a knot at the back, in the manner that housewives tie on handkerchiefs when they sweep the sitting room of a morning. The point of the hanky is fastened back over the crown at the top so it makes two wing-like ridges at the sides of the center. There's a small veil. Lots of women wear a jeweled bar pin at the front of this toque.

The draped toque of satin, with big loops swooping from the back and jutting out over the front is Maria Guy's big success. One of these is pictured at the top of the sketch. It is made of black satin and the loops of satin are very wide and soft and meet in a knot at the back of the neck.

Film Premiere Means Holiday for Hollywood

Crowds Gather Early to See Notables Arrive.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—A Hollywood premiere provides a scene not duplicated anywhere else in the world. It's a beauty parade, a circus, a fashion show, a comedy, a human interest drama rolled into one eventful evening.

If mine own eyes had not seen, I should never have been convinced that crowds would begin to gather at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to be among front rank observers at a show not opening until 9. Hollywood is one community in which a hero or a heroine is all of that in its own home town.

To catch a glimpse of Mae West, Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Lupe and Johnny, Marlene Dietrich, and Clara Bow, hundreds are willing to stand for hours crowded together—punishment no self-respecting sardine would submit to. Young girls and boys, men and women. The crowd, a block long, knew no age or sex. Movie star worship, the palliative for feet and limbs that must ache intensely from such long, crowded standing.

At 7:30 the street in front of the theater is such a blaze of light you can read your paper by it in your tenth floor hotel room fronting the scene. Radio equipment is installed in the wide open court for each arriving star to cast greetings to the world. Camera men swarm like bees. The waiting crowd lets out a mighty cheer when Mae West [for it was her premiere this night] stepped out of her car, a dazzling figure of crystal beaded chiffon, white fur trimmed, carrying the biggest white fur muff imaginable.

But Marlene Dietrich is arriving outside, in a black velvet gown with touches of scarlet. Bill Fields introduces the comedy note, arriving in a beer wagon, drawn by a half dozen horses. Jean Harlow comes, wearing a gown and a knee length wrap of sapphire blue velvet, sable trimmed.

It's a glittering, glamorous, colorful pageant. Nowhere are so many gorgeous looking women and handsome young men assembled together for a two hour parade. And, if the rare and exotic perfume breaths one caught in a Dietrich or Crawford's passing were not intoxicating enough, the forecourt of the theater had been sprayed with an exotic French perfume!

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt received the retiring Japanese ambassador and Mme. Debuchi in the blue parlor this afternoon. Previously she had entertained at luncheon, the guests including Mrs. Hughes, wife of the chief justice, and Mrs. Taft, widow of the former President and chief justice.

The Roosevelts have as overnight guests Mrs. Charles Fayrweather, Norman H. Davis, Bernard Baruch, Maj. William Welch, and Mrs. Elizabeth Donner Roosevelt and Sara Delano Roosevelt, the first wife and daughter of Elliott Roosevelt, who will spend a fortnight at the White House.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Brokaw entertained at dinner last night at the Central Park casino to celebrate the birthday of her daughter, Miss Edna Brokaw.

Miss June Blossom entertained at dinner this evening at the Central Park casino for Miss Nancy Sands and George McAlpin, whose marriage is to take place Thursday.

The Stage

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"The Subway," a drama by Elmer Rice, first staged in 1929, but never given in Chicago, will be presented by the Players Guild, a new "group" with ambitions to found a repertory theater, in the Chicago Woman's club theater, 72 East 11th street, on the nights of Nov. 27, 28, and 29. The director of the production will be Ben Phillips, formerly of the Boston repertory theater and an associate director of the "Romance of a People" pageant, given on Soldiers' field last summer.

The Players Guild promises two other dramatic productions within the next three months and names among its sponsors Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. William A. Nitze, and Leon Mandel.

"Dangerous Corner," the drama by J. B. Priestley now at the Illinois theater, will end its engagement next Saturday night. The next play for this theater will be "Criminal at Large," with Alexandra Carlisle in the leading rôle, which will open Dec. 24 or earlier.

The little theaters have begun to worry about NRA. The National Legitimate Theater committee, which is in charge of the operation of the recovery code in "show business," is reported to be planning to extend its power into the little theater field, on the ground that these groups of amateurs have killed off the stock companies by unfair competition, and have deprived union stage hands and scenic artists of their rightful labor.

The Theater Arts Monthly, organ of the little theaters, calls attention to this situation in an editorial of protest. "This means putting the little theaters completely out of business," it declares. "Such a ruling would not add two good payrolls to the legitimate stage. It might easily, however, wipe out a thousand laboratories for playwrights, actors, and theater audiences."

Century Old Quilt Takes Name from New Jersey Rose

New Jersey Rose.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Today's quilt pattern is just about a century old; quilt lore placing it as a design that originated in New Jersey in about 1830. The original had roses and buds of red, leaves and stems green, and the tip of the buds a deep yellow. Modern copies are usually made in softer colors more harmonious with contemporary decorating combinations.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Gayety Marks Concert Given by Symphony

John Weicher Is Soloist at Good Program.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Stock seemed to feel like assembling an orchestral program with gayety as its motto for the concert at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon, and he was entirely successful in keeping that mood well to the fore. That the music was well known to the audience was by no means the least cause for its being induced.

John Weicher, who usually reads music from the first desk of the first violins alongside of Mischa Mischakoff, had been assigned to play Bruch's Second Concerto. This is not the one in G minor, the most familiar of the Bruch output, but it flaunts a lighthearted melody with a good deal of flourish, and with it as a focal point Mr. Stock put together a full afternoon of joyous music.

The first number was Mozart's "The Magic Flute" Overture, the next was Beethoven's Second Symphony. Mr. Weicher's solo performance came immediately after the intermission, and the concert was concluded with the ballet suite from Tschaikowsky's "Casse-Noisette."

This was music as encouraging as predictions about the New Deal, and it had the added advantage of being of the present and not of the future. Mr. Weicher was brilliant and persuasive, all in the same composition. He has a fine tone, abundant facility, and the gift of recreating a piece of music in just about the state of mind one imagines the composer to have been in when he wrote it. He made a pronounced hit with his audience, and this, too, was as it should have been.

But one remembers also that Mozart is more than likely to receive an ideal performance by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, likewise that Beethoven wrote his second symphony at a time when his attention was on the composition of agreeable music and not on the expression of a tragic cosmos, and that Mr. Stock and his men know how to take advantage of that fact. As for the ballet suite, it was sheer delight, the miniature overture at the beginning, the set of little dances, the "Valse des Fleurs" at the end.

Matinee Favorite Appears Immune to Siren Wiles

BY DORIS BLAKE.

HOLLYWOOD.—[Special.]—We heard before coming to Hollywood that Robert Young is by way of becoming the young girl's "matinee heart." In fact, we were asked by at least a half dozen girls to be sure to look Robert over and report.

Bad news for the girls! He's married and to all intent and purposes, enough in love to keep away from the snares and temptations that assail so many well intentioned males in this devastating colony. The chances are on Robert's side. He married a girl who knew him at 16, when he admits he was a gawky looking kid, a girl who reminds him with a "I knew you when." "You may be Robert Young to other folk," she ribs him, "but your still only Bob Young to me!"

Mrs. Young is not of or on the screen. She's a university graduate whose job now is to look after "Bob" from the home fort.

"It was the old Bluebird story with me," Robert confides. "After fooling around with other girls for awhile, I came back home to find everything embodied in this little girl. I'd known when she was 13."

They've been married less than a year. Live a simple sort of life, as neither cares for the spectacular, either in living place or entertainment.

Robert appears to have no illusions about himself. It's one of the seventh wonders to him that he's gone over as well as he has. Just to keep himself steadied, he repeats a Wizner saying frequently, "Fame is like a Ferris wheel. It stops at the top to let some one in at the bottom. Then you start down the other side."

Advice Helps Child Conquer Fear of Dark

Cause of Fright Must Be Ferreted Out.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Some ways to prevent young children being afraid of the dark were talked of in yesterday's column. But sometimes we can't achieve our ideal—sometimes we can't prevent this fear forming—sometimes suddenly we find that the fear is there—something has aroused it. What, then, shall we do to erase it?

Suppose your little girl, after having always been quite satisfied to go to sleep all by herself in a pitch dark room, begins to beg for a light. After having tried unsuccessfully to turn out the light and to go off in a casual way, shall you insist in spite of her entreaties? I don't think so. There are several devices you may use to reassure her until this spell has passed.

One way is to have a low shaded light burning until she goes to sleep. Another way is to turn out her light but sit in the next room sewing or reading, where she can speak to you and feel your presence.

At the same time that you do these quieting things you will try to find out the cause of the new fear. Daytime is a good time to talk about it. It may be that some definite experience has caused it—a scary book or story or a bad dream. An illness may be back of it, or an operation. Clear up the cause or bring it out in the open if you can. If you can't, continue to use your reassuring methods and wait for time to do the rest, thinking up devices if you're ingenious enough.

One mother used to make little errands into dark rooms for her small son. Another used to sit and talk with her child in the dark. Another used to take her boy out in the country and talk about the night and what it was for, and about the beauty of it and the restfulness for all living things.

But above all, if possible, when the fear is there bring it out in the open. Even let your child, if he is old enough, admit that he is afraid of the dark. Let him face it and then you two can thrash it out together.

MINUTE MYSTERY
By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE FATAL PLUNGE.

An excited young man staggered into a police station drenched by the raging storm.

"There's been an accident and I think my pal's dead! For God's sake do something in a hurry, won't you?"

Prof. Fordney, having a late pipe with his friend, Mike Gordon, the desk sergeant, said, "Calm yourself, young fellow. What's happened?"

"My name's Merkle," he stuttered. "My friend, John Frazer, and I were at a party, where we drank quite a bit. On leaving he insisted upon taking the wheel, and, although I knew he was a rotten driver, he seemed more sober than I, so I let him.

"As soon as we got into the car I fell into a deep sleep, but he kept on drinking from a flask he carried. The first thing I knew was when I was awakened by the sound of a loud report. I thought it was a blowout and when I opened my eyes and saw Frazer struggling with the wheel, the car swaying from side to side, I was confident of it.

"Finally John lost control and when the car was about to go over that cliff on Rand road I opened the door and jumped. John, though, didn't have a chance—he was too muddled."

Accompanied by Merkle, Fordney went to the scene. After observing some zigzag tracks of a car and footprints near the edge of the cliff he inquired, "Is this where you jumped?"

"Yes, sir. It is."

The professor looked at Merkel's shoes and knew he was lying."

WOULD YOU HAVE? WHY?

[See solution on page 35.]

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so, send it to him care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

Two Chicagoans Elected Class Officers at Yale

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Two Chicago youths were named to offices at Yale university today when the results of balloting in the annual senior class elections were announced. George Ranney of Chicago, business manager of the Yale Daily News, was chosen chairman of the class day committee and will also serve as a member of the triennial reunion committee. Frank E. Pierce Jr., also of Chicago, was named a member of the senior prom committee. Those chosen will direct the class activities at the commencement exercises next June.

GourmetsFavor Bit of Cheese with Desserts

Americans Are Inclined to Neglect It.

The third Chicago Tribune School of Cookery continues today at Guyon's Paradise ballroom, and will also be held there Nov. 16 and 17. Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famous home economics expert, in co-operation with Miss Mary Meade, Tribune Cooking Editor, will conduct the sessions. Next week the school will be held in the north side at the Aragon ballroom, Nov. 21, 22, 23, and 24.

All schools will open at 12:30 o'clock.

BY MARY MEADE.

"Dessert without cheese is like a pretty girl with only one eye," wrote Jean Brillat-Savarin, internationally known gourmet, and if any one should have known, he should.

Personally, I'm inclined to disagree with such a sweeping statement about desserts. But sure it is that cheese in this country receives too little attention at the end of the meal. Just for example, think on this picture as a combination for dessert: On each individual dessert plate place a galyac or grape leaf. Then arrange on this a small wedge of Edam cheese with its cheerful red outside showing, one or two nut stuffed dates rolled in powdered sugar, a tablespoonful of salted almonds, and two little round crisped crackers. Doesn't it click with exactly what's left of a post-dinner appetite?

Crackers, to step out with cheese desserts, should be the quintessence of crispness. Place them in a hot oven or broiler just before serving time and leave just long enough to toast them into a delicate blush.

But that's just one possibility. Besides Edam cheese, there's Camembert, Old English, Liederkranz, Roquefort, Swiss, and even Limburger for the strong hearted. Or, if you don't choose yours by the wedge, the mild cottage cheese is the inspiration for sundry delicious cheese flavored desserts. Here's one:

REFRIGERATOR CHEESE CAKE.

Crumb Mixture.

2 cups zwieback, crushed fine.
½ cup butter, softened.
2 teaspoons cinnamon.
¼ cup sugar.

Filling.

2 tablespoons granulated gelatin.
½ cup cold water.
3 eggs, separated.
½ cup sugar.
½ cup water.
1 pound cottage cheese, put through sieve.
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon.
¼ teaspoon salt.
½ cup whipping cream.

Combine the zwieback crumbs, butter, sugar, and cinnamon. Put one-half the mixture into a spring form pan. Then soak the gelatin in ½ cup cold water for 5 minutes. Combine the egg yolks, slightly beaten, with the ½ cup sugar and ½ cup water. Cook in the top of a double boiler for 3 minutes. Add the softened gelatin, cottage cheese, juice and rind of the lemon, and the salt. Allow this to cool, then add the stiffly beaten egg whites and the whipped cream. Pour this filling into the crumb lined pan, sprinkle the remainder of the crumb mixture over the top, and place in the refrigerator for several hours.

COTTAGE CHEESE DATE ROLL.

1 pound marshmallows.
1 dozen large graham crackers.
1 pound cottage cheese.
½ cup cream.
½ pound chopped dates.
½ cup chopped nut meats.

Crush the graham crackers into fine crumbs. Cut the marshmallows into quarters. Combine all the ingredients, mix well, and form into a long roll. Wrap in waxed paper and chill in the refrigerator overnight. Slice and serve with a garnish of sweetened whipped cream.

FROZEN CHEESE PUDDING.

2 cups cottage cheese.
1 cup whipping cream, not whipped.
½ cup chopped dates.
½ cup chopped nut meats.
1½ cups diced pineapple.
¼ cup maple sirup.

Blend all the ingredients thoroughly and turn into a refrigerator tray. Freeze for two or three hours. Cut in slices to serve.

Then back to the original idea. If your choice for dessert is an assortment of cheeses, and you long to serve them up with real swank, you'll find attractive cheese platters in the stores. Different cheeses are ranged around the edge of the plate. Preserves and crackers chat chummily together in the center, and, as a final gesture, there's one of those oddly shaped cheese knives which one may buy to match.

PARENTS: IMPORTANT TO USE LIQUID FORM OF LAXATIVE

(Read what doctors say)

Doctors say to use only liquid laxatives for youngsters; and preferably one with senna. A liquid laxative can be regulated as to dose. The natural laxative action of senna does not weaken the bowels.

Do you realize a laxative that works just right for you, can work havoc with a child?

That the laxative habit can be contracted at the age of six?

And that the wrong laxative can give children chronic constipation before their tenth birthday?

You wouldn't give your youngster a powerful headache powder! You shouldn't give him a violent cathartic.

Druggists report increasing sales of liquid laxatives. Mothers are rapidly discovering the advantage of the liquid form. Thousands of cases of ill-health—and half-health—in children are being cleared-up by stopping all use of any laxative of adult strength.

The preparation most favored for child use is California Syrup of Figs. It is a fruity syrup with the right amount of senna for gentle stimulation of a child's bowels. It gives the right kind of help.

Don't Give Your Children the Cathartic Habit!

If the bowels aren't moving regularly and thoroughly, do not give any medicine which drains the system dry. Give a liquid senna preparation like California Syrup of Figs. A little every day, and reduce the dose each day. At the end of one week—stop. You'll be surprised how long it will be before the bowels need any further help. It may be months.

Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs, with "California" on the label. If you get the right preparation, and use it the right way, you can absolutely end all worry over constant sluggish spells, bilious attacks, constipation.

All druggists keep California Syrup of Figs, ready for use. It is highly recommended for regulating children, and to undo the mischief done by habit-forming laxatives.

N. U. AND NOTRE DAME STRIVE FOR SCORING PUNCH

THEY HAVE THE POWER, BUT IT MISSES FIRE

40,000 Will Watch Rivals Clash.

Past performances notwithstanding, the annual game between Northwestern and Notre Dame at Dyche stadium Saturday will attract one of the largest football crowds of the season in Chicago.

FRED LIND.

The advance sale indicates a crowd of nearly 40,000 will see these two rivals meet. The fact that both have met with frequent reverses hasn't taken the edge off a series which has been outstanding for many years.

Another of those typically hard fought and thrill packed contests is in prospect. Both teams have flashed strong offenses all season, outgaining and outplaying their opponents on most occasions, but failing to score winning points.

They Gain Well.

Northwestern has piled up 1,115 yards against 644 for its opponents in six games, yet has scored only against Indiana. Notre Dame has gained close to 1,600 yards compared to 800 for opponents and like Northwestern has scored only against Indiana.

Followers of both squads have been expecting their team to get going each week-end, but to date they have waited in vain. One or another will probably stage this belated rally Saturday.

Northwestern's inability to hit a winning stride this year is attributed to the lack of one back who could provide a triple threat in the attack. This and inexperienced quarter backing has permitted much fancy offense to go to waste.

It's Been a Long Time.

Despite these shortcomings the Wildcats vision a chance of mounting to their first victory over a Notre Dame team since the distant days of 1901, when the Purple won, 2 to 0. The closest Northwestern has come recently was a scoreless tie in 1931.

The modern series between the two teams started in 1920, when Notre Dame, led by the immortal George Gipp, won 33 to 7. It was the last game ever played by Gipp, who contracted a fatal illness in the contest.

In 1924 the Wildcats met the Four Horsemen in the first game ever played on Soldiers' field and lost a 13 to 6 decision. It was the closest call Notre Dame had that season. The next two years Notre Dame won by score of 13 to 10 and 6 to 0. Little wonder, then, that the fans have come to anticipate thrills when these two teams clash.

Cold Hinders N. U.

Cold weather handicapped the Wildcats' practice again yesterday. The frosty lake breezes necessitated a brief but snappy workout.

Freddy Lind has been elected to start at left half, where he will drop back to handle punts on defense. The remainder of the back field will remain intact with Olson at quarter back, Cruice at right half, and Duvall at full back.

IRISH DRILL INDOORS.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The weather, which kept Notre Dame indoors all last week, continued today with a blizzard of major proportions. A heavy snowfall and wind prompted Coach Hunk Anderson to herd the squad into the gymnasium for its first practice against Northwestern formations.

The Irish captain for the week is Tom Roach, senior right tackle, who won the distinction for his fine play against Purdue. Roach is from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he played with Catholic Central High school.

The team will leave here Saturday morning for Evanston.

Herbert Jaques Renominated as U. S. G. A. Leader

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Herbert Jaques of Boston who was elected president of the United States Golf association last year after the original nominee, Robert M. Cutting of Chicago had died, today was renominated for a second term.

The renomination followed a seldom broken precedent which has seen nearly every president since the formation of the association in 1894 renamed for a second term. His father held the office in 1909 and 1910. Nomination always has been tantamount to election.

Other officers renominated: Vice presidents, John G. Jackson and Prescott S. Bush, both of New York; secretary, A. M. Reid, New York; counsel, Livingston Platt, New York.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

OSSIE SOLEM, Iowa football coach, got his only chuckle out of the Michigan-Iowa game a moment before the battle started when Dr. Fourt, trainer of the Hawkeye squad, leaned over the Iowa bench and whispered to Solem: "The only thing I am afraid of is that our boys are overconfident." . . . Benny Friedman is not expected to be with the Dodgers when they play the Cardinals at Wrigley field Sunday. . . . His contract permits him to skip road games and business will keep him at home. . . . Otto von Porat has returned to dear old Oslo. . . .

It's getting so a fellow hardly has time to catch trains between football games. . . . The Oregon State eleven had to rush from the gridiron at Portland Saturday to make a train bound for New York and its game this week-end with Fordham. . . . George Zaharias, the Weeping Greek from Cripple Creek [zippy, isn't it?] was a bootblack before he turned wrestler. . . . When Sammy Fuller beat Tony Canzoneri he weighed exactly four ounces over 135 pounds, the lightweight limit. . . . In order to come in overweight he drank a glass of water just before weighing in. . . . Glenn Cunningham, University of Kansas middle distance runner, is the leading candidate for the James E. Sullivan memorial medal, awarded annually to the outstanding amateur athlete. . . .

Charlie Grimm was in town last week-end introducing Boots Weber, late of Los Angeles, as "our new treasurer." . . . Foot warmers have been installed in Michigan's open air press terrace. . . . There have been several complaints about the coffee served between halves to the authors who covered the Northwestern-Illinois game. . . . The Davenport, Ia., baseball club drew 90,000 to its home games . . . that's nearly twice as many as Milwaukee attracted. . . . Three young men who scored a lot of touchdowns for the Mooseheart prep eleven are making good with the St. Ambrose college team this season. . . . Stanley Hack, who has been under the care of a Chicago bone specialist since his arm was broken late in the season, set out for his native Sacramento, Cal., Monday, sans sling and splints. . . .

Donnie MacFadyen, personable young Blackhawk forward, did not get into the opening game of the Chicago schedule but was a busy man in the second contest. . . . They are trying to teach him to stick to his assignments instead of chasing the puck all over the rink. . . . Jack Blott scouted Northwestern for Michigan last Saturday. . . . Nordy Hoffman had the same role for Notre Dame. . . . Joe Moriarty who recently concluded his duties as peep show censor at A Century of Progress, is a brother of George Moriarty, American league umpire. . . . Howard Jones of Southern California says Jack Elder, former Notre Dame half back, is the fastest man he has seen in football togs. . . . Nate Lewis, stadium matchmaker, states there is no truth in the report he was member of a nudist colony last summer. . . . Says he never did like the sun even though he has been seen in the loop after dawn occasionally.

Such times . . . Jack Dempsey recently refereed a fight in Forth Worth and less than 400 were in the hall. . . . Notre Dame's last two whippings—by Navy and Purdue—have been strictly family affairs. . . . Navy is coached by Rip Miller and Purdue by Noble Kizer. . . . They are brothers-in-law and played side by side in the line on the Four Horseman team at Notre Dame. . . . They learned their line play from Hunk Anderson. . . . Fitz Lyons, Indiana's colored end, is president of his fraternity. . . . Despite its drawing power this fall the Iowa team will get only carfare and other expenses when it plays Nebraska at Lincoln, Nov. 25. . . . Last season Nebraska was guaranteed $5,000 for the game at Iowa City, but Iowa could dig up only enough for expenses and agreed to go to Lincoln this year on the same terms.

Sam Plan, who does the thinking for Barney Ross, once boxed under the name of Sammy Davis. . . . When the Rose Bowl committee gets around to inviting a team to play the coast champions it will have to give some consideration to Nebraska. . . . The Cornhuskers are undefeated thus far. . . . Capt. Andy Puplis of Harrison Tech has led his team to the semi-finals of the City league. . . . Puplis as a sophomore teamed with Andy Pilney of Notre Dame, Frank Leonnette of Illinois and Steve Remias of Michigan to win the Chicago championship.

ROSS' ADMIRERS MADE DOUBTFUL OF HIS CHANCES

Worry After Watching Gym Performance.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The privates in the army of Barney Ross backers watched their idol work out at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday afternoon and then went home somewhat doubtful as to how he will get along with Sammy Fuller of Boston in their 10 round fight at the Chicago Stadium on Friday night.

They didn't seem to like the way Barney had worked in the four rounds against Frank Sigilio and Paul Dazzo, a couple of sluggers of the Fuller type.

They watched Ross duck the left hooks they aimed at his head, then watched the same left, after a feint, sink deep into Barney's mid-section, so deep at times that Barney grunted like a fat man trying to put away a beefsteak three inches thick.

The Ross backers didn't like it at all and they didn't fancy his program, which cut his rounds of boxing activity down from six to four.

Ross Still 3-1 Choice.

Still the boys out on the rim of the loop who want to have a bet of some kind down every time there is anything at stake, were quoting Barney at 1 to 3, and they considered him a mighty good speculative medium at such a short price.

There didn't seem to be any Fuller backers. Maybe they will show up later when the odds drift up to 1 to 5 or 1 to 6.

Most of the Ross admirers lingered around in Trafton's gym to see Fuller work with a couple of boxers of the Ross type. Fuller landed blow after blow and for the second time in two days his work was more impressive than that of Ross.

Of course that may be a part of the show. But to most careful observers Ross isn't taking this battle with Fuller as seriously as some of his earlier struggles, and not nearly as serious as his admirers would like him to take it.

Slaughter Due Tomorrow.

The tistic scene will be enlivened considerably tomorrow when Sammy [Kid] Slaughter, the ebony hued warrior from Terre Haute, arrives to get ready for his struggle on the same card with Kid Leonard from East Moline. Leonard will get here shortly after Slaughter arrives.

The advance men for these boys claim it won't be safe to permit them to work in the same gymnasium. Just what is to be done about all this bad feeling will be decided today.

Vince Dundee, the new middleweight champion, has been offered a match with the winner of this affair and Nate Lewis wants to put it on at the Stadium a couple of nights before Thanksgiving day.

Mr. Lewis has made a rather generous offer to Dundee—one which Dundee cannot afford to turn down—in the opinion of the Stadium matchmaker.

BRUNDAGE NOT TO RUN AGAIN, REPORT IN EAST

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Word was received here today that Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the Amateur Athletic Association of the United States for the last four years, is not a candidate for reelection.

A new president will be named at the annual three-day meeting, which opens next Sunday.

Mentioned prominently for the post are Martin Klein and Maj. Patrick Walsh of New York; William Kenney of Boston; Judge Fred Hoffman of Cincinnati; and A. C. Gilbert of New Haven, Conn.

Freddy Miller Defeats Feldman in New York

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Freddy Miller of Cincinnati, recognized by the National Boxing association as world's featherweight champion, outpointed Lew Feldman of Brooklyn, in a non-title bout tonight.

HOWDY, BABE! WHERE ARE YOUR SKATES?

Babe Ruth, of baseball fame, found Chicago a far cry from Hawaii and California, from which he returned with his daughter, Julia Ruth (left) and Mrs. Ruth yesterday. The Babe stopped over just long enough to change trains at the Englewood station. He had a date in New York with his overshoes, which he said he had neglected to take along. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER.

DEAR WAKE: Red Grange won the first CHICAGO TRIBUNE Silver Football for the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team back in 1924. While Gil Berry went down to the final votes against Harry Newman of Michigan last year, an Illinois player has not been awarded the great honor since. In my opinion this is the year.

First, let us consider what conference elevens have surpassed early season expectations. There are only two, possibly three, depending on how Minnesota fares against Michigan Saturday. Those two are Illinois and Iowa. Both beat Wisconsin by three touchdowns, but the Badgers scored against Iowa. Illinois led Michigan and the Wolverines had to have all the breaks imaginable to win finally by point after touchdown. Most critics say Michigan was outplayed. Iowa also scored against the champions, but Michigan had a seemingly safe lead at the time.

What has made Illinois great after allowing for Zuppke as head coach and Lindgren, who as line coach taught lighter boys to outcharge heavier opponents all season? Beynon's generalship and passing, Lindberg's kicking, Froschauer's runs, and Dave Cook. Cook scored the six points against Michigan and the winning three points against Northwestern, the two elevens Illinois most wanted to beat.

I recognize Beynon's passing and Cook's scoring to which was added the latter's unfailing defensive ability. I hardly can choose between that pair, although I slightly favor Beynon. But the Illini themselves will determine that for the judges. Beynon is a junior and Cook a senior, which sometimes weighs among players. But my point is that Illinois is the most improved team in the conference and its showing is due to Cook and Beynon. One of them should have the Silver Football.

Illini '23.

Purdue and Wisconsin never have won your Silver Football. Purdue has been unfortunate, perhaps, at times in having several great players on the same eleven which divided their votes. There is more than one great player this season, too, but none so great as Duane Purvis. I trust he will be the first Purdue player to receive a Silver Football at Lafayette.

W. A. M., Boilermaker '15.

O, Murphy's cat was black and white.
He slept all day, then yowled all night.
His tenor voice was not so good,
It wakened all the neighborhood.

The man next door 'neath his breath,
"That cat will meet an early death,
How can I sleep without a care
While Murphy's cat is on the air."

Now all has changed and quiet reigns,

For Murphy's cat, the neighbors say,
Has signed a code with NRA.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Ottawa Senators chalked up their second victory of the National Hockey league season tonight by whipping the Montreal Maroons, 4 to 2, and climbed into a three way tie with Toronto and the Montreal Canadiens for the international division lead.

The game was a personal triumph for Earl Roche, tall wingman who once was the property of the Maroons. He scored three of Ottawa's goals, all on unassisted plays, after Syd Howe had started things off with a solo tally. Howe's counter and Roche's first, coming 15 seconds apart early in the first period, gave the Senators a lead that never was threatened.

The Maroons did not score until they were three goals down. Then Wally Kilrea sank Lorne Duguid's pass at the finish of the second period. Ten seconds before the game ended Glen Brydson tallied on an assist by Hooley Smith. Lineup:

RED WINGS, 4; BRUINS, 2.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings swarmed over the sluggish Bruins for a 4 to 2 victory tonight in the Boston opening of the National Hockey league. Even the presence of Eddie Shore did not improve the burly Bruins, who were roundly outplayed as they digested their third straight defeat of the season.

Johnny Sorrell, who scored four goals against the New York Americans Sunday, put the Red Wings in front by counting twice in the opening session. The Wings were checked in the second, but they drove two more shots through Goalie Thompson in the final period, the successful shots coming from Frank Carson on an assist from Happy Emms and Ebbie Goodfellow on a solo rush. ## MARCH SCORES CHICAGO'S GOAL IN THIRD PERIOD

Conacher Benched for Slugging.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 14.—[C. P.]—The Montreal Canadiens overcame the Blackhawks, 3 to 1, tonight, handing the Chicagoans their first defeat of the National Hockey league season. The whipping tumbled the Hawks from the top of the American division into second place as the Detroit Red Wings beat Boston.

MUSH MARCH.

Johnny Gagnon lifted a high shot past Chuck Gardiner in the first period to put the Canadiens in front. The Hawks held the Canadiens in check in the second period, but a swift offensive in the first few minutes of the third period resulted in two quick goals.

In the last two minutes of play Mush March got a shot past Lorne Chabot to save the Hawks from a shutout. It was in a mixup at the Canadiens' goal mouth and Donnie McFadyen drew an assist on the play.

Canadiens Score Early.

Play was brisk from the first face off with Gerry Carson making the first dangerous rush. Taffy Abel just managed to block Morens as he tried for the rebound. The Canadiens scored shortly after when Johnny Gagnon lifted a high shot past Chuck Gardiner after stick handling around Taffy Abel.

Front lines were shifted repeatedly, making for remarkable speed. Larochelle got two good chances from right wing, but Gardiner stopped both shots. March and McFadyen skirmished inside the Canadiens' blue line, but were edged into a corner, then March and Coulter made a raid. Coulter's drive missed the cage.

Conacher Benched.

Lionel Conacher was the first man to go to the penalty bench, drawing two minutes for tripping Howie Morenz, early in the scoreless second period. Joliat and Gagnon skirmished inside the Hawks' blue line immediately but Gardiner saved. The Canadiens had five men up the ice until Conacher was back on the ice.

Sammy Godin was chased for two minutes for charging Coulter. The Blackhawks sent on four forwards and Canadiens were hard put for a few minutes, back-checking furiously as the Hawks sniped from inside the blue line. Godin returned and the Hawks withdrew their five-man attack. Coulter then drew a tripping penalty and the Canadiens rushed to the attack.

The Canadiens intensified their attack on Gardiner in the third period. Conacher dumped Morenz as the latter streaked over the blue line and was waved to the penalty coop. He was barely off the ice when Wildor Larochelle scored on Gardiner from out of a scramble. Marty Burke set up the play for Larochelle.

Get Another One.

The Canadiens drove right back and Pit Lepine hammered in a goal from inside the defense, making the score 3 to 0. Burke carried the puck in, passing to Larochelle. Larochelle backheeled the puck to Lepine, who drilled a high shot into the net. Larochelle nearly beat Gardiner on another drive just before Conacher came back.

Gottselig and Couture were body checked as they tried to rush the Canadiens' defense and Abel was stopped heavily by Carson. March started a scramble inside the Canadiens' defense, during which Conacher and George Mantha tangled and Conacher began slugging the Canadiens' wing. He was banished with a major penalty. Mantha got a minor.

Chuck Gardiner came out of his cage to stop a Canadiens' rush and Abel and Coulter jumped in to the goal mouth as a wild skirmish took place. The Hawks saved themselves from a shutout when Mush March jabbed the puck past Chabot on a smart pass from McFadyen in a hot scramble. Morenz was lying in the goal mouth with Chabot, as March hooked the puck into the net.

SEVEN BIG TEN COACHES UPHOLD FOOTBALL RULES

Hanley, Willaman, Spears Seek Changes.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The public's demand for its money's worth, with games between evenly matched teams, is chiefly responsible for the lack of scoring in football this season.

That appears to be the general opinion of coaches in the Western conference, which has been producing sensational battles. The coaches, with three exceptions, are not in favor of altering the rules.

The exceptions were Dick Hanley of Northwestern, who has campaigned for changes calculated to improve offensive football; Sam Willaman of Ohio State and Dr. Clarence Spears, head coach at Wisconsin. The others favored leaving the rules as they are. All agreed the practice of meeting "set-up" teams is disappearing because high class games must be presented to keep the turnstiles busy.

"It's All Defense"—Hanley.

"The defense has all the better of it in the rules," said Hanley last night. "I have campaigned to change the rules to permit forward passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage. This would not only improve the overhead game, but would improve the running game—which the spectators come to see. I also favor going back to the old rule which permits running with a recovered fumble or blocked kick, and moving the goal posts back up to the goal line."

"The rules are man made and therefore not perfect," Bob Zuppke of Illinois said. "I hope the committee will not tinker with the rules. All low scoring means is more equal teams. Low score games are interesting. Michigan beat Illinois only 7 to 6, but nobody went home."

"No Change Needed"—Kipke.

"The elimination of the dead ball rule might add some thrills," Harry Kipke, coach of Michigan's Big Ten leader, said, "but it has made coaches willing to open up with lateral and double lateral passes. I am afraid return to the old fumble rule would cause these spectacular plays to be discarded and a more conservative game would result."

Bernie Bierman of Minnesota thinks the rules are all right with one exception: "I'd like to see the rules changed to let a ball carrier get up and run after going to one knee," he said.

Willaman strung along with Hanley on the suggestion of permitting passing from anywhere behind the scrimmage line. Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago, however, said the rules seemed fair enough to him, even if his Maroons have scored only one touchdown against major opponents.

"Good teams will score regardless of rules," he said. "Low scores are due, I think, to more evenly matched teams."

"Schedules Are Tougher"—Solem.

Dr. Spears hoped for rule changes to help the offense, saying: "Elimination of the dead ball rule on fumbles and blocked kicks would help."

"I am not convinced that the rules account for low scoring," Ossie Solem of Iowa said. "Schedules are getting tougher and that keeps the scoring down."

Noble Kizer, coach of Purdue's Boilermakers, said the present rules provide for a neat balance between offense and defense, and from the spectators' point of view have been providing plenty of action.

"If the general average of scoring has fallen off," Kizer said, "it can be attributed to the fact that there is better national balance in football and that most teams are now playing full schedules against teams in their own class instead of filling in with 'breathers' to run up a lot of points."

VENZKE GETS IN SHAPE FOR RACE BY PLAYING GOLF

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Chalk up another argument for golf. Gene Venzke, who became the country's greatest indoor miler, has employed the game for the last four months to get himself in shape for long distance running.

Venzke gave up distance racing for his career as a miler, but now he is the University of Pennsylvania's greatest hope in the intercollegiate cross-country title race to be run next Monday over the six mile course in Van Cortlandt park, New York.

In addition to playing as much as 45 holes of golf a day, Gene has been running from two to ten miles daily since the cool weather started.

New Pro Football League Planned in Two Sections

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Plans for organization of the American Professional Football league, along lines similar to those of the National league, were announced here today following conference between professional football promoters in ten states.

S. A. Godman, owner of the Memphis Tigers, said Joe Carr of Columbus, O., president of the National league, was assisting in the plan, as are backers of the Charlotte Bantams, St. Louis, Mo., Gunners, and Oklahoma, Okla., Chiefs. The league would be divided into eastern and western divisions as is the National, with Charlotte and Memphis division headquarters.

Teams which have entered negotiations for entry into the eastern division are Atlanta, Jacksonville, Washington, Baltimore, and Winston-Salem. Prospects for the western division, in addition to Memphis, Oklahoma City, and St. Louis, include New Orleans, Birmingham, Montgomery, Nashville, Chattanooga, and Tulsa, Godman said.

HEAVY BROOKLYN LINE TO AWAIT CARDINAL BACKS

Forward Wall Averages 218 Pounds.

The Chicago Cardinals, who have won only one game in the National Professional Football league season, will be opposed by the heaviest line in the league when they meet the Brooklyn Dodgers at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon. The contest will conclude the Cardinals' home season.

Among the giants on the Brooklyn line, which averages 218 pounds, is Harold Ely, former University of Iowa star, who played with the Chicago Bears last season. He weighs 275 pounds. Others are Paul Mielziner, former Carnegie Tech tackle, and Herman Hickman of Tennessee, each tipping the scales at 245 pounds.

The Dodgers will be without the services of Benny Friedman and his absence has boosted the hopes of the Cardinals for their second victory. It was Friedman who defeated the Cardinals in their first meeting on Oct. 29, the former Michigan star tossing a forward pass to Ben Douglas for the only touchdown of the game.

Chris Cagle is expected to replace Friedman at quarter back, while John [Stumpy] Thomason will be at right half back, Cagle's regular position. Thomason, former Georgia Tech star, is playing his fourth season with the Dodgers.

Despite the snow Coach Paul Schissler sent the Cardinals through a long practice session yesterday. With Friedman, the greatest passing threat in the game, remaining in the east, Coach Schissler believes that the Dodgers will not use many forward passes and he sent the squad against Dodger running plays.

Some Fans Forget Touchdown Is Scored 6; First Down, 0

BY WILFRID SMITH.

What has happened to those hardy individuals who proposed a couple of years ago to score points for first downs? If they'll step forward again a host of football coaches probably will enlist under their banner.

Camp news on Monday mornings now follow a general outline such as this:

"Collegeville, America, Nov.—[Special.]—The sturdy gridiron stars of—[insert name of college or university] completely outplayed—[insert name of college or university] here last Saturday. Except for an unusal series of misfortunes the Black and Blue would have won.

A Familiar Story.

"The sturdy stars outgained their opponents 225 yards to 98 from scrimmage and completed three more forward passes. Unfortunately none of the forward passes scored while—[insert name of college or university] made three of its touchdowns after completing passes. The Black and Blue rang up 14 first downs to 6, indicating clearly a marked superiority. Four times the sons of old Black and Blue advanced within their opponents' 10 yard line, but they fumbled, dropped forward pass, missed place kick, bad pass from center, bumped into own player, missed signal, ball carrier hurt, off side, ran wrong direction [pick any four], and lost golden opportunities.

"Coach Whoosis started intensive drill today to eradicate fumbles. If the players can gain near the goal line as easily as they did Saturday in midfield, all games remaining on the schedule will be won."

No Aspersions Intended.

Now, don't rule us off immediately. We have no desire to insult Northwestern, Wisconsin, Notre Dame, Chicago, Minnesota, or Ohio State. On second thought Ohio State hasn't qualified this year. The Buckeyes lost to Michigan and were outpointed 9 first downs to 3, but last year and in other years the downtown coaches in Columbus, O., sang the familiar song after a Michigan game: "We were licked but we gained more yards."

Maybe we are mistaken, but it seems that the general idea in football is to place the egg shaped pig bladder beyond the opponents' goal line, or failing that, kick it between the goal posts. Since this is a democratic country a majority vote might change this plan. One point might be scored for a first down in a team's own territory; two points for a first down in enemy territory, or write your own rules.

Scale of Values Changed.

Slight research work is necessary to discover that many of the present rules were inspired in some such fashion. The ratio of value between field goals and touchdowns has been changed repeatedly. Players cannot run with opponents' fumbles that strike the ground because the rule-makers decided it placed too great a penalty on error and correspondingly depreciated the value of touchdowns. So why not make more changes? Extend the side lines so the Chicago runner who hits the white line on his almost touchdown run will be in bounds. Put handles on the ball in rainy weather and by all means minimize inefficiency and failure.

These changes will put Michigan at the bottom of the conference standings, for the Wolverines, who have won three consecutive championships and may add a fourth this year, have the strange idea that touchdowns win games and not yards gained. Score points on first downs and let's read about John Doe who plunged through the center of the Michigan line to make the first down on Michigan's 48 yard line and win the game for Illiana, 21 points to 20.

What of Intercepted Passes?

What about intercepted passes? And blocked kicks? Surely some one can think of a rule to prevent touchdowns on intercepted passes and blocked kicks. Eliminate interceptions. Make the ball dead at the point at which it is caught or force the defense to knock the ball down. Give a team two chances to kick.

But this is a digression. The primary contention now is to ward victory for yards gained. Let's take the goal lines away, if no other method can be invented, and at least all games then will end in scoreless ties.

State Prep Officials to Study Basketball Rules

Officials of the Illinois State High School Athletic association will hold their annual meeting to interpret basketball rules at the Atlantic hotel tomorrow night. Leading basketball coaches and athletic directors are expected to attend.

Snow, Cold Fail to Slow Teams in Prep Semi-Finals

Snow and cold weather yesterday failed to deter the four sectional football champions of the Chicago Public High School league who will play in the semi-final round Saturday afternoon. Long practice sessions were held and, barring injuries in practice, all four teams will be at full strength for the games. The two winners will meet for the league title Nov. 25.

The games will bring together Harrison Tech, west section, against Schurz, north section, at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, and Morgan Park, south section, against Lindblom, central section, at White City, 63d street and South Park way. Morgan Park is the defending champion.

One of the largest high school crowds of the season is expected to watch Mount Carmel play De La Salle in their annual game at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon. Proceeds of the contest will be donated to the Loretto Woodlawn auxiliary.

Hinsdale and Maine, undefeated leaders of the West Suburban conference, meet for the championship at Des Plaines Saturday. Two other conference games will be played. Glenbard will play at Downers Grove and York will meet West Chicago on the latter's field.

The west division championship of the Chicago Catholic High School league will be at stake when Fenwick of Oak Park and St. Ignatius meet at Mills stadium Sunday afternoon. Each has scored five consecutive victories

St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis., will meet Moosheart's football team at Wrigley field Nov. 25.

The Chicago Catholic High school league basketball season will open Jan. 5. De La Salle of Joliet, which did not compete in the league football race this season because of financial difficulties, will seek the basketball championship. It will compete in the east division.

The ten new high schools probably will be added to the present four sections of the Chicago Public High School league for the basketball season, it was indicated after a meeting in the offices of A. H. Pritzlaff, athletic director, yesterday afternoon.

Pro Elevens Play Indoor Game Tonight

The Chicago Shamrocks will play the Blackhawks in an indoor football game tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. The Blackhawks, composed of former college players, several of them ex-Wisconsin stars, are from Fort Atkinson, Wis. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Although somewhat crippled by the loss of Sod Ryan, whose knee was injured last week in the St. Louis game, the Shamrocks are better fixed for the Hawks and have their back field functioning at its best. Last year the Shamrocks took a 6-0 decision from the Blackhawks.

The Hawks are led by George Casey and Harold Smith, who played on recent Badger elevens. Casey will start at left end and Smith will be at tackle. Two other Badgers, Mickey Bach and Larry Neupert, will start in the back field.

Ryan's position at tackle for the Shamrocks will be filled by Ken Wendt. Walt Durkin will start at quarter, with Saluski, Brosseau and McWilliams with him in the back field. The lineup:

| SHAMROCKS. | | BLACKHAWKS. |

CENTRAL ELEVEN PLAYS FOR TITLE AT ELKHART, IND.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—For the third time in as many years Central of South Bend and Elkhart will meet Saturday in the final game of the season with the eastern division championship of the Northern Indiana High School conference at stake.

Central, however, will have a chance of winning the title and, if successful, will regain the championship won by Elkhart last year in the final game of the season. Elkhart's victory in 1932 snapped a 24 game winning streak for Central.

CHICAGO HOPES TO PUT NEW THRILL IN ILLINI SERIES

Passes Again Will Mark Clash of Old Rivals.

When Coach Clark Shaughnessy sends the Chicago football team onto the gridiron of the Illini at Champaign Saturday he will project his first Maroons into one of the oldest rivalries in the central states. It is a series with a history of 42 years standing, marked with many a bitter struggle and sharp upset. Shaughnessy hopes his first contribution to this saga will be in the upset category. His cohorts do not think this impossible.

Honors are about even between Chicago and Illinois. The Maroons have won 17, and the Illini have taken 16, including the unofficial game of 1918. Three games ended in ties, including the memorable 1924 affair, which ended at 21 to 21. One match, in 1894, was declared no game when darkness closed on an argument as to whether Bucky Vail, Illini coach, should be allowed to play, the score being 10 to 6 for Chicago at the time. Mild upsets, at the cellar level, have been scored in each of the last two years, Chicago winning in 1931 and Illinois last year.

Maroon Passes Win, 63 to 0.

It was forward passing which accounted for the biggest score ever rolled up in the series. In 1906 Coach A. A. Stagg demonstrated the possibilities of the newly legalized pass at the expense of the Illini. The score was 63 to 0. It will be passing, this time by Illinois with Jack Beynon as the source, that is likely to decide the forthcoming, thirty-eighth game.

Following a session of drill on fundamentals for linemen and a short scrimmage, Coach Shaughnessy yesterday set the Maroons on defense against Beynon's passing. The Maroons have been fairly adept at checking running attacks in their last four games. It was just one Indiana play, a long pass, which caught them napping that cost the Maroons a victory last Saturday. The pass was good for 55 yards.

ZUPPKE WARY OF MAROONS.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Observing that the setting is fine for a surprise by Chicago because of campus overconfidence and that he expects the Maroons to play their best game of the season, Coach Bob Zuppke put the Illinois football squad through scrimmage today.

Zuppke was impressed by the fact that Chicago gained 311 yards against Indiana, which, he said, was certainly enough to win most games. The Illini chieftain expects the Maroons to play inspired football in their rôle of underdog and convinced the Illini that he was not crying "wolf."

Illini Eye Third Place.

If the Maroon offense clicks, it will be disastrous to the hopes of the Illini to win third place in the Big Ten and perhaps better, if the closing games tangle up the title race.

The freshmen presented the flanker and numerous other open plays favored by Coach Shaughnessy, against the regulars, who all saw action. In offensive practice Zuppke strove to strengthen the Illinois running attack, which was not effective against Northwestern.

Frank Leonette, former Harrison Tech player, was worked as a reserve quarter back. Cliff Gano, understudy to Jack Beynon, has been limping, but is expected to be available for duty if needed.

Gragg's Work Pleases.

Although Zuppke indicated he would not alter the lineup used against Michigan and Northwestern, he was pleased with the performance of Red Gragg at tackle in the second half at Evanston. Gragg will probably get a chance at some stage of the Maroon contest.

BUCKEYES IGNORE SNOW.

Columbus, O., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Ohio State's football forces were given an excellent opportunity to prepare for Wisconsin today in a different manner.

Late in November the weather is usually much colder at Madison than in Columbus, so Coach Sam Willaman chased his charges out into a couple of inches of snow, the first of the season, and the players found how it feels to handle punts and passes with half frozen fingers.

Scrimmage Against Frosh.

A light scrimmage was held against the freshmen, who were equipped with Badger plays. Gains by the varsity were frequent and long, while the yearlings were stopped with monotonous regularity.

In the backfield for Ohio State, Willaman had as starters Smith and Heekin at half backs, Cramer at quarter, and Kabealo at full back.

This was soon changed, however, when Oliphant took the signal calling post and Jones replaced Heekin, with Wetzel ousting Kabealo.

Buckeyes Leave Tomorrow.

In the line during the most of the drill, which was held under floodlights, Gillman and Rees occupied the ends, with Conrad and Rosequist at tackles, and Gailus and Monahan at guards, and Buchinich at center.

The Buckeyes leave Columbus Thursday for the Badger camp. Another scrimmage is scheduled for tomorrow.

BADGERS BUILD OFFENSE.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin Badgers today were put through one of the most strenuous scrimmage sessions of the season. Because practice fields were frozen and slippery, all players were taken inside the field house, the floor of which is covered with a layer of chipped bark providing a soft landing.

Coach Clarence W. Spears continued the policy started last week of concentrating upon the Badger offense. Wisconsin's defense for running attacks is regarded as the best possible with the material available. Attention was given, however, to pass defense which was shown to be weak in the West Virginia game.

Reports from Ohio State that coaches there expect to defeat the Badgers without special preparation served to intensify the Badgers' determination to perform a miracle and beat the Buckeyes Saturday.

BOWLS PERFECT GAME.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Anthony Ruediger of Carbondale last night bowled a 300 game.

Minnesota at Full Strength for Big Game

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The University of Minnesota football team will be at full strength when it plays the unbeaten and untied Michigan Wolverines at Ann Arbor Saturday afternoon. That was the assurance given today when Bob Tenner entered into the spirited practice session.

Tenner was so severely injured on the third play of the Northwestern game two weeks ago that he had to leave the contest. He had been able to do little work until today, when he indicated that he was ready to take his regular place at left end. With him in the lineup, the Gophers will be much better set because of his dependability and the availability of both Tenner and John Ronning for left end duty.

MICHIGAN FORCED INDOORS.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Snow that had drifted two feet high in places and a temperature that was down to 18 degrees and still dropping kept the Michigan football squad in Yost fieldhouse this afternoon. The players were hampered there by the comparatively small space afforded for the type of play to be employed against Minnesota Saturday, but a fairly complete rehearsal was effected.

It was apparent during practice that the coaching staff has altered the attack considerably and that Minnesota will see a lot of new plays along with the old. In a defensive drill against the Minnesota attack, Assistant Coach Bennie Oosterbaan directed the fourth string team, which demonstrated Gopher power and deception. It was said that tomorrow's session would be devoted entirely to defense.

HOOSIERS SEE XAVIER PLAYS.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Indiana university football players got a glimpse of what they will face Saturday against Xavier at Cincinnati when they went through a lengthy dummy scrimmage against freshmen teams using Xavier formations.

Coach E. C. Hayes is killing two birds with one stone in his drill for the Xavier game, since the Cincinnati eleven employs the Notre Dame style of play which Indiana will face here a week from Saturday in the final game of the season against Purdue.

Wendell Walker, who has recovered from injuries, came in for much work this afternoon designed to make him a triple threat. He is being groomed on quick kicking to supplement his running gains and accurate passing.

RED SOX-MACKS DEAL REPORTED; CONNIE SILENT

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Reports of a deal between the Boston Red Sox and Athletics involving Pitcher George Walberg and Infielder Max Bishop of the A's and Infielder Harold Warstler and Pitcher Bob Kline of the Sox were heard tonight in Philadelphia baseball circles.

The report said Kline and Warstler would come to the A's with cash in exchange for Bishop and Walberg.

Manager Connie Mack, asked to comment on the deal, became enigmatic and turned from baseball to bridge, saying:

"If your partner bids three diamonds then it is up to you to lead with a spade."

San José, Cal., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Claude Capley, Sausalito, Cal., won an easy ten round decision over Tony Curro, New York welterweight, tonight. Each weighed 147.

AL SEES FOR HIMSELF

"Sure, it's 14 feet closer to the fences," chortles Al Simmons as he measures the distance that the plate has been moved up at Comiskey park. And the heavy hitting White Sox outfielder doesn't appear one bit disappointed by the alteration that probably will help him next season. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Simmons Is No Longer Mad at Breeze Off Lake Michigan

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Hoo-Ray for Al Simmons! He ain't mad at Lake Michigan or nobody.

The White Sox's great all around baseball player, on Monday reported to be "scowling and bitter" because his boss, J. Lou Comiskey, had gone and shrunk Comiskey park without arranging to head off the lake breeze, went out to the adjusted premises yesterday to survey the changes first hand.

Have you looked at the picture published herewith? Weren't you awed when you saw that scowl flashing from his darkened brow? Aren't you amazed that a gent who has made $100,000 in the last three years doing something he loves to do could radiate so much bitterness?

Lowering Expression Explained.

It seems that Al came to town Monday for a spell with his Chicago dentist. An annotator had grabbed him while phantom drills were whirring at his jaws as he contemplated the actual visit to the doc's lair. Can you blame Al for not feeling so friendly toward the world?

After the interview, however, Al went to the dentist's and on the table in the doc's reception room was a 1929 magazine. Al opened it and found an article which told how he had a major part in the offensive which crushed the Cubs in the world series that year. A few minutes later he got in the chair, and the doc didn't hurt him at all.

Monday night Al was a different man. Yesterday he arose at noon, as per his year around custom and, from a window at his apartment in the Chicago Beach hotel, his eyes swept out over the beautiful expanse of water which 24 hours earlier he had assailed as the main menace to his aspirations to again win the American league batting championship. Ah, good old Lake Michigan!

Yesterday afternoon Al went over to Comiskey park. He noticed on the trip that Shields and 35th isn't nearly so near the water's edge as he had thought the day before.

Takes Wind Observations.

On entering the park, Al went directly to the field. He took a rule and measured back 14 feet from the new home plate to locate the place where the old plate had been. Al is no dunce at figures—it didn't take him long to appreciate that 14 feet are 14 feet when you're moving toward a major league center field flagpole.

Al also found that the wind doesn't always blow off the lake. Yesterday it was blowing and blowing plenty—from the northwest. And anyhow, Al, as he observed the closer walls, figured out how to beat the wind even when it does blow off the lake summer afternoons. He's going to place his drives toward left center and let the wind carry them over against the left field wall. Other days Al will hit the right field ball.

National Soccer Champions to Play Sparta Sunday

The Stix, Baer, and Fuller club of St. Louis, national soccer champion, will play Sparta, local professional champion, at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue, Sunday. In the St. Louis lineup will be two former Brickie Stars, Willie McLean and Bob Gregg. In a curtain raiser, starting at 12:45 p. m., the First German Sport club of the International league will play the Wonderbolts.

Portland Beats Mexicans in Third Extra Inning Game

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Portland baseball team beat the Aztecas today, 4 to 2, after scoring a run in the ninth to tie the score at 2 all. It was their third successive ten inning game. An infield out with two on base and a double steal by Eckhardt and Kampouris gave Portland two runs in the tenth for a 2 to 1 lead in the series.

Iowa Cripples Return, but Take It Easy

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Most of the University of Iowa cripples were back in uniform today, but Coach Ossie Solem continued the policy of easy workouts in preparing for Purdue.

"We can't teach the boys much more football this year, and the season has reached a point where the big objective is keeping every player in the game," was the coach's opinion. He continued to work on forward passes with all of the first string backs, augmented by Joe Richards and George Teyro, reserves, doing the throwing. Regulars drilled on new plays in dummy scrimmage against a freshman team.

Solem pointed Teyro and Richards on kicking, since one of them may be called upon to fill Dick Crayne's job as a punter against the Boilermakers. Crayne did some running in an attempt to limber up the charley horse he suffered in the Michigan game, but did not report for regular drill.

Zud Schammel, star guard, was being treated at the university hospital for a glandular infection as he has been nearly every week, but was expected to play Saturday.

PURDUE RESPECTS IOWA.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Thorough respect for the powerful and deceptive Iowa offense which has scored one or more touchdowns in every game this season was shown by Purdue coaches this afternoon as they outlined in detail the defensive tactics that are to be employed by the undefeated Boilermakers in their final home game here Saturday.

The game will mark the meeting of two of the most consistent scoring elevens in the middle west, for the Boilermakers can look back on 46 straight games in which they have scored one or more touchdowns, and a free scoring battle is rather expected when the two systems clash.

Purdue's back field foursome of Fred Hecker, Paul Pardonner, Duane Purvis, and Jim Carter was intact during the intensive drill.

Coach Noble Kizer impressed on the squad tonight that Iowa will offer strong competition. "Iowa has as tough a line as we have met all season, and a strong offense," he said. "Not only in their victories over Northwestern and Wisconsin, but even in their losses to Minnesota and Michigan, they showed a lot of power."

The Hawkeyes' showing against Michigan, when they were nosed out by the goal kicking of Everhardus, coupled with the fact that Saturday's game will have a distinct bearing on Boilermaker title hopes, has aroused a great deal of interest, and with good weather, a near capacity crowd is expected, although there still are plenty of tickets available.

Japanese University Players Reach National Net Finals

OSAKA, Japan, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Two little known university students today won their way to the final round of the Japanese national tennis championships.

Hideo Nishimura, a student at Keio, defeated the defending titleholder and Davis Cup star, Ryosuke Nunoi, 6-8, 7-9, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3. In one semi-final, Jiro Fujikura, who upset the Davis cup veteran, Jiro Satoh, in the quarter finals, won his final brackets with a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2 victory over another Keio student, Jiro Yamagishi.

Marack Regains Scoring Lead in Little Nineteen

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Bobby Marack, Augustana half back, regained the Little Nineteen conference individual scoring lead Saturday after losing it to Leslie Murray, State Normal quarter back, a week ago, statistics released today revealed.

Marack scored four touchdowns against Western Teachers of Macomb in Augustana's 46 to 0 victory, increasing his total to 77 points in six league games. He now has 17 points more than Murray.

Marack has virtually clinched the Little 19 scoring title. Murray has only one more conference game to play, State Normal at McKendree, Saturday, and it is not probable that he will score enough points to tie for the lead. S. Harding of St. Viators, who occupies third place with 42 points, will have no chance to increase his total, for St. Viator's conference schedule is closed.

At the close of the seventh week of play, 99 players of the 21 colleges playing in 44 conference games have broken into the scoring column. Thirty of these have made at least 12 points. These include 16 halfbacks, six full backs, five quarter backs, and three ends. Standings:

NORMAL EASES OFF.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Fearing a letdown by the State Normal eleven after its drop from the Little Nineteen conference lead last Saturday, Coach Howard Hancock ordered only light drill today. Very little scrimmage is promised for the rest of the week.

If State Normal can defeat McKendree at Lebanon Saturday, the teachers will have a record of six victories and one defeat in the Little Nineteen, their best record since 1908. Last year State Normal won five and lost two games.

WESLEYAN BACK AT WORK.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The Illinois Wesleyan football squad returned to practice today after a day's rest. There will be but two days of drill before Wesleyan goes to Kentucky Thursday to meet Western Kentucky at Bowling Green Saturday. The trip will be made by bus.

Coach J. Norman Elliott announced today he will use the majority of his regulars against Western Kentucky but that those not in the best physical shape will be kept on the sidelines to safeguard against injury before the Little Nineteen leader.

KNOX SCRIMMAGES.

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The Knox football team, preparing for its Little Nineteen conference game with Bradley at Peoria Saturday, was sent through a long scrimmage against the freshmen today. A drill on forward pass offense closed the workout. Capt. Spence Vasen, who was unable to play against Coe last week because of injuries, is expected to start against Bradley.

Minors Open Session Today at Galveston

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Meetings of the Texas and Western leagues tonight paved the way for formal opening tomorrow of the 32d annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues.

The first business after the association is welcomed to the city will be the report of William G. Bramham, Durham, N. C., president.

With most of the visitors on a fishing trip in the Gulf of Mexico, there was little talk today, around convention headquarters of player deals but the executive committee of the National association resumed its deliberations. Its members are Warren C. Giles, president of the Rochester club of the International league; J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league, and Dale Gear, president of the Western league.

The Texas league, at its meeting today, voted in favor of the Shaughnessy playoff plan for the 1934 season and determined, with settlement of issues at Fort Worth and San Antonio, to continue with the same eight clubs.

The Western league was scheduled for a meeting tonight and the International league will discuss its problems tomorrow.

The Texas league's campaign will start April 17 and will close Sept. 9. The four clubs finishing in the first division then will engage in a round-robin playoff for the league pennant and the right to play in the annual Dixie series with the Southern association pennant winner.

MARSHALL FACES STEELE ON MAT CARD AT STADIUM

Everett Marshall and Ray Steele, who meet in one of the preliminary matches to the Jim Londos-Jim McMillen wrestling match at the Chicago Stadium Nov. 22, are expected to turn in one of the best bouts of the show. Long rivals, Marshall was given an opportunity to face Steele again when John Katan, who was to oppose Steele, cancelled his engagement here.

Dick Shikat will meet George Zaharias in the semi-windup match. Londos, claimant of the world's heavyweight championship, whose diamond studded belt will be at stake against McMillen, will arrive in New York today from Greece. He is expected to arrive in Chicago Sunday.

GEORGE KELLY CAPTURES U. S. BILLIARD TITLE

Wins Playoff; Qualifies for Chicago Meet.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 14.—(AP)—George Kelly of Philadelphia won the national pocket billiard championship tonight, defeating his fellow townsman, 18 year old William Mosconi, 125 to 98 in 29 innings in the third game of the title playoff.

The three game playoff between the two Philadelphians and Charles Seaback of Astoria, N. Y., was necessitated when the trio finished the 45 regularly scheduled tourney games in a tie last night with seven victories and two defeats.

Today Mosconi won from Seaback, 125 to 72 in 21 innings, while Kelly downed the New Yorker, 125 to 80 in 16 innings.

By defeating Mosconi in the third and last playoff match, Kelly, who last night set a new national tourney record high run of 125, won $550 in prize money and a diamond medal, emblematic of the national championship.

All three of the playoff contestants likewise won the right to compete in the world's championship tourney in Chicago opening Dec. 4.

Kieckhefer Takes Lead in Cue Match with Thurnblad

Augie Kieckhefer led Arthur Thurnblad, 200 to 178, at the end of the fourth block of their three cushion billiard match last night at Kieckhefer's Recreation. Kieckhefer won the third block yesterday afternoon, 50 to 38.

W. G. Mennen has studied the science of shaving for 25 years. Now he gives you the first scientific answer to the question that is puzzling most shavers

LATHER OR BRUSHLESS

WHICH FOR YOU?

LET ME GUIDE YOU, I MAKE BOTH

W. G. Mennen

"I've been studying shaving for 25 years and I am convinced that one type of shave cannot suit everybody. Whether you should use lather or brushless depends on your shaving habits, your type of beard and—most important—your type of skin.

"That's why I make both. Both give the "wilted whisker" shave. Both conquer the stubbornest stubble—so that the blade sails through—cuts clean—without a pull, or a yank, or a scratch.

"But only your skin can decide which is better for YOU—Lather or Brushless.

"If you have an oily skin—I recommend Mennen Lather Shave. You need that lather—to flush out your over-active pores. Mennen Lather penetrates into pores, loosens deeply imbedded grease deposits. Leaves your face healthier!

"If you have a dry skin—I recommend Mennen Brushless Shave. It's a cream—not a grease—containing special, fine ingredients good for dry, thin, tender skins.

"If you have a normal skin then take your choice! Then it's a question of convenience—do you like to use a brush or not?

"Either Mennen Lather Shave or Mennen Brushless gives you that wonderful comfort that comes only when you suit your whiskers!"

SWEDISH ARMY TEAM CAPTURES JUMPING TITLE

Scores 3 Perfect Performances at Horse Show.

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Scoring three perfect performances over the difficult Olympic course, the Swedish army team tonight won the international military team championship, defeating the picked riders and their equine jumpers from four other nations at the National Horse show.

Without a bobble the three Swedish officers—Capt. Gustaf Fredrik von Rosen, Capt. Ernst Hallberg, and Capt. Herbert Sachs—sent their mounts over the jumps to defeat teams from the United States, Canada, the Irish Free State, and Czechoslovakia.

United States Is Second.

The United States army show team from Fort Riley, Kas., winner of the trophy the last two years, could do no better than second in face of the Swedes' remarkable horsemanship.

Two of Uncle Sam's representatives —Tanbark, ridden by Lieut. E. F. Thomson, and Advocat, with Maj. John Tupper Cole in the saddle—turned in perfect scores, but Ugly, with Lieut. C. W. Raguse up, faltered at the Oxer and was charged with four faults.

Back of the two leaders were the Irish Free State, Czechoslovakia, and Canada.

Mrs. John R. Thompson's King of the Plain, of Chicago, William M. M. Robinson's Isabella Peavine and Mrs. Julius Bliss' Grey Flight of Bronxville, N. Y., were judged the best of their respective classes at the opening of the night session.

Fourth In Row.

King of the Plain, unbeaten since he was imported from England six years ago, won his fourth straight national championship for Hackney ponies under 14.2 hands. The reserve ribbon went to Melbourne Swell from A. B. Dick Jr.'s Dicksfield farm, of Gurnee, Ill.

Isabella Peavine, which made her debut last spring at the Devon, created something of a surprise when she won the rosette for three gaited saddle horses over 15.2 hands. She beat such good saddle horses as Claire W. Faitoute's Blue Blazes of Bronxville, N. Y., and Reed A. Albee's Calamity Jane from Larchmont, N. Y.

Grey Flight was crowned champion of the jumpers.

Wins Second Time.

For the second straight year Brunswick, owned by R. B. Minton and Robert McCray of Barbourville, Ky., was judged the champion roadster of the national horse show, defeating four other speedy horses in the $1,000 sweepstakes.

Driven by Chester Caldwell, the 8 year old bay stallion won the championship rosette and the major share of the purse over his stablemate, Frederick. Lee Star, representing the Nawbeek stable of William M. M. Robinson of Paoli, Pa., was third.

Mrs. C. V. Whitney, owner of a large stable of racing horses, won her second blue of the show with the gray gelding Lincoln. With Mrs. Whitney in the saddle, Lincoln defeated 47 other jumpers with the only perfect performance in the touch-and-out event.

Another champion repeated when Mountain Echo, from Col. W. H. Henderson's Jane's Place, of Eatontown, N. J., won the three gaited title for saddle horses over 14.2 hands and not exceeding 15.2. It was the third victory for the black gelding in the current show and ran the string of triumphs for the Eatontown stable to seven.

Frances M. Dodge of Rochester, Mich., won her sixth blue of the show with a pair of harness ponies, Buckley Amity and Cassilis Easter Maid.

HUNTING DOGS TO SHOW ABILITY IN WEEK-END TRIALS

Public Field Tests to Be Held Near Lake Forest.

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Sportsman, here are the details of the second annual field trial meeting for English springer and cocker spaniels, sponsored by the Springer Spaniel Club of the Central States, which will demonstrate the game finding and retrieving ability of these breeds when worked on upland game and ducks. Hunters who need a combination hunting dog and retriever, one which will route rabbits as well as feathered game, will be interested in watching how the springers and cockers work at this trial. Game will be shot just like the average hunter would shoot it on a real hunting trip.

Date—Next Saturday and Sunday.

Place—John C. Dillon's Forest Haven estates west of the town of Lake Forest, thirty odd miles north of the loop.

Time—10 o'clock.

How to Get There.

How to reach grounds—Any road to Lake Forest. If you come north from the city on 42-A pick up Deerpath road [59-A] where it turns west from 42-A. Follow this road over the Milwaukee line railroad tracks on past Mellody farm [surrounded by a high fence] to the first right hand gravel road leading north. Take this road and it will lead you direct to the field. The location of the field trial grounds is specifically given as "Bradled road and Mellody lane."

Admission—The trials are open to the public on both days without any charge. Officers of the sponsoring club are inviting all sportsmen interested in dogs to attend. The public may follow the dogs, the judges and the official guns through the fields while game is being put up and shot.

Dogs Will Take Water Test.

Water test—Both the springers and cockers in the open all age stakes are required to go through a water test to give the judges an idea of how they retrieve birds. Live ducks will be used for this test. Those in charge of Mellody farm will permit the use of the artificial lake on that property for the water test and the spaniels will be sent out on command to swim to and retrieve ducks.

Trial Judge—The spaniels will be judged by Martin J. Hogan of Barrington, Ill. Associate judge, Bob Becker.

Number of stakes to be run—There will be a puppy and all age stake for springers and also a puppy and all age stake for cocker spaniels. Prizes include silver cups, cash, and ribbons.

Official guns—There will be an official gun for each dog, each gunner having the assignment to shoot game put up by the dogs. Tentative assignments for the first pair of gunners starting Saturday morning are Stuart G. Prosser and Leslie G. McMahon.

SUIT DEMANDS ACCOUNTING BY BANK OFFICIALS

Asks That They Be Held Liable for Losses.

The officers and directors of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company were named defendants in a bill filed yesterday by a stockholder of the bank in the Superior court. The bill asks that the bank officials give a full accounting of the losses suffered by the bank during the depression and that they be held liable for those losses.

The plaintiff is Mrs. Wilhelmina Grubey, 550 Deming place, owner of 30 shares of the bank's stock, and conservator of the estate of her husband, George, who is insane, which holds 270 shares. Attorney Joseph F. Elward filed the bill, naming Stanley Field, chairman of the board; James R. Leavell, president of the bank, and all other officers and directors, both those now serving and those who have served at any time since Feb. 1, 1928. Officials of the bank refused to comment on the action until they had investigated it more thoroughly.

"I have no knowledge of the suit," said Mr. Leavell, "and without full information I am not in a position to comment."

Five Allegations in Bill.

Five allegations are made in the bill, the first being that the officers and directors were guilty of "wrongful, illegal, and fraudulent" mismanagement of assets in that they allowed exorbitant salaries, bonuses, and commissions to officers and directors and to "persons, corporations, and syndicates in which they were interested."

Another charge is that the bank made a large special loan to George M. Reynolds, who recently retired as chairman of the bank's board, and to corporations which he controlled, as a result of which the bank lost $20,000,000. Another charge is that the officers and directors failed to supervise properly the conduct of their employés, resulting in the embezzlement of approximately $2,000,000 by Walter E. Wolf, now in Joliet penitentiary. It is also alleged that large sums were lost and wasted in the conduct of the Continental Illinois company, the bank's bond sales affiliate.

The final charge is that the alleged mismanagement has made it necessary to write down the par value of the bank's capital stock from $75,000,000 to $25,000,000, and the replacement of the loss by the sale of $50,000,000 in preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Questions for President.

The bill sets forth four special interrogations which it asks the court to instruct President Leavell to answer. There are:

1. Set forth the salary, bonuses and commissions in excess of $15,000 earned by any employé of the bank since Jan. 1, 1928.

2. What loans in excess of $100,000 were made since Jan. 1, 1928, to officers or directors of any companies in which they were interested?

3. What loans in excess of $100,000 have been charged off as bad?

4. What was the net loss to the bank in the Wolf embezzlement?

The case has been assigned to Judge John P. McGoorty. Because of the number of summonses which must be served on the defendants, the preliminary hearing probably will not be held until next week.

WILLYS COMPANY RECEIVERSHIP IS FOUGHT BY BANK

Charges Plan to Block Bondholders.

Toledo, O., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Charges that the receivership action brought last winter against the Willys-Overland company by the Monroe Auto Equipment company was not brought in good faith, but was actually part of an "unconscionable and inequitable" plan to deprive the bondholders and other creditors of their rights was made today in federal court by the National City bank of New York as trustee for the bondholders.

The bank, in its answer to the Monroe company's complaint, alleged that, despite optimistic reorganization announcements by John N. Willys, one of the receivers; by the creditors' committee and by their representatives, there never had been a time when any of those making the announcements had any idea that the capital necessary to reorganization would be forthcoming.

For "Blocking" Purposes.

The purpose of the receivership is described in the bank's answer as an attempt to create a juris

ROOSEVELT AID TELLS THEORY OF GOLD PLANS

Pearson Says Prices Hinge on Metal.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Prof. F. A. Pearson of Cornell university asserted today that the United States can establish its internal business conditions largely independent of other nations by allowing the price of gold to vary.

Pearson, who collaborated with Prof. George F. Warren, adviser to President Roosevelt, in a study of gold and the price level, told the coöperative Grange league:

"When a country permits the price of gold to vary, it can establish any price level it desires independent of other countries, and by that act establish its internal business conditions largely independent of conditions prevailing in other countries."

33 Nations Lift Buying Prices.

The United States, he said, was one of 33 nations that have abandoned the attempt to maintain their legal fixed prices for gold and are raising the buying prices of the metal. France, Belgium and Italy, on the other hand, said Pearson, have retained the gold standard but have raised their buying price of gold above the pre-war amount by reducing the amount of metal in the monetary units.

"A dollar based on a legal fixed price for gold is a 'hard' dollar that rings true on the counters of the world," said Prof. Pearson. "That dollar buys a stable amount of foreign exchange of countries with monetary units that are 'hard,' that is—based on a fixed amount of gold.

"Because the value of gold varies widely, this 'hard' dollar does not ring true on the domestic counters. It buys commodities and services at one time that it does not at another.

Variable as to Value.

"So long as a nation buys gold at a legal fixed price, its monetary unit is 'hard' and fixed as to weight, but variable as to value. It makes no difference whether the monetary unit is called a dollar, pound, franc, or shilling."

In varying the prices of gold, said Pearson, the world is undertaking a gigantic experiment to overcome "the devastating effects of the rising value of gold and declining commodity prices."

"When this experiment is over some of the nations may have monetary units that are variable as to weight, but comparatively stable as to value."

The primary cause of the depression, said Prof. Pearson, was the collapse of commodity prices, and commodity prices are controlled by the supply of and demand for gold and the supply of and demand for commodities.

"It is a fundamental law of prices," he said, "that if the world stock of gold increases faster than production of other commodities, prices rise. Conversely, when the world stock of gold increases less than production of other commodities, prices fall."

Gold Up, Commodities Down.

After the war, he pointed out, the return of one country after another to the gold standard increased the demand for gold and the value of gold rose and commodity prices fell.

"With the price collapse, freight rates, electric rates, telephone and telegraph charges, taxes, debts, and most other fixed charges declined very little," he said. "Business could not proceed on its normal course until the fixed charges were reduced to the price level or the price level was raised to fixed charges. The effort to reduce fixed charges failed.

"The inability of creditors to collect culminated in a breakdown of the nation's credit system. The nation is now attempting to restore commodity prices to the level of taxes, wages, debts, and other fixed charges so that the creditor can collect."

Canada's Dollar Is Now Worth More Than Ours

Am. Telephone Likely to Pay Full Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 14.—Confidence is expressed in usually well informed quarters that directors of the American Telephone & Telegraph company at tomorrow's meeting will declare the regular quarterly dividend of $2.75 a share on the company's capital stock.

The same sources have correctly predicted the dividend action over the last year of uncertainty and any change in the rate at this time would come as more of a surprise than would have been the case early in the year when the outlook was less satisfactory.

The board will, however, have before it at the meeting two sets of figures showing the effect of the regular payment as well as a cut in the rate to a $7 annual basis. This procedure has been followed, however, for several meetings and in each instance the board has followed the recommendation of the management in respect to the authorization of the regular disbursement.

Gain in Telephones.

In addition to the improvement in traffic, the board will have the encouragement of figures showing that for two successive months the system has enjoyed a net gain in the number of telephones in service.

In September the gain was about 53,000 units, the first record for any month since November, 1931. Part of the increase in the system's telephones in service recorded for that month arose, however, from the switching over of private systems to the Bell lines. The actual gain from other subscribers was understood to have approximated 30,000 units.

The gain in telephones in service last month was less extensive, but an increase of moderate proportions was enjoyed—a development that has favorable implications in view of the fact that it indicated a definite turn in the tide toward more liberal use of communication facilities.

May Dip Into Surplus.

Payment of regular dividends this year will cause the American Telephone again to dip substantially into surplus, probably to the extent of about $70,000,000 on a consolidated basis. The strong financial position of the company apparently has justified such a course, however, and particularly now when conditions have improved considerably.

Net income of the system for the first nine months on a consolidated basis was at the annual rate of about $5.13 a share on the parent company's stock, compared with actual earnings of $5.96 a share for 1932.

U. S. PAYS 35 CENTS A POUND FOR PORK IN PIG BONUS PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—The government purchased 99,993,000 pounds of cured pork products, most of which have been distributed to the needy, in its emergency hog buying program in August and September. Including all costs the price per pound of cured meat was about 35 cents.

Reports today disclosed the government had acquired 6,199,948 pigs weighing 25 to 100 pounds and 220,087 sows which had been bred to litter this fall.

To date, $32,875,768 has been expended, with claims involving about $3,000,000 still unsettled. These involve payments to packers through whom the purchases were made and who processed the swine.

Farmers realized about $30,000,000, farm administrators estimated, with final processing expenditures expected to reach about $5,000,000.

Pigs below 80 pounds were not converted into food because of difficulty in processing them. Including them, the price per pound of cured meat would be about 35 cents exclusive of income expected to be realized through the sale of grease and other by-products.

The per pound cost of the pigs processed and which were converted into food for the needy has not been computed, but administrators said it likely would run higher than ordinary commercial operations because the prices paid for both pigs and sows were higher than market prices in a special effort to attract sales by farmers.

N. Y. Stock Exchange Seat Nets $120,000; Up $10,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 14.—Arrangements were completed today for the sale of a New York Stock exchange membership for $120,000, a gain of $10,000 over the sale announced yesterday. The high price paid for a seat on the big board this year was $250,000 June 13, and the low was $90,000, Feb. 24.

Farmers Get Bigger Part of Food Price Rise

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—A greater share for the farmer was recorded in the rising prices of foodstuffs during October, according to Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel for the agricultural adjustment administration.

During the last month, Dr. Howe said today, the upward swing in retail prices of fourteen important food commodities was halted. At the same time there were better farm prices for the same products.

He figured that the monthly cost of typical family amounts of beef, pork, lamb, chickens, eggs, milk, butter, cheese, rice, potatoes, flour, bread, and macaroni, reached $17.35 on Oct. 24. This compared with $17.95 on Sept. 26. However, farm prices for the same food were $6.70 on Oct. 24 and $6.62 on Sept. 27.

"So long as dealers' and processors' margins are kept at a reasonable level small increases in retail prices may benefit the farmers and workers greatly," Dr. Howe pointed out. "From February to Oct. 24, the farm price of these 14 foods advanced 47 per cent while the increased cost to the consumer was 20 per cent. Excluding the 36 cents paid on the wheat processing tax, the advance in margin was 5 per cent."

Not all of the fourteen foods showed the slight decline in margin which the group as a whole registered. Bread was an exception. Until a few weeks ago the increase in average bread prices was explained by the increased cost of flour and other ingredients. During the last few weeks, however, the margin between retail bread prices and the cost of materials has been higher than it was early in 1933. The cost of wages represents only a small part of the spread.

U.S. AGAIN TAKES HAND IN SWINE PRICE BATTLE

Buys 9,000 Head at Top of $4.60.

The deadlock between packers and commission men in the Chicago live stock market continued yesterday with the federal government again abetting the sellers by purchasing another 9,000 hogs which will be used for relief purposes this winter.

The packers stuck by their guns and refused to match the $4.60 down price which the government paid for its pork. Meanwhile, prices in other markets throughout the country continued to decline below the Chicago price and the supply of hogs in the market here increased.

The government purchase yesterday of 9,000 head brings its total purchases to 28,000. The unsold carryover in the Chicago market was swelled by 18,000 yesterday despite the government's purchases. Commission men remained in the market an hour later than usual in the hope that the Federal Surplus Relief corporation, the U. S. buying agent, would step in again to relieve the situation, but no further orders appeared.

Start Slaughter of Hogs.

With the cost of maintaining the hogs already bought increasing, the government yesterday awarded the first batch to the Illinois Packing company for slaughtering. The first award was 1,500 hogs, and others are expected to be made today.

In refusing to raise their price the packers contended that hogs here were selling 15 to 25 cents above last week's prices in the face of a recession in the wholesale pork trade.

Supplies of hogs at other leading markets are running larger and the movement of dressed hogs to local packers the last few days has been too heavy for the pork trade, packers report. The range of wholesale pork loins yesterday, according to a government report, sank to 10 to 12½ cents a pound. Early last week they were bringing 10 to 14 cents.

Packers brought direct hogs into Chicago yesterday from more than fifteen points, including some that are ordinarily referred to as "eastern" markets, such as Indianapolis, where prices usually are slightly above the Chicago price.

Chicago Base Market.

The Chicago market has long been regarded as the base market for the country. Normally, prices at other points to a great extent are determined by the quotations established at Chicago. However, with prices here forced out of line by government buying, most of these smaller points are working independently of Chicago, putting the Chicago price level far above practically all other points. Yesterday's top price here, at $4.60, paid by city butchers and government buyers, equaled the highest point in more than three weeks and was 10 cents above the "pegged" price of $4.50 established for good grades by the government here last Saturday in an attempt to break the deadlock.

Strikes Have Little Effect.

Strikes in Iowa, which cut the receipts of live stock at many of the other points, had little effect on the movement to markets yesterday.

Selling Shares 'in Bottles' New Wrinkle in Stock Distribution

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The latest thing in security financing is the sale of stock by the bottle.

A La Salle street broker is offering—when, as and if prohibition is repealed—the following "package": one case of 12 quart bottles of Hiram Walker & Sons, Ltd., Canadian Club whisky, plus one share of common and one of preferred stock of hypothetical Illinois distillery company—all for the sum of $26.50, plus duty and taxes.

The prospectus carefully points out that there is to be no "public offering" of the stock, that the sale is that of whisky with the stock thrown in as a "bonus."

* *

This stock has been qualified as a class "D" security by the security division of the secretary of state's office. No chances are to be taken with the new federal securities law. The stock "will be delivered only to persons resident within the state of Illinois."

The company whose stock is to be used as wrappers for the whisky bottles was organized in November "for the purpose of engaging in the business of rectifying, blending and manufacturing alcoholic beverages." The company, however, is still on paper only. Its plant is to be built, says the prospectus, with the money realized from the proceeds of this unique sale. An escrow arrangement is set up to insure accumulation of proceeds from this offering until they total $105,000.

Some years ago an outfit called the Wrigley Pharmaceutical company and which operated in New Jersey and sold stock all over the country had a plan similar to this. They sold crates of "Spearmint" tooth paste and gave the stock as a bonus. The proprietor was one W. W. Wrigley. The William Wrigley Jr. company, makers of "Spearmint" chewing gum raised a strenuous protest against this obvious attempt to trade on their name and the tooth paste stock salesmen faded out of the picture.

* *

Down at the stock yards the packers are wondering what the effect of the governments "stabilization" of hog prices will be. Fears are expressed that if the federal men keep on buying hogs in Chicago at prices above the market without doing likewise in other principal hog markets a deluge of hogs will flood the Chicago market.

"One of these days if they keep this up we'll get a hundred thousand hogs," says one old timer.

Ordinarily the nation bases hog prices on Chicago quotations. Cincinnati, Omaha and other stock yard cities look at the Chicago prices and then adjust their own accordingly.

Since the government stepped into Chicago to peg hog prices, however, that situation has changed and for the first time in many years outside markets are making their own quotations regardless of the pegged quotations here.

Thus in markets where hogs normally sell at higher prices than at Chicago, hogs are now selling at lower prices. If this keeps on hog raisers probably will not be slow to take advantage of the government supported market in Chicago by shipping them here in droves.

The appointment of L. C. Probert as vice president of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad is regarded in railroad circles as recognition for the cause of air-condition of passenger trains.

It was Dick Probert who put through the air conditioning of all through passenger trains on the C. & O. The big business of this railroad is the hauling of coal. That business has been so profitable that during the depression the C. & O. has stood out as the only major railroad that has maintained its dividends at the pre-depression rates.

The passenger business, however, hasn't been ignored and the results have shown that whenever one of its trains was air conditioned its revenues immediately began to pick up.

The appointment also again brings together an old time engine crew. When J. J. Bernet, now president of the Chesapeake and Ohio was an engineer on the New York Central, Probert was his fireman.

SILVER JUMPS TO 45 CENTS, NEW THREE YEAR HIGH

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Speculative buying in the silver market today pushed prices for spot metal and futures to new high levels.

Bar silver repeated its sharp advance of the preceding day with an upturn of 1¼ cents to 45 cents an ounce, the peak level since April, 1930.

The turnover in futures approximated 17,975,000 ounces, the second largest volume on record.

Prices were bid up more than 1 cent an ounce in the active positions, although heavy realizing in the late trading reduced the maximum gains.

December futures sold up more than 1 cent at the extreme high, touching 45.85 cents and closed at 44.80 to 44.85 cents. January finished at 45 cents, February 45.20 cents, March 45.40 to 45.45 cents, April 45.71 cents, May 46 cents, June 46.17 cents, July 46.35 cents, and September 46.70 cents.

London spot quotations were slightly lower.

I. C. C. Is Asked to Delay Order on Switching Rates

BRITISH DEFICIT SHRINKS AGAIN AS REVENUES GROW

(Copyright: 1933: by the New York Times.)

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The continuous improvement of Great Britain's finances was shown by this week's exchequer returns, published tonight. Not only did the government's revenue increase £1,368,275 in the week, compared with the corresponding week last year, but its expenditure was £282,423 less.

The result is that the government's deficit amounts to only £67,970,931, compared to £110,213,910 on the same date last year.

Since the British financial year does not end until March 31 and the heaviest income tax receipts are still to come, there is every prospect of a surplus and a reduction in taxation next spring.

Receivership Is Asked for 1430 Lake Shore Bldg.

The Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee, yesterday filed suit in the Circuit court to foreclose a $1,100,000 mortgage on the 1430 Lake Shore Drive Building corporation. The trust company alleges in its bill that no principal or interest payments have been made on the bonds since Sept. 1, 1930. A receiver was asked. The twenty-four story structure is a coöperative venture erected in 1927 and financed by the Garard Trust company.

DOLLAR FALLS UNDER 61 CENTS; STERLING SOARS

U. S. Unit Gold Value Plunges in Paris.

New York, Nov. 14.—The depreciation of the dollar in foreign exchange proceeded rapidly today. While the RFC set a valuation of 61.59 cents on the currency by establishing a gold buying price of $33.56 an ounce, 11 cents higher than Monday's price, the foreign exchange market in terms of French gold francs appraised the dollar at 60.37 cents at the lowest point of the day and at 60.83 cents at the close of business.

Sterling soared to $5.33¼, a new peace time high, and closed at $5 27½, up 11½ cents. All gold standard exchanges went to record highs for the present units. The franc went to 6.49 cents, compared with parity of 3.92 cents, and closed at 6.44 cents, up 13 points net.

Canadian Dollar at $1.01½.

Canadian dollars reached 101.50 cents, the highest price since the early days of the world war.

The RFC gold price again fell below the dollar equivalent of the London bullion price during the day, although it began above the London level. In London a price of 128 shillings 7 pence was fixed for bar gold. This was 6½ pence lower than Monday's quotation and the lowest price quoted in London since the RFC began its operations. Converted into dollars at the opening rate for sterling here, $5.21, the London price was equal to $33.37, or 19 cents under the rate fixed by the RFC for purchases of newly mined domestic gold. At the day's high of $5.33¼ for sterling, however, the London bullion price had a dollar value of $34.15, or 59 cents over the RFC price.

Sterling Demand Heavy.

Foreign exchange dealers reported that holders of dollars were seeking refuge from its decline in value chiefly in pounds. When a shortage of buyers appeared in London exchange, dollar holders bought francs and exchanged them for sterling in Paris. Selling of the dollar came both from New York and continental points, chiefly Paris.

French francs, dealers said, were following the pound upward with the help of the British equalization fund. A tendency for francs to lag behind the rising pound in the early trading, which was overcome later, was credited to workings of the British fund.

Dispatches from Washington reported that purchases of gold in foreign markets since the gold buying program began had aggregated only $6,000,000, comparatively minor transactions.

Change Postoffice Rate.

The postoffice department yesterday notified postmasters of new rate schedules covering the issuance of international money orders which have been selling below the current rate. [Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 14.—Weakness in United States government bonds in line with the decline of the dollar in the foreign exchange market contrasted with the sharp advance in leading foreign loans on the stock exchange today. U. S. government's issues were off 2-32ds to 20-32ds point on the day, with the exception of the called Fourth Liberty 4¼s and the Treasury 3¾s due 1947, callable 1943, which held unchanged. The losses, however, did not erase in full the gains of the previous day.

Transactions in government issues on the stock exchange reached $8,782,500, the heaviest since May 20, 1932.

New Issue Off 8-32d Point.

By far the heaviest dealings appeared in the new Treasury 4¼s and 3¼s which during the course of the day sold as high as 99 25-32ds, as low as 99 10-32ds, finishing at 99 18-32ds, off 8-32ds on the day. A block of $1,277,000 changed hands at 99 21-32ds.

Many foreign loans were lifted 1 to more than 4 points, with French government and municipal, Dutch East Indies, and Swiss government issues leading. Swiss government 5s were lightly traded despite the news that holders are invited by the Swiss government to convert their holdings at the rate of 5.12 Swiss francs to the dollar into new 20 year 4 per cent bonds of 150,000,000 Swiss francs offered at 99¾. The current rate for the Swiss franc is 31.85 cents.

Industries Weakest.

Domestic corporation bonds moved irregularly lower with industrial issues showing greater average losses than railroad or utility issues. Most of the losses ranged from fractions to about 3 points although some issues dropped 3 to 8 points. As usual the major losses occurred in infrequently dealt in issues.

Curb domestic bonds closed weak, maximum losses raning up to 6 points. Foreign loans were generally higher in fairly active trading.

Ludlum Steel.

Investors' Guide: Please give me a line on Ludlum Steel.—N. C. C.

Answer: Ludlum Steel company manufactures special alloy steel products. The bulk of its business is received in small orders. Principal outlet is the automobile industry, which normally takes about half of total output. The remainder is sold to makers of machine tools, building specialties, chemical producers and oil refiners.

A net profit of $166,000, or 46 cents per common share, in the third quarter of 1933 lifted the company out of the red and enabled it to finish the first nine months of this year with net profit of $79,000, which was slightly more than one-third of preferred dividend requirements. For the corresponding 1932 period, which was generally poor for steel manufacturers, loss was $241,000.

The following is the condensed record of operations for the last four years:

| | Net sales. | Net loss. | Earn. per com. shr |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1932 | $2,044,000 | $474,000 | *$3.90 |
| 1931 | 3,204,000 | 99,000 | *2.10 |
| 1930 | 4,431,000 | 434,000 | *3.72 |
| 1929 | 7,770,000 | †920,000 | 3.68 |

*Deficit. †Profit.

On Dec. 31, 1932, current assets, including cash of $637,000, totaled $2,640,000, and current liabilities were $116,000. There were no bank loans. Profit and loss deficit was $99,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization is represented by 46,050 shares of $6.50 convertible no par preferred and 198,405 shares of $1 par common.

Nothing has been paid on the preferred since Oct. 1, 1930, and unpaid accumulated dividends on the stock now total about $19.50 a share. A special meeting has been called for Nov. 20, 1933, to discuss the plan to offer to holders of the preferred the option of accepting $1 a share in cash, cancelling the accumulated dividends, which will total about a million dollars at the close of the year, and raising the conversion value of the preferred from one share of common to five.

Both the preferred and common are speculative.

Defaulted Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Is interest being paid on all bonds listed on the New York Stock exchange? I notice that some bonds are listed as low as $6. M. G. J.

Answer: The mere fact that a bond defaults in interest does not serve automatically to delist it from the New York Stock exchange. There are many issues listed that are in default.

OPENING STOCK GAINS MELT ON CAPITAL FLIGHT

Some Leaders as Much as 5 Points Off.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 14.—The tumbling dollar was no help at all to today's stock market. Although the standard unit of Uncle Sam's monetary system fell to the lowest level since the civil war as measured by foreign exchange, leading shares yielded rather easily to such selling as came their way and the close found some of them quoted as much as 5 points below yesterday's figures.

Even the gold mining issues were unable to stem the tide. Homestake gave up some 8 points of a 23 point gain run up in the early dealings and Alaska Juneau and Dome Mines both surrendered early advance of about a point each to finish around their previous ratings. U. S. Smelting and American Smeling and the other so-called silver producers likewise were unable to take heart from the dollar's troubles.

Flight of Capital Factor.

Opinion was that the bearish influence generated by the exodus of capital on account of the monetary situation had outweighed the inflationary factors of the day and caused a rush to the selling side of the market. The selling developed late in the day, earlier dealings having marked an advance that carried many issues up 1 to 3 points. Activity picked up after the turn and closing prices in most instances were the lows of the session.

Repeal stocks were sold in heavy volume and National Distillers, the leader of the group, broke more than six points from its early high. The issue finished at 89, off 5 points on the day. American Commercial Alcohol closed at a net loss of 3 points in place of its forenoon gain and U. S. Industrial Alcohol was off about as much.

Oils Rise, Then Fall.

In the oil section Standard of New Jersey reached another new high, but fell back with the rest of the market to a fractional loss. Other oils followed the leader up and down.

Trading was spirited on both movements in such market favorites as American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Sears-Roebuck, and Case Threshing. Most of them were sharply higher for the first two hours or so, with the gains melting away and being replaced by substantial losses toward the end.

Railroad stocks were never better than irregular and New York Central, Atchison, Union Pacific, and Delaware and Hudson showed losses of 1 to nearly 3 points at the close.

Utilities were depressed as usual. Farm shares made about as good a showing as any group. Some traders were reported switching from steel and possibly other erstwhile favorites into International Harvester.

ICKES TELLS OIL MEN HE WILL NOT RELAX CONTROL

Replies to Proposal That Power Be Shifted.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator, tonight told the oil industry that he had no intention of relaxing his control over federal efforts to reëstablish an industry that had failed to govern itself.

Ickes gave this notice in a statement commenting on reports that Wirt Franklin, chairman of the planning and coördinating committee of the oil code, had urged oil men to appeal to the secretary that "control of the industry be vested completely with the planning and coördination committee."

This committee represents the oil industry on the code. It is subject to Ickes who is given wide powers under the charter.

Probes Reported Violations.

At the same time the secretary announced that J. Howard Marshall, assistant solicitor of the interior department, had been sent to California to investigate reports of violations of production control allocations. Ickes reiterated that all such violators would be dealt with "swiftly and severely in the courts."

Commenting on Franklin's remarks, made at a meeting of independent oil men at Tulsa, Okla., the secretary said:

"It is the intention of the oil administrator to conserve the powers delegated to him by the President and to exercise those powers whenever there is necessity for so doing in the interests of the industry.

"And may I also say that up to the time the oil code was adopted, the oil industry had all the opportunity in the world to be such a self-governing industry as Mr. Franklin now says that it ought to be.

Doubts Franklin Is Supported.

"I doubt whether he represents any considerable sentiment in the oil industry itself if he advocates a return to the state of confusion, of cut throat business methods, of undercutting of prices, of selling crude oil below the cost of production, of gasoline price wars from which the oil industry suffered when it was a 'self-governing' industry.

"There is no conflict in authority between the petroleum administrative board and the planning and coördinating committee. The board was set up by me to make a study of the facts with respect to the oil industry and to advise me on questions of law and of fact. The planning and coördination committee has and will continue to have such limited powers as are granted to it by the code."

Franklin Denies Break.

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 14.—(AP)—As rumors began to fly in the Midcontinent field over seriousness of a reported break between the petroleum administrative board and the planning and coordinating committee over supervision of the oil code, Wirt Franklin, chairman of the latter group, today issued a denial there is "any discord."

"There are natural disagreements occasionally and divergent points of view on some questions, but there is no strife," said Franklin. "There is a larger degree of coöperation than might have been expected."

PROVISIONS RISE; LARD EXPORT DEMAND GOOD

A stronger undertone prevailed in the hog and cured pork products market, due largely to efforts of the government to force hog prices higher and prospects of absorbing a large percentage of hogs and products available within the next few months. Packing interests are not disposed to sell futures freely.

There is a good demand for lard for export. The last boat to leave Chicago with lard for Europe is loading and will sail within a few days.

Closing prices on lard futures were 5 to 12½ cents up on old, and 5 to 10 cents on new style deliveries, while bellies were up 7½ to 12½ cents.

Cash lard was 5 cents higher at 6.20 for regular, with loose up 7½ cents at 5.97½ cents, and leaf lard up 12½ cents to 6.12½ cents. Cash bellies were 20 cents higher at 5.97½ cents.

Exports of lard were 146,721 pounds, and bacon 7,500 pounds.
